[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BEIRUT (Syria) July 19.—The Bedouin tribes of Northern Mesopotamia have formed a coalition against the French, while Feisal, head of the Syrian state, is endeavoring to organize the bandits west of Aleppo into a movement against the French.

Clashes between the Arabs and French are expected soon and the situation is tense.

The Lebanon Legislative Assembly is reported to have agreed secretly with Feisal that autonomous Lebanon shall be part of the Syrian kingdom.

POLES WITHDRAWING.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WARSAW, July 19.—The Poles are withdrawing to the south and southwest from the railway junction of Lida, which has been occupied by the Bolsheviki in their drive in the direction of Grodno.

This Bolshevik sweep across Lithuania is giving the soviet forces possession of a rich harvest, as they are occupying thousands of acres planted by the Poles, the grain and hay now standing in stacks. The Polish population is fleeing before the enrush, the peasants crowding the roads with their live stock and vehicles loaded with household goods.

RELIEF FOOD MOVED.

The food in the warehouses at Bielostok, stored there for the use of the children who are fed by the American Relief Association, is being loaded on cars for shipment to a safer place. The refugees in the Bielostok region are also being removed as a precautionary measure.

It is said in Polish quarters that the retreat on the northern front is being continued in an orderly way, according to plans, without the loss of a single locomotive.

All the Bolshevik attacks along the southern front have been repulsed. The soviet troops have been repeatedly attempting to break through here, with Lemberg as their objective.

Gen. Budenny is using cavalry for the most part in this effort, but the infantry likewise is attempting to force various rivers and other forti-

The region is heavily populated with Bulgarian Moslems; so much so that Bulgaria entered a weighty claim for the territory, during the peace conference. There also is a large number of Greeks, Turks, and Bulgarian Christians.

The Greeks recently landed on the Thracian coast, under the protection of British gunboats, but so far, it is reported, have not ventured inland beyond the range of the naval guns. Probably drawn up before them, ready to contest their advance, are the Turkish forces of Jafar Tayar, the Sultan's commander of the region, with a residence at Adrianople.

Large numbers of Bulgarian irregular troops have joined Tayar, it is reported, but up to this time there had been no official action from Sofia.

There is considerable doubt in Constantinople how the situation will develop if the Bulgarians fight the Greeks. The Allies have no troops to send in aid of the Greeks.

Republican Vice-Presidential Nominee is Resting.

Gov. Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts, wife and two boys, John and "Cal."

PLYMOUTH (Vt.) July 18.—Gov. Coolidge of Massachusetts, Republican nominee for Vice-President, is on a rest. With Mrs. Coolidge and their two sons, John and Calvin, he is on his father's farm in the hills of Vermont.

The farm, a hilly one, situated at the top of Plymouth notch, consists of over 200 acres, partly wooded and partly cultivated. Long meadows of hay and oats are banked with fruit trees, heavily laden with sweet Vermont apples and juicy plums.

The farmouse, sandwiched between the Plymouth cheese factory and the home of Gov. Coolidge's aunt, Mrs. J. J. Wilder, is a cosy New England home, white with swinging green blinds.

FAMOUS BOOTS.

He recites with interest, the history of the boots. They were made for his grandfather, when he was elected to the legislature at Montpelier in 1858, and he wore them continually throughout the session. Gov. Coolidge wears them now when he tinkers around the farm.

A frock which the Governor wears when he works in the fields is a relic of his grandfather's days. It is of denim, and slides over the head like an army shirt, and is not unlike the frocks worn by artists. In it, the Governor portrays an entirely different man from the one who sits in the Boston capitol, immaculately attired.

By way of adding to his hearty appetite for the splendid country cooking prepared by his father's housekeeper, the Governor frequently goes into the meadows before the mist has cleared and mows a good-sized corner of the field before the breakfast bell rings. He says it is much more invigorating than golf, and fully as remunerative, although he humorously adds that some chaps make more at golf than they would at farming.

J. C. Coolidge has a large wood pile in front of the house. Most of it was originally chopped for stove wood, but several chunks were left for the open fireplace. When the elderly farmer, who is 75 years old, returned from a fishing trip recently, he found all the larger pieces suthered to kindling, and learned that "Cal" had spent a part of the forenoon lustily swinging the axe. The old gentleman said nothing about the wood being intended for the fireplace, but smiled, went in the house and prepared an appetizing mess of brook trout from the Ottaquechee.

The Governor's father has been town constable for forty years, and a member of the legislature for nearly as long. His aunt, Mrs. J. J. Wilder, who is past eighty years, lives in the adjoining house. She and "Cal" sat all of one afternoon, reminiscing of the days when the town was snow-bound and traffic impassable.

Gov. Coolidge first learned of the nomination of Gov. Cox and Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Democratic ticket, the day after the nominations were made. The stage driver, driving the old-fashioned stage from Ludlow to Woodstock, brought the news from Ludlow, it was nearly a day old then. The Governor had no statement to make regarding the Democratic selections. When asked for one, he said significantly, that he was preparing his speech for the notification ceremonies at Northampton, July 27. He expected to stay at his father's farm until about July 23.

John and Calvin, the Governor's two sons, are ardent anglers like their grandfather, and recently caught twenty-two speckled trout. The Governor himself is not a fisherman.

HUGE WAGE AWARD BY RAILWAY LABOR BOARD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, July 19.—The railway labor board, created under the Esch-Cummins Transportation Act, will hand down at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow its first award, increasing the pay of virtually all of the 2,000,000 railroad employees.

Tonight, reports from reliable quarters indicated the award would average from 50 to 60 per cent of the amounts asked by the men, or between $500,000,000 and $600,000,000 of the billion-dollar total they sought.

Judge R. M. Barton, chairman, admitted "that is not far off," when shown the report.

Whether an award on the basis reported will be acceptable to the men, no union officer tonight was prepared to say. Nearly 1000 brotherhood chairmen and executives assembled today to discuss Union affairs and adjourned until tomorrow.

A feeling of pessimism was evident when union leaders met, and privately, they did not hesitate to declare a general strike was a possibility.

Tonight, however, it was virtually certain that the union chiefs themselves would not call a strike, but would submit the question of accepting or rejecting the board's award to a referendum.

The labor board today began investigating the looting of its offices last night, when some one broke in and stole among other things, a copy of the award. Two copies had been prepared, one for the board's files and the other for the printer. It was the former which was stolen.

PENNSYLVANIA ROAD ACTS.

While an air of doubt hung over the railroad situation here, it was announced from Philadelphia that the Pennsylvania Railroad planned a 10 per cent reduction in its working force this week.

The road's announcement said that in the eastern region between 11,000 and 12,000 workers would be laid off.

WATCH "BIG FIVE."

The most closely watched conference of rail leaders today was that of the "big five" group, comprising the Brotherhood of Railway Engineers, Firemen, Conductors, Trainmen and Switchmen.

Representatives of the six federated shop crafts, including the blacksmiths, boilermakers, carpenters and electricians, also were in session, while leaders of the maintenance employees—clerks, freight handlers and laborers, met in several conferences.

"There is nothing to be said yet," said W. S. Stone, grand chief of the enginemen. "We are here to receive the awards of the railroad wage board tomorrow. None of us know what the award will be. We are talking things over today."

Immediately after announcement of the award tomorrow, the grand council of the brotherhoods will be called. It will be the first session in more than a year. Sixteen groups of rail workers will be represented. They will act upon the award, section by section.

At the general meeting of the union heads today secrecy was maintained.

The only union leader outspoken concerning the situation was S. E. Heberling, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America. He declared the unions were not bound to accept the awards. Asserting that he "should not like to see a general strike called," he said that with the switchmen asking a 60 per cent increase, "a compromise would hardly be acceptable."

"If the award is not sufficient to assure us a decent living, we will take concerted action," he said.

OUTLAWS IN SESSION.

While the recognized brotherhood chiefs were in session, another group representing the new rail unions organized during the rail strikes in April, met under the leadership of John Grunau, president of the Chicago Yardmen's Association, to formulate plans of their own.

They have asked that their seniority rights be restored.

The board refused to hear their representatives, and it was understood that the awards would not touch on their status.

Grunau was to have appeared before the United States Commissioner today to answer a charge of conspiracy, but the case was continued until August 23.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 19.—Two hundred Irish girls from the American liner New York, which arrived this morning from Southampton, today joined the 1413 from the White Star liner Celtic, which arrived Saturday at Ellis Island immigration station.

But there was little joy in this announcement for American housekeepers searching for kitchen help.

The New York's complement from Erin are here seeking higher jobs than that. Most of them are stenographers, clerks or chauffeurs.

UNION LABOR MEN ENJOINED BY COURT.

SIOUX CITY, July 19.—Union labor butchers were permanently enjoined by District Judge J. W. Anderson today from picketing meat markets which the men consider unfair to organized labor.

MILITIA FIRES AS CROWD SEEKS TO TAKE NEGROES; MORE TROUBLE EXPECTED

DURHAM (N. C.) July 19.—Jim Ray, 45, of Graham, was killed; Willie Phillips of Graham seriously injured and Clem Bradshaw of Haw River slightly wounded tonight when a masked mob attempted to storm the Almance County Jail where three negroes charged with assault on a white woman are held, according to a statement by Capt. Marion B. Fowler, commanding the Durham machine-gun company, guarding the jail.

"Absolutely false," Capt. Fowler said in connection with the report that no reason could be assigned for the shooting. "The masked mob," he said, "fired the first shots. The machine gunners returned the fire with machine guns and side arms."

The man killed and the two men injured were not members of the mob, Capt. Fowler said.

The mob that stormed the jail was made up of about fifty men. They surrounded the building and made a concerted attack, Capt. Fowler said. As they ran toward the jail they emptied revolvers and rifles at the structure.

The soldiers and maghine guns had been placed inside the building and by order of Capt. Fowler they returned the fire. The battle lasted for three minutes. More than 100 shots were fired. "We used both the machine guns and side arms," Capt. Fowler said.

The bullets fired by the mob rattled about the jail and through the barred windows.

Several shots came dangerously near the soldiers, but none of them were injured.

At 12:30 a.m. Capt. Fowler, talking over a telephone inside the jail, said: "All is quiet, but we are expecting another attack."

Col. Van Metts, adjutant-general of North Carolina, Capt. Fowler said, is hurrying to Graham in an automobile.

GREENSBORO (N. C.) July 19.—Bloodhounds trailed from the home of the woman attacked to a servant's house at Rainey Hospital, near by, and the three negroes were found in bed together, arrested and placed in jail. Citizens Sunday persuaded the crowds not to attack the jail. In the meantime a company of machine-gun men arrived from Durham on orders of Gov. Bickett, who instructed them "to shoot and shoot straight."

Crowds stayed around the jail until nearly daylight this morning, but then dispersed. The day passed quietly and the officials expected no further trouble. Tonight, with the street lights out, a crowd gathered near the jail and fire was opened by the machine gunners.

After this all the soldiers were withdrawn from outside the building and put on guard within the prison. Reports late tonight stated that the crowds are rapidly diminishing and officials declared they expected no further trouble tonight.

RALEIGH (N. C.) July 19.—Adjt.-Gen. Metts on hearing tonight that there had been a clash between National Guardsmen and a crowd at Graham N. C., ordered additional troops to the town and announced that he would proceed there immediately on a special train.

HUN CHIEFS BLAMED.

German War Leaders Indicted.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, July 19.—The report of the second subcommittee of the Committee of Investigation on President Wilson's peace effort during the winter of 1916-1917, prepared by Prof. Sinsheimer, former Socialist member of the Reichstag, draws the conclusion that President Wilson's action made peace overtures possible, but that the German government, not availing itself of them, took instead a stand for unrestricted U-boat warfare.

The report, made available here today, is signed by six members of the different political parties. It is a grave indictment of Germany's military dictators.

The report shows how the economists of Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg's civil government, even Dr. Karl Helferich, then Minister of Finance, did not believe unrestricted U-boat warfare could insure victory.

AMERICA MISJUDGED.

As the gravest mistake the report mentions that America's resources were underestimated. The report says it was argued the submarines would prevent transportation of American troops "if there were any." It further declares that the submarines failed to terrorize sufficiently neutral shipping, that not sufficient attention was paid to the anti-U-boat measures of Germany's enemies, and that when America entered the war the military authorities failed to make adequate provision for its inevitable lengthy protraction.

That the German public was grossly misled is a further charge in the report, which implies that although the economic "experts" gave adhesion to unrestricted U-boat warfare at the behest of the military leaders, experts were rabid party men and did not include really first-class authorities.

ARGUMENT PREVENTED.

In fact, the report says, "no arguments against U-boat warfare were permitted to be placed" before the Reichstag.

The report mentions the withholding from public knowledge of communications from Dr. Haniel Von Haimhausen, formerly chancellor of the German Embassy at Washington; Dr. Franz Von Papen, former military attache to the Embassy; and Dr. Heinrich F. Albert, former commercial attache to the embassy, who, being familiar with the American situation, warned against unrestricted U-boat warfare.

The report mentions notably Von Papen's message to Gen. Erich Von Falkenhayn, former chief of the German staff:

"If you fail to keep the United States out you have lost the war."

CAUSE OF COLLAPSE.

Capitulation of the civil government's misgivings to what now has proved to be the mistaken policy of frightfulness and the fact that the Reichstag was kept in ignorance of the real situation, according to the report, caused Germany's collapse.

"The historical blame of Germany's political government is," the report continues, "that on the vital question of Germany's existence it allowed to happen that which in its execution was poisonous to the country.

"The blame of the military leadership is that, knowing unrestricted U-boat warfare would inevitably entail America's entry, it played the card."

"I agree to be declined. An end must be made once and for all to negotiations with America. If Wilson wants war he can make and have it."

A minority report consists mainly of arguments that President Wilson's efforts were not definite enough and that there were sufficient reasons for unrestricted U-boat warfare.

MISSOURI 100 YEARS OLD.

JEFFERSON CITY (Mo.) July 19.—Missouri today celebrated her 100th birthday, having become a de facto State with full complement of officers and adopted a constitution July 19, 1820.

Officially the centennial anniversary is nearly thirteen months distant, as the State was not admitted into the Union until Aug. 10, 1821. Admission was delayed until the Missouri constitution provision denying to negroes and mulattoes residence in the State was nullified.

TAMPICO STRIKE WEAKENS.

MEXICO CITY, July 18.—The general strike in Tampico partly ended today, where the street car men, electric railway men and chauffeurs resumed work.

No agreement between the petroleum companies and their striking employees has yet been reached, according to Excelsior.

After dominating the rich agricultural region of the State of Tabasco, in Southern Mexico, for two years, the rebels have been driven out, according to a report sent to Minister of War Calles by Col. E. Brabater.

After several encounters, Brabater says, the insurgents left thirty-five dead and eighteen wounded on the field and took a number of other casualties with them.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Advices to the State Department from the Embassy at Mexico City today were that Gen. Pablo Gonzales, arrested at Monterey last week, would be placed on trial today on a charge of rebellion.

Gen. Ricardo Gonzales, a nephew of Gen. Pablo Gonzales, with about thirty men, were reported Friday in the neighborhood of Jarith, going toward Progreso, State of Coahuila. He was one of those who rebelled at Monclova two weeks ago and attempted to effect a union with Gens. Osuna and Guajardo.

The reports to the State Department indicate that Osuna and Ricardo Gonzales are moving before Federal forces, but no word has been received of the capture and execution of Guajardo, reported in press dispatches.

LATE MORNING NEWS

Howat Must Testify.

PITTSBURG (Kan.) July 19.—President Alexander M. Howat and other officials of the Kansas Mine Workers' Union, must testify before the new Kansas industrial relations court or go to jail, the Superior Court ruled today.

Daniels on Way Back.

SEATTLE, July 19.—The battleship Idaho with Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Secretary of the Interior Payne aboard will arrive at Seattle July 23 from Alaska, according to wireless advices received today. The two Cabinet officials, with Admiral Hugh Rodman, commander of the Pacific Fleet, have been inspecting Alaskan coal and oil fields and the government railroad.

Italy Sends Troops.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Italy is sending troops to the line of demarcation between Jugo-Salvia and Italy in anticipation of fresh disorders on the Dalmatian coast, says cable dispatches received today by the Jugo-Slav Legation.

Disorders at Trieste against the Jugo-Slav population were said to have spread along the Istrian coast and to have resulted in considerable destruction of property at Pola.

Accident in Aquitania.

LONDON, July 19.—An engineer was killed and a stoker injured on the Cunard Liner Aquitania off the coast of Ireland today when the stop valve of one of the boilers of the steamship blew off, according to a wireless dispatch.

The steamer made repairs and then proceeded to New York.

Joachim's Funeral Today.

BERLIN, July 19.—The mental condition of Prince Joachim, who committed suicide, had latelycaused his family grave concern. His adjutant with whom he conversed late Friday without indicating a design to take his own life, was so alarmed by the Prince's depression that he told Prince Eitel of the younger brother's condition.

Joachim, says the National Zeitung, after taking leave of his 3-year-old son, shot himself through the chest Friday night. Some reports are that Joachim suffered from the belief that he would be driven from his home by the republican government. The action for divorce brought by his wife, who left him a year ago, also preyed on his mind.

The body of Joachim lay in state today in the Freidenskirche Potsdam, where it will be buried Tuesday in privacy.

DECLARES LETTER FOR STEPHENS WAS TRAP.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—K. A. Kanzaki, secretary of the Japanese Association of America, told the Immigration and Naturalization Committee of the House of Representatives today that he believed in restriction of Japanese immigration in the United States, but that 30,000 to 40,000 more could properly be accommodated in addition to the 87,000 already here.

This additional number would help to bring the proportion of men and women to a fair basis and would not complicate racial or economic questions, he said. He was not prepared to answer the question of Representative Siegel as to whether all Japanese residing in this country, regardless of their place of birth, should be admitted to American citizenship after having shown proper qualifications.

His testimony on various phases of the Japanese question in the United States, with full, direct answers to all the questions asked, was a contrast with the morning session, when K. A. Kawakami, Japanese writer publicity agent, underwent a hard quizzing regarding his activities in this country and his connection with officials of the Japanese government.

TELLS OF LETTER.

Kawakami could not be shaken from from the statement in his communication to the committee last week that the letter he composed, but could not induce George Shima, president of the Japanese Association of America, to sign was a decoy for Senator Phelan, the stenographic notes being thrown in the wastebasket and a transcribed letter later appearing in Senator Phelan's testimony before the committee. Kawakami, admitted, however, that George Shima did not know it was a trap.

INSERT A JAPANESE ATTACKS PHELAN.

Col. John P. Irish, a witness, declared Senator Phelan ought to be compelled to tell how he came in possession of the letters Kawakami said were decoys. He asserted also that both Senator Phelan and William Kent had "grub-staked" the California Oriental Exclusion League as part of their Senatorial campaign expenses and that they should be required to account for this money.

Kanzaki said Japanese in California had been the victims of considerable misinformation, among them the charge of concealment of facts about themselves. The witness pointed out that many of the statistics in the State Board of Control report on the Japanese question had been furnished by the association.

The Japanese Association of America had no connection with the Japanese government, he said.

He expressed the opinion that there would be no objection among the Japanese in this country to istration certificates, if they were istration certificates if they were American-born, in order to avoid the charge that Japanese smuggled into the United States cannot be traced. He thought a system of this kind would solve the smuggling problem.

The number of picture brides in this country had been decreasing for several years without governmental restriction, he said. Chairman Johnson declared that public sentiment in this country had been largely instrumental in the change, to which Kanzaki agreed.

It was developed in this testimony that neither the Japanese association, the Congressional committee, nor the immigration station at Angel Island, ever had seen a complete copy of the gentlemen's agreement between the United States and Japan. Representative Siegel thought it consisted of two letters exchanged between the governments, but no one was certain.

JAPANESE IN MEXICO.

Kanzaki said the Japanese Consul-General in San Francisco, M. Ohta, had told him there were only about 2000 Japanese in Mexico, altogether. Some of them were caught trying to enter the United States illegally, he stated, and had remained in jail in Los Angeles for nearly a year without being sent back to Mexico, or released in the United States.

He submitted proofs of an elementary textbook for Japanese language schools, with illustrations of Americanized Japanese, as an example of Americanization work, for which his association was responsible.

Kanzaki and a former secretary of the association, testified that the "Yoshi," or children adopted by Japanese in the United States, had to be registered for five years in Japan and supported by the foster parents before admission to this country.

Having failed in this attempt, he said, he saw to it that his stenographic notes were thrown into the waste basket in his office and carried out by the janitor. Senator Phelan refused to state in his testimony how he came in possession of the letters.

"Do you remember what the janitor looked like, or whether the same janitor is still on duty in that building?" asked Representative Valle.

"No, I did not notice him," replied Kawakami.

"Do you mean to tell me that, although attempting to practice a decoy system, you paid no attention to the janitor?" persisted Mr. Valle.

Kawakami declared that he was not interested in the janitor.

"That's all for me," shouted Mr. Valle, slamming Kawakami's letter to the committee on the table.

WANTS DOORS CLOSED.

When Chairman Johnson started to take up Kawakami's communication of last week to the committee, in which he said he did not believe the matter of the Stephens letter should become public because it would be embarrassing to tell of A distinguished citizen of California becoming involved in searching waste baskets. Kawakami ventured the opinion that it ought to be taken up in executive session of the committee.

The proposal roused a chorus of disapproval from Congressmen.

Kawakami denied that he was in the employ of the Japanese government and declared that no $100,000 fund existed for propaganda to forestall anti-Japanese legislation in California. Some pamphlets putting forth the Japanese side of the case had been mailed to voters, he said, and merely enough money to pay for this had been collected.

"Are you not the propagandist in the western district of the United States for the Japanese government," asked Chairman Johnson.

Kawakami replied that he was merely a general publicity man for Japanese interests of various kinds, but not for his government. He was not persona grata in Japan, he declared, although he had had correspondence with M. Hanihara of the Japanese Foreign Office, K. Fujii of the Japanese Embassy at Washington, and Matsuoki, Japanese Ambassador at Paris. Matsueki, he said, wanted him to be at Paris during the Peace Conference, on account of his ability to write in English.

"Did not the sister of Prof. Ichahashi of Stanford University bring you a little information about this government during the war?" inquired Chairman Johnson.

Kawakami replied that the sister worked in the censor's office of the San Francisco postoffice to read letters from Japan, but that was all he learned from her.

NAMED FOR MARX.

The witness drew a burst of laughter from the entire assemblage when he said his middle initial came from Karl Marx, German socialist, "without Marx's permission."

"I wanted to be the Karl Marx of Japan," he explained.

"Have any luck at it?" asked Chairman Johnson.

After attendance at the University of Iowa and Wisconsin in 1902 and 1903, he was married to an American woman, "a New England girl," he said.

"My wife is not much whiter than I am," Kawakami added. Their married life had been happy and they had been cordially received everywhere, he told Representative Siegel.

Kawakami declared that he had refuted the theory of divine origin of the Mikado. "My book says his ancestors were 'undesirable citizens' and 'ineligible aliens,'" the witness added.

LETTERS OF PROTEST.

Two letters were placed in the record by the committee today. One was from the butchers' union of Oakland, protesting against alleged Japanese encroachments, the other from Dinuba Post of the American Legion, inviting the committee to visit the San Joaquin Valley.

Dr. H. B. Johnson, a missionary in Japan for several years, and at present engaged in American work among the Japanese, was the first witness.

He testified that Consul-General Ohta, of San Francisco, had informed him that "Yoshei" or adopted children of Japanese, residing in the United States, were not permitted by the imperial government to enter this country until three years after adoption. Dr. Johnson supposed this was a protective measure, against making the adoption process a cloak for keeping up the picture bride custom.

Dr. Johnson believed the Japanese government would gladly restrict immigration by treaty. He thought laws prescribing the percentage of children of any alien race in each American school, would cause the Japanese to scatter out more and avoid dangers incident to concentration.

W. T. Ronsor, president of the San Francisco Labor Council, and head of the anti-Japanese Laundry League of San Francisco, complained that Japanese laundrymen were cutting American laundry prices.

MESSAGE TO SECRETARY.

A telegram demanding that the Angel Island immigration station here be thrown open to representatives of the press, "in order that they may investigate thoroughly and suggest the betterment of conditions there," was sent today to the Secretary of Labor by Congressman Isaac Siegel of New York, a member of the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization. Congressman Siegel held the conditions at the island to be "deplorable."

The telegram followed the visit to the island of a subcommittee of the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, in the course of an investigation of Japanese immigration to this State. On that occasion Siegel and other members of the committee condemned the station conditions as "awful" and "shocking."

The telegram asked the Secretary to make provision for more watchmen and fire-fighting apparatus at once.

Dr. Wesley Mell of the Pacific Association expressed confidence that Japan would become Christianized.

The final hearings of the committee in San Francisco will be held tomorrow. Chairman Johnson and Representative Siegel will hold hearings in Fresno, Wednesday, while Representatives Valle, Raker and Box visit Placer county, where Japanese are alleged to control most of the irrigated acreage.

JAPS WANT TO BE WHITE.

We Should Assimilate 'Em by Marriage, Says One, Testifying Here.

That the American people can and ought to assimilate the Japanese people who are in this country, first in a social way and then by intermarriage, was the opinion expressed last night by Junzo Sasamori, general secretary of the Central Japanese Association of Southern California. He was giving testimony before the subcommittee of the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, Congressman J. Will Taylor of Tennessee presiding.

Mr. Sasamori's most remarkable statement was that he had taught in Japan that the sovereign power of the Mikado is the divine light, but that he didn't believe it, and that he thought the Constitution of the United States was just as much of a divine light. Sasamori is a postgraduate of Denver University. He told the subcommittee that there are now seventy-three Protestant Japanese churches in this country and that the Christian faith is in the lead among the California Japanese.

Albert Chapelle, a local investigator, was the first witness called by the subcommittee. He said he had been studying the Japanese problem for fifteen years. Congressman King Swope asked him if he didn't think a lot of Japanese youths did valiant service in the United States Army during the World War. His answer was that they probably did, but that there are a lot of Japanese youths acting as servants in the homes of American people in this State, and that they are hard-working servants, but mighty disloyal.

FOR NAVAL BASES.

In a review of his work, Mr. Chapelle said he is satisfied that the Japanese people in trying to buy large blocks of farm land fronting on Magdalena and San Quentin bays in Lower California had undertaken to establish military bases there. He said he had seen parties of Japanese men of military bearing out in the inland country taking observations of rivers, and making soil tests. Bringing the question closer to home, he said he was advised that near El Monte, the Japanese people have a night school in which they teach their children to be loyal to the Emperor of Japan at any cost.

Asked if he thought the race could be assimilated, he replied in the negative, explaining that he does not agree with George Shima that the American race can be improved by intermarrying with a Japanese girl, who was the child of a picture bride and a Japanese man who might have sneaked into this country.

Others who gave testimony were William I. Traeger, deputy clerk of the State Supreme Court, and an officer of the Native Sons, who explained how California came to be admitted as a State after flying several foreign flags, and declared that 100,000 native sons are now opposing the Japanese in order to save California for Californians and America. Robert Lee Pruett, an investigator for the Native Sons, read a lengthy brief on the Japanese problem, and concluded with the remark that he thinks the Japanese people hope that they will some day rule the world.

MORE

LISTEN TO PIERCE.

Rev. C. C. Pierce, formerly of the Baptist ministry and who said he is no wengaged in a business enterprise with a Japanese clientele told the committee that he recognizes only a difference of complexions between the Japanese and white races.

"We have no Japanese problem in California," he said, except a problem for political purposes and vote-getting. I am in favor of admitting the Japanese to the United States on the same conditions that Europeans are admitted."

"Do you believe in intermarriage?" he was asked.

"I have seen children from Japanese and American intermarriages," he replied, "and I dare say they will make as fine citizens as any of us. I believe the Japanese human nature is the same as ours."

J. B. Vail, of San Dimas and president of the Los Angeles Farm Bureau stated that the bureau was opposed to leasing or holding of any lands by the Asiatics.

The hearing will be resumed this forenoon at 10 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce. Yesterday afternoon Congressman King Swope and J. Will Taylor, who constitute the subcommittee, spent a pleasant hour at the Lasky studio, delving into motion-picture making.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Miss Pauline Megilitsch's intentions were as unswerving as her affections, but her aim with a gun was not.

That explains why she is dead and Julius Jonas, her wounded soulmate, stands a chance to recover. It is now hoped to save his sight, which surgeons yesterday feared had been permanently destroyed by the bullet which crossed his optic nerves.

He explained that he was starting on a trip for his firm and Pauline phoned him that she was ill and must see him. He went to the home he had fitted up for her and she insisted upon talking it all over—his announced decision that he intended to return to his wife and family. She appeared reconciled to this and he retired for the night in a rear room.

"She came into my room, I think it was about 6 o'clock," said Jonas, "and sat on the bed beside me—and then the pistol went off. I do not remember but one shot—I was too blinded and dizzy."

ANFU TROOPS DEFEATED.

Former Chinese Premier's Soldiers are Falling Back on Peking.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Forces of Gen. Tuan Chi-Jui, former Chinese Premier, and Minister of War and head of the Anfu party in China, have been defeated by Chinese regular forces under Gen. Wu Pei-Fu and driven back toward Mentoukuo, the American Legation at Peking reported today to the State Department. The fighting occurred near Peking and the wounded are arriving in that city.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Gen. Wang, commanding forces in Peking, is reported in advices to the State Department today to be taking measures to protect the city in the event of the entry of defeated Tuan soldiers. Eight thousand of the troops are said to have returned from the zone of fighting to the vicinity of Peking.

The American Legation at Peking added that the authorities appeared to have the situation well in hand and that while all the gates of the city had been closed since Saturday night, the people of Peking were calm. Telegraphic communication with Tien Tsin has been resumed.

The forces of Gen. Chang-Tso-Lin, military inspector of Manchuria, and military Governor of the province of Feng-Tien, whose strength is estimated at 60,000, have arrived in the fighting zone at Yang-Tsun. The department advices are that he forced the withdrawal of the Tuan from their positions to Lofa, which is on the railroad between Tien Tsin and Peking. This move has shifted the fighting zone away from the vicinity of Tien Tsin.

TIEN TSIN, July 19.—Railway service with Petang has again been interrupted by a collision near Yang-Tsun. As a result there is much congestion of troop trains from Mukden. A repair train left Tien Tsun Sunday and replaced the railed engine, but was unable to proceed farther because of congestion due to the arrival of Anfu reinforcements.

The gates to the city of Peking were closed Sunday to keep refugees and defeated Anfu division of Anfu forces has already arrived here from Mukden, and is on its way and a third is to start when trains are available. Fighting has begun on the Chihli-Shantung border. Tien Tsin is quiet.

JAPANESE CONFIRM?

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—Charges that Gen. Tuan Chi-Jui, leader of the Anfu forces, and the Chinese government troops in an effort to save Peking has "entered a conspiracy with Japan to take over China," are made in public proclamations issued today by Gov. Tsao Kun of the Chihli province, of which Peking is the capital, according to a cable message today from Shanghai by the Chinese World, a vernacular newspaper.

This accompanied a proclamation by Gov. Chang-Tso-Lin of Manchuria, charging that the Japanese, under direction of Gen. Tuan, had penetrated Manchuria with propaganda which has so disrupted the peace of Manchuria that it is necessary to order the Manchurian armies against Gen. Tuan to preserve the integrity of the province, according to the cable dispatch.

A counter proclamation issued by Gen. Tuan charged Gov. Tsao Kun with sponsoring an effort to restore a monarchy in China, the message said.

Quiet prevails in the provinces of Kiangsu and Chekiang and the Chinese Navy has proclaimed its neutrality, according to the dispatches.

to lease a considerable number in neutral countries, and from Great Britain. Other ships eventually will be built in German shipyards.

PROGRAM, HUGE ONE.

That huge shipbuilding programs are contemplated not only by the Hamburg-American Company, but by other German lines, is evidenced by preparations now in progress. A meeting of leading shipbuilders and steel manufacturers will be held this week to discuss the amount of material available in Germany for new construction.

It is believed that if the conference discloses that sufficient material cannot be had, arrangements will be made to import American steel, which, at the present rate of exchange, can be laid down cheaper than the German product.

Meantime in the lower end of Hamburg harbor, a new building plant which, it is said is destined to be the largest in Europe, is nearing completion. The Hamburg-American Line is one of the principal stockholders in this concern, which will begin operations within eighteen days, with facilities for quickly doubling its capacity.

WILL BUILD VESSELS.

Building, rather than chartering vessels, is expected to be the Hamburg-American Line's aim, owing to the necessity of securing uniformity in the type of ships employed. A representative of Mr. Harriman, it is understood, is coming to Hamburg in September to confer with officials of the line.

Contrary to belief prevalent in Germany that German ship building is a futile task, as the bulk of her tonnage will have to be turned over to the Allies, it is asserted that the tonnage Germany must deliver within the next two years remains unsettled and that the amount is not definitely placed at "up to 800,000 tons."

Before the war Germany's ship yards turned out about 900,000 tons of shipping annually. If the yards succeed in obtaining credits and materials enabling them to resume their former scale, it is believed that a few years will elapse before they can many again will possess a flourishing merchant marine. Thousands of Germans of the shipping industry are said to remain idle and it is said have 60,000 unemployed who will draw upon to man new vessels.

DETAILS INCOMPLETE.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The details of the agreement between the Hamburg-American Line and the American Ship and Commerce Corporation have not yet been worked out, Chairman Benson of the Shipping Board said today. As soon as they are, the agreement will be made public. It is contemplated, he said, to allow Germany to reconstruct her shipping trade on a "fifty-fifty" basis.

Development of the former Hamburg-American Line trade from the American shipping is regarded by Chairman Benson as a long stroke in placing the American merchant marine on a sure footing in competition with the world's fleets of the world.

BANDITS ARE SHOT DOWN

Chinese Brigands Terrorize People and Troops Continue Looting.

BY FREDERICK SMITH.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SHANGHAI, July 19.—Two American marines manning Lewis machine guns routed a band of brigands a short distance east of Chungking, in Central China, on the Yangtse River, when the American boat Robert Dollar II was fired on from the shore and from sampans.

The Dollar did not stop. A definite estimate of the casualties is impossible to the persons on the ship, who told me 200 rounds were fired, causing many bandits to drop, killed and wounded.

Closer of Milwaukee and Witherell of Cheyenne were the marines on the Dollar deck who thus gave the Yangtse pirates their first taste of foreign spirit.

The Dollar recently was boarded by brigands near Ichang and was rescued by the American gunboat Paloh. The Dollar also was fired on a few days before the latest attack.

CREW IS PREPARED.

The vessel was prepared, therefore, when it went up the river just ahead of the Loong Sang, on which the Los Angeles Times correspondent ascended the famous rapids and gorges of the upper Yangtse.

Admiral Gleaves had ordered the Americans patrolling the river to protect foreign lives and property. The officers and crew of the war boats were ready as always in case of danger to missionaries or merchants.

Eight missionaries who arrived at Chungking when I was there had come each in a junk, having been fired on vigorously on one occasion. None was hurt, but the party was forced to wait five days for a military escort to accompany them to Chungking.

BUSINESS PARALYZED.

The business of four rich provinces is partly paralyzed by these bandits and there is continuous fighting by troops who are looting the cities, demanding tribute, etc. These provincial soldiers are not interested in North or South China, but are warring for what there is in it, wherever it is most profitable.

Neither Chinese soldiers nor foreign war boats have been able to stop the river brigandage. Many companies have ordered their junks to remain in shelter until conditions settle.

While the crisis hovers over the Peking government the interior is distracted by these factional wars, and revenues from natural resources largely are discontinued. The remedy, without foreign assistance, is difficult to foresee. Foreign intervention is held practically impossible.

CONDITIONS PITIABLE.

Traveling 1500 miles up the Yangtse I found Chungking, which is about the size of Los Angeles, a pitiable example. The merchants hide their costly silks, furs and other goods, leaving the balance in the warehouses for military looting. There is little trade, although goods valued at $33,000,000 passed in the river at Chungking last year.

Cholera deaths in Chungking now have been reduced to a hundred weekly, but the city is suffering from the terrific heat, amid a condition of indescribable filth.

Beggars exhibit ghastly sores, pigs and dogs are ever under foot, and the odors are insufferable for foreigners, who are forced to stay in sedan chairs, fearing to come into closer contact with the contamination and pestilence, and dreading to visit the shops, mingle with the hopeless crowd of men, women and children.

The Kwelchow troops now occupying Chungking demand $1,000,000 to quit the city peaceably. The merchants realize that if they pay this they will only have to pay the Szechbune troops a further tribute when the Szechbunes replace the Kwelchows.

Conditions in Changsha, where the American missionary Reamert was murdered, are quiet, but banditry continues for hundreds of miles along the upper Yangtse. Many bandits are former soldiers.

THOUSANDS ON "PENNSY" ARE LET GO.

Ten Per Cent of Help in Eastern Region Will be Out of Jobs Wednesday.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—Twelve thousand clerks, shopmen and maintenance-of-way men employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad in its eastern region will be dismissed from service Wednesday.

This action was decided upon at a meeting of the general staff of the railroad when it was decided to lop off 10 per cent of those employed in the eastern division because of increased expenses.

The district affected is bounded on the west by Altoona, on the north by Lake Ontario, on the south by Washington and on the east by the Atlantic Ocean.

The general strike threatened by leaders of railway labor unions because of the anticipated wage awards of the Railway Labor Board has nothing to do with the railroad's action, said high officials of the Pennsylvania today.

"It perhaps is unfortunate," said one official, "that this order should come at the time when there is talk of a strike, but decision to take this step was made some time ago and is in no way connected with the matters under arbitration."

Pennsylvania Railroad officials said today notice of the reduction in the working forces has been posted in all local shops and offices, and is believed to foreshadow a general order affecting the entire Pennsylvania system. Hundreds of local railroad men will be forced to seek other employment. There will be no reduction at this time of engineers, firemen, brakemen or conductors, dispatchers, gate men, porters or ticket handlers. The present reduction order affects machinists, car repair men, car cleaners, mechanics, telegraphers and office clerks.

MEAT PRICES TO RISE, PACKERS INTIMATE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Intimation of a boost in the price of meat is contained in a statement issued today by the institute of American Meat Packers commenting upon a 5 per cent decrease of meat produced in the United States in the first six months of this year, compared with the first half of 1919.

Government figures at sixty-nine principal stockyards, says the institute, show 2,500,000 fewer animals slaughtered this year than last year up to July 1, which means a decrease of 400,000,000 pounds of meat packed.

The decrease which at this rate would amount to 1,000,000,000 pounds by the end of the year, may be counteracted to some extent so far as domestic supplies are concerned by decrease of exports.

Kansas City gained another branch house yesterday, when the Congoleum Company, manufacturers of linoleum and oil cloth, arranged to serve its southwest territory out of Kansas City, rather than Chicago.

The prospects for band music in the parks the remainder of the season are good, notwithstanding the action of the Council's joint finance committee in cutting the $10,000 band appropriation, out of the park department budget. An agreement has been reached to put through a separate ordinance carrying an appropriation of $5000.

DENY SCANDAL CAUSED PRINCE TO KILL SELF.

FRIENDS OF HOHENZOLLERNS DECLARE JOACHIM WAS SHORT OF FUNDS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, July 19.—Friends of Prince Joachim of Hohenzollern deny stories current in Berlin that his suicide at Potsdam Sunday was caused by scandal. They mention only his marital disappointments and financial troubles.

Like his brothers, he is believed to have been sadly in need of funds, owing to the limited allowance from the crown funds permitted him by the Prussian government.

Prince Joachin also is reported to have been brooding over the ultimate fate of the former royal house and the criticism to which his father has been subjected in Germany.

By those who formerly were close to the Hohenzollern family, Prince Joachim was said to have been the favorite son of the former Empress and fears are expressed that news of his suicide may have a fatal effect on her, as she recently suffered an acute recurrence of her heart trouble.

Prince Joachim was born Dec. 17, 1890, in Berlin. After the Germans' defeat there were rumors that Emperor William would abdicate in favor of Joachim.

Joachim was married in 1916 to Princess Marie Augustine of Anahalt, who then was just 17 years old. A dispatch from Paris this year said he had brought a suit for divorce.

DOORN (Holland) July 19.—The announcement of Prince Joachim's death came to Doorn Castle like a thunderbolt.

The former German Empress, who during the last week has been again seriously troubled by her heart ailment, is believed not to have been informed of the tragedy. The ex-Emperor, however, has been told of it, and has been greatly affected by the untimely end of his favorite son.

WIERINGEN (Holland) July 19. The tidings of the sudden death of Prince Joachim came as a great blow to his brother, the former German Crown Prince, who only this morning learned the news from Adjt. Von Mulheim.

The relations between Joachim and Frederick William were always of the most friendly nature, the former being the favorite of the family. The ex-Crown Prince conferred this morning with Burgomaster Perooboom and probably will go to Doorn, the reuge of the former Emperor this afternoon.

The most spectacular dramatic production of the year is the Pilgrimage Play at El Camino Real Amphitheater, Hollywood. Superlatively beautiful and clever hidden lighting effects, and exquisite hidden music enhance the dramatic value of the production. Reservations by phone, Broadway 3 and 578384.—[Advertisement.

JAPANESE CONSPIRACY?

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.— Charges that Gen. Tuan Chi-Jui, leader of the Anfu forces, fighting the Chinese government troops in an effort to seize Peking, has "entered a conspiracy with Japan to take over China," are made in public proclamations issued today by Gov. Tsao Kun of the Chihli province, of which Peking is capital, according to a cable received today from Shanghai by the Chinese World, a vernacular newspaper here.

This accompanied a proclamation by Gov. Chang-Tso-Lin of Manchuria, observing that Anfuites, under direction of Gen. Tuan, had penetrated Manchuria with propaganda which has so disrupted the peace of Manchuria that it was necessary to order the Manchurian armies against Gen. Tuan to preserve the integrity of the Province, according to the cable dispatch.

Quiet prevails in the provinces of Kiangsu and Chekiang and the Chinese Navy has proclaimed its neutrality, according to the dispatch.

Contrary to belief prevalent in Germany that German ship building is a futile task, as the bulk of new tonnage will have to be turned over to the Allies, it is asserted that the tonnage Germany must deliver within the next two years remains unsettled and that the amount is to be definitely placed at "up to 200,000 tons."

Before the war German ship yards turned out about 200,000 tons of shipping annually. If the yards succeed in obtaining credits and materials enabling them to resume on their former scale, it is believed only a few years will elapse before Germany again will possess an imposing merchant marine. Trade organizations of the shipping companies are said to remain intact and to have 60,000 unemployed sailors to draw upon to man new vessels.

DETAILS INCOMPLETE.

WASHINGTON, July 19.— The details of the agreement between the Hamburg-American Line and the American Ship and Commerce Corporation have not yet been worked out Chairman Benson of the Shipping Board said today. As soon as they are, the agreement will be made public. It is contemplated, he said, to allow Germany to reconstruct her shipping trade on a "fifty-fifty" basis.

Development of the former Hamburg-American Line trade routes by American shipping is regarded by Chairman Benson as a major stroke in placing the American merchant marine on a sure footing in competition with the mercantile fleets of the world.

BANDITS ARE SHOT DOWN

Chinese Brigands Terrorize People and Troops Continue Looting.

BY FREDERICK SMITH.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SHANGHAI, July 19.—Two American marines manning Lewis machine guns routed a band of brigands a short distance east of Chungking, in Central China, on the Yangtse River, when the American boat Robert Dollar II was fired on from the shore and from sampans.

The Dollar did not stop. A definite estimate of the casualties is impossible to the persons on the ship, who told me 200 rounds were fired, causing many bandits to drop, killed and wounded.

Claser of Milwaukee and Witherell of Cheyenne were the marines on the Dollar deck who thus gave the Yangtse pirates their first taste of foreign spirit.

The Dollar recently was boarded by brigands near Ichang and was rescued by the American gunboat Paloh. The Dollar also was fired on a few days before the latest attack.

CREW IS PREPARED.

The vessel was prepared, therefore, when it went up the river just ahead of the Loong Sang, on which the Los Angeles Times correspondent ascended the famous rapids and gorges of the upper Yangtse.

Admiral Gleaves had ordered the Americans patrolling the river to protect foreign lives and property. The officers and crew of the war boats were ready as always in case of danger to missionaries or merchants.

Eight missionaries who arrived at Chungking when I was there had come each in a junk, having been fired on vigorously on one occasion. None was hurt, but the party was forced to wait five days for a military escort to accompany them to Chungking.

BUSINESS PARALYZED.

The business of four rich provinces is partly paralyzed by these bandits and there is continuous fighting by troops who are looting the cities, demanding tribute, etc. These provincial soldiers are not interested in North or South China, but are warring for what there is in it, wherever it is most profitable.

Neither Chinese soldiers nor foreign war boats have been able to stop the river brigandage. Many companies have ordered their junks to remain in shelter until conditions settle.

While the crisis hovers over the Peking government the interior is distracted by these factional wars, and revenues from natural resources largely are discontinued. The remedy, without foreign assistance, is difficult to foresee. Foreign intervention is held practically impossible.

CONDITIONS PITIABLE.

Traveling 1500 miles up the Yangtse I found Chungking, which is about the size of Los Angeles, a pitiable example. The merchants hide their costly silks, furs and other goods, leaving the balance in the warehouses for military looting. There is little trade, although goods valued at $33,000,000 passed in the river at Chungking last year.

Cholera deaths in Chungking now have been reduced to a hundred weekly, but the city is suffering from the terrific heat, amid a condition of indescribable filth.

Beggars exhibit ghastly sores, pigs and dogs are ever under foot, and the odors are insufferable for foreigners, who are forced to stay in sedan chairs, fearing to come into closer contact with the contamination and pestilence, and dreading to visit the shops, mingle with the hopeless crowd of men, women and children.

The Kweichow troops now occupying Chungking demand $1,000,000 to quit the city peaceably. The merchants realize that if they pay this they will only have to pay the Szechbune troops a further tribute when the Szechbunes replace the Kweichows.

Conditions in Changsha, where the American missionary Reamert was murdered, are quiet, but banditry continues for hundreds of miles along the upper Yangtse. Many bandits are former soldiers.

THOUSANDS ON "PENNSY" ARE LET GO.

Ten Per Cent of Help in Eastern Region Will be Out of Jobs Wednesday.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 19. — Twelve thousand clerks, shopmen and maintenance-of-way men employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad in its eastern region will be dismissed from service Wednesday.

This action was decided upon at a meeting of the general staff of the railroad when it was decided to lop off 10 per cent of those employed in the eastern division because of increased expenses.

The district affected is bounded on the west by Altoona, on the north by Lake Ontario, on the south by Washington and on the east by the Atlantic Ocean.

The general strike threatened by leaders of railway labor unions because of the anticipated wage awards of the Railway Labor Board has nothing to do with the railroad's action, said high officials of the Pennsylvania today.

"It perhaps is unfortunate," said one official, "that this order should come at the time when there is talk of a strike, but decision to take this step was made some time ago and is in no way connected with the matters under arbitration."

Pennsylvania Railroad officials said today notice of the reduction in the working forces has been posted in all local shops and offices, and is believed to foreshadow a general order affecting the entire Pennsylvania system. Hundreds of local railroad men will be forced to seek other employment. There will be no reduction at this time of engineers, firemen, brakemen or conductors, dispatchers, gate men, porters or ticket handlers. The present reduction order affects machinists, car repair men, car cleaners, mechanics, telegraphers and office clerks.

MEAT PRICES TO RISE, PACKERS INTIMATE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Intimation of a boost in the price of meat is contained in a statement issued today by the institute of American Meat Packers commenting upon a 5 per cent decrease of meat produced in the United States in the first six months of this year, compared with the first half of 1919.

Government figures at sixty-nine principal stockyards, says the institute, show 2,500,000 fewer animals slaughtered this year than last year up to July 1, which means a decrease of 400,000,000 pounds of meat packed.

The decrease which at this rate would amount to 1,000,000,000 pounds by the end of the year, may be counteracted to some extent so far as domestic supplies are concerned by decrease of exports.

WEDS BRITON TO ESCAPE RUSSIA.

Is Considering Lecture Tour to Fight Bolsheviki.

Romantic Wedding Now Over that End is Gained.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, July 18.—Stranger than any fiction is the recital of the difficulties experienced by Mme. Makaroff, widow of a famous Russian admiral, who, in order to escape the Bolsheviks, wedded a British professor merely in order to assume his nationality.

Mme. Makaroff has reached France at last, and is sheltered by friends, while her legal husband, true to his word as a British gentleman, has returned to his English home with his altruistic marriage considered a closed incident between them.

According to Mme. Makaroff's recital, when news came to Petrograd that Britons would be allowed to leave Russia she sought Prof. Russell of the Berlitz school there and proposed that they be married, with the assurance that the ceremony would be considered pure fiction.

The marriage was celebrated by a woman justice of the peace, after numerous difficulties regarding Mme. Makaroff's property, which the Bolsheviki had confiscated, and the two were permitted to leave Petrograd for Finland.

DISEASE STOPS TRIP.

When they reached the frontier disease was discovered in their party. All were placed in quarantine, married couples being placed together. Mr. Russell gave the only bed he had to his companion for four days and nights, obtaining only a few minutes' sleep at a time while sitting beside her and guarding her slumbers.

While in quarantine they were able to send a message to the president of the British Red Cross. Astonished at their romantic narrative, he obtained permission for Mme. Makaroff to leave Finland on the first British cruiser to leave for England.

Mr. Russell accompanied her as far as London. They stopped for a few days in Denmark, where Mme. Makaroff's recital of her escape from Russia moved the Queen Mother alternately to tears and laughter.

Mme. Makaroff does not intend to return to Russia until the soviet regime is overthrown. She is considering a European lecture tour to tell the horrors of Bolshevist rule.

AGED EMPLOYEES MAY RETAIN THEIR PLACES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Officials of the Postoffice Department and of the Washington city postoffice met today to give further consideration to the cases of employees who, though superannuated, are still efficient, following the order issued on Saturday by Postmaster-General Burleson.

Chiefs of the pension bureau also took up in a more liberal spirit the applications for retention of their superannuates, in accordance with instructions from Secretary of the Interior Payne, and additional applications were accepted, bringing the total for the pension bureau up to about 100.

Only eighty-eight employees of the pension office had asked to be retained, and all, including many union soldiers, had been refused by the commissioner.

President Wilson is known to be opposed to any ruling that would force the retirement of government employees while they were still able and willing to perform their duties. Announcement of a definite policy which will be followed in retaining in service or replacing employees who have reached retirement age will probably be made following the Cabinet meeting tomorrow at which the question will be discussed in detail.

About Digestion.

Digestion begins in the mouth. The food should be thoroughly masticated and insalivated before it is swallowed. When this is habitually neglected stomach trouble is almost sure to follow. If you now have indigestion eat no beef or veal and sparingly of other meats, masticate your food thoroughly and you may recover without taking any medicine. If your bowels are constipated take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only cause a gentle movement of the bowels, but aid digestion and strengthen the stomach.—[Advertisement.

DRYS PLANNING FIGHT TO FINISH

National Prohibition Party Convenes Tomorrow.

Bryan and Billy Sunday Said to be First Choice.

Commoner Can Have Nomination if He Chooses.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LINCOLN (Neb.) July 19.—The Prohibition party is preparing for a fight to a finish in the coming Presidential campaign, according to W. G. Calderwood, vice-chairman of the party's national committee, and various delegates arriving for the national convention, which opens Wednesday.

Every delegate who has arrived declares that a Presidential ticket will be placed in the field and they seemed unanimous in the declaration that William Jennings Bryan and William ("Billy") Sunday will head the ticket.

The question of whether Bryan will consent to head the party's ticket is uppermost in the minds of the delegates. The opinion is freely expressed, that if he refuses to accept, the nomination will be forced upon him.

MAY FORCE NOMINATION.

"If Mr. Bryan wants the nomination he can have it by nodding his head," said Calderwood. "If he doesn't want it, we probably will force it on him. His recent statement in the Commoner that a man must accept such an honor if it is offered him, is looked upon by us as tantamount to a declaration that he will accept."

Neither Bryan nor Billy Sunday is expected to attend the session.

Calderwood said that the only thing that could avert a national prohibition ticket would be a "clear cut statement by Senator Harding or Gov. Cox, opposing any changes in the Eighteenth Amendment."

"We consider such a statement impossible, however," he continued. We are going to name a ticket which will draw hundreds of thousands of votes."

While the delegates here announced themselves as favoring Bryan as first choice, all have some pet candidate, whose interests they are furthering in case the Nebraskan is not nominated or refuses the nomination.

Dan A. Poling, 35-year-old international president of the Christian Endeavor Society, who was gassed overseas, apparently has a strong following. Clinton N. Howard of Rochester, N. Y., is another who is wasting no time in furthering his Presidential aspirations. Robert Patton of Springfield, Ill., Charles H. Randall, Representative in Congress from California, and Virgil G. Hinshaw of Chicago are said to be in a receptive mood concerning the nomination.

The auditorium, where the convention will be held, today was receiving its final touches of decoration. All that remains for tomorrow is to install a life-size picture of Abraham Lincoln, and hang the various prohibition banners.

About 350 delegates are expected.

For a Bilious Attack.

If you have bilious attacks give Chamberlain's Tablets a trial. They are excellent. Willis Brownlee, Pattonsburg, Mo., has this to say of them: "About a year ago my wife used a bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets and they cured her of a bad bilious attack, also of constipation, from which she had been suffering for years."—[Advertisement.

LEADERS CONFER WITH GOV. COX.

Candidates Attend to Much Preliminary Work.

National Committee Meets Today in Columbus.

Democratic Campaign Manager to be Appointed.

COLUMBUS (O.) July 19.—Democratic leaders gathered today to counsel with Gov. Cox and Franklin D. Roosevelt, the party's nominees, on their political battle.

The Democratic National Committee meets tomorrow to organize the campaign. Much preliminary work was done today in conferences by early arrivals with Gov. Cox and Roosevelt.

Selection of a committee chairman to manage the campaign, naming of headquarters, choosing an executive subcommittee, financing plans, arrangements for notification dates for the nominees and their itinerary were the major affairs to be considered tomorrow.

Gov. Cox declined to respond to the request of Senator Harding, his Republican opponent, for details of the Governor's conference with President Wilson yesterday on the League of Nations. The Governor said he would anwer anything desirable in his acceptance address.

MOORE DECLINES.

Disinclination of Edmund H. Moore, national committeeman from Ohio and Gov. Cox's floor manager at the San Francisco convention, to assume management of the campaign, left unsettled tonight the election of a national committee chairman. Gov. Cox said Moore indicated he did not desire the place, but wished to serve in other and unofficial capacities.

"The question will be left to the committee," said the Governor.

Moore's reasons for not wishing to manage the campaign were said by close friends to be personal, based largely on necessities of his law practice.

The committee chairmanship also was discussed today by Gov. Cox with Homer S. Cummings, present chairman. Cummings has stated he wished to avoid the responsibilities and labor of another campaign, but many committee members were urging that he be drafted.

Representative Hull of Tennessee was urged as an eligible.

A number of committee women were here, and there was a disposition to give them places on the Executive Committee, possibly electing one vice-chairman. Woman suffrage leaders also are to urge the committee to make another move toward ratification of suffrage. Norman E. Mack, New York committee member, is to offer a resolution, urging the Tennessee and North Carolina legislatures to ratify.

NOTIFICATION SOON.

Sentiment regarding notification of the nominees seemed settled in favor of dates early in August, in order that both candidates may soon begin speaking tours. Tentative plans call for a tour of about three weeks in Eastern and Central States by Gov. Cox, beginning about August 15, while Roosevelt spends a like period in the West. Afterward it was proposed that they transfer territories for another three weeks. Both candidates are expected to close their campaigns in their home States.

Gov. Cox said he was being urged strongly to visit the Pacific Coast and that he hoped to comply.

The Governor had as luncheon guests today in addition to Roosevelt, Mack, Thomas B. Love, committeeman from Texas; Isadore H. Dockweiler of Los Angeles, Dr. J. W. Morrow of Oregon and former Representative White of Ohio.

Parley P. Christensen.

The nominee was born at Weston, Idaho, Jan. 19, 1869. He was educated in the public schools of Utah, and was graduated from the State University in 1890. He then attended Cornell University, receiving the degree of LL.B. in 1897.

In September of the same year he was admitted to the bar of Utah and in 1905 to practice before the United States Supreme Court.

Mr. Christensen entered into the practice of law in Salt Lake City in 1897. Among the offices he has held are those of principal secretary of the Utah constitutional convention in 1895, and County Attorney of Salt Lake county.

He was several times a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress, but was not successful.

He was a member of the house in the Utah State Legislature in 1915. He is unmarried.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The new Farmer-Labor party will conduct "a nation-wide twenty-four-hour day, seven-day week, town hall, street corner and front porch campaign," Parley Parker Christensen, its Presidential candidate said tonight in a statement just before he left for Denver and Salt Lake City to arrange his business affairs preparatory to a speaking tour in every State.

Mr. Christensen said the new party was undisturbed by the defection of certain members of the Committee of Forty-eight, whom he styled "coupon-clipping intellectuals" and "pink tea uplifters."

The statement attacked both major political parties, declaring that no matter which of the reactionary parties is permitted to win, "if either is to win the government will remain in Wall street."

DIVA BEREFT BY AIRMAN'S DEATH

Young Georgia Aviator Also Slain by Dizzy Plunge.

"Stunt" Flying Shears Wing from Plane at Tulsa.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TULSA (Okla.) July 19.—Robert Midkiff, 24 years of age, son of a clergyman of Decatur, Ill., and adopted son of Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, famous opera singer, and Albert Newson of Unionpoint, Ga., 23 years of age, were killed in an airplane accident here shortly before noon yesterday. Their plane fell about 3500 feet. Both bodies were crushed almost beyond recognition and the machine was completely demolished.

The two young men, both army pilots and considered experts in the handling of aircraft, flew the plane, a new machine, on a test trip to Tulsa from Okmulgee, about fifty miles south of here. When they arrived at the landing field here, they engaged in "stunt" flying for the amusement of several thousand spectators. They had performed several loop-the-loops and had thrown the craft into a "barrel roll," when suddenly one of the wings crumpled up and dropped off. Careening and zigzagging, the machine plunged swiftly to the earth.

The engine was imbedded several feet in the ground of a pasture where the machine struck. The two aviators were instantly killed. Their seat straps were partly loosened, giving mute evidence of frantic efforts they had made to free themselves before the final crash.

Both young men were formerly flying instructors at Love Field, Dallas, Tex., where they had formed a strong friendship.

Young Midkiff came to Tulsa last Saturday and was to have been connected with a commercial airplane company here. Before his arrival in Oklahoma, he had just visited Mme. Schumann-Heink in California.

Mr. Newsom had been employed by the Curtiss people at Tulsa for about a year and recently went to Okmulgee to take charge of a flying field there. He leaves a mother and two sisters at Unionpoint, Ga.

COX ACCEPTS WILSON PLANS.

President's Ideas on Campaign to be Carried Out.

Hopes to Hold Western States Won in 1916.

Secretary Colby to be Spokesman on League.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Gov. Cox, the Democratic nominee for President, not only accepted President Wilson's uncompromising stand on the League of Nations at the White House conference yesterday, but Mr. Wilson's plan of campaign to win the election with this as the paramount issue.

President Wilson, it transpired today, believes that the same western States which broke from their Republican moorings and carried him to victory in 1916 can be relied upon, with proper attention by the Democratic campaign managers, to repeat the performance this year, insuring election of Cox and Roosevelt and indorsement of the Wilson policies.

The "kept us out of war" issue to which has been generally attributed the success of the President in capturing a number of States west of the Mississippi is to be given a new dress, the raiment of the League of Nations, and trotted out again to court the approbation of the folks in the plains and mountain country. Gov. Cox, himself, is to "swing round the circle," seeking to convince the far west that only the League of Nations can save the nation from war and preparation for war, that we can enter the League without incurring obligation to enter a war not of our own making and that the first requisite for attainment of this end is the election of the Democratic ticket.

But the real, simonpure spokesman of the President on the League of Nations in the far west is to be Secretary of State Colby, an engaging and forceful orater who will be relied upon to interpret the covenant in detail with greater fidelity to the President's view than Gov. Cox could be expected to attain.

There is another purpose, too, in the decision to send Colby to the far west. This region is one of the old strongholds of the Bull Moosers, of whom the Secretary of State was one of the conspicuous leaders until Roosevelt indorsed Hughes in 1916. Thereupon he went over to Wilson and the President has been quoted as asserting that Colby rendered him more effective aid than any other speaker in the last national election. So Colby's mission to the West will be not only to elucidate the covenant, but to attract the former Progressives to support of the Democratic ticket.

So far as the Democratic campaign plans can be discerned now the indications are that the liquor issue will be soft-pedaled in the far west, which contains a number of prohibition States. In the East, however, Charles F. Murphy of New York, Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, Jim Nugent of New Jersey, and other leaders are basing their campaign plans upon the appeal Gov. Cox's liberal views of the prohibition question will make to those who are dissatisfied with a bone-dry country.

PREVIOUS CONVICTIONS.

The Democratic nominee's complete acceptance of Mr. Wilson's views on the League of Nations has raised the question whether he has surrendered his previous convictions. It was known that Gov. Cox advocated reservations, but his friends here insist that he never went further than espousing the interpretative reservations to which Mr. Wilson said he would not object.

On May 23 Gov. Cox suggested this reservation:

"In giving assent to this treaty the senate has in mind the fact that the League of Nations which it embodies was devised for the sole purpose of maintaining peace and comity among the nations of the earth and preventing the recurrence of such destructive conflicts as that through which the world has just passed. The cooperation of the United States with the League and its continuance as a member thereof will naturally depend upon the adherence of the League to that fundamental purpose."

He also proposed this resolution:

"It will, of course, be understood that in carrying out the purposes of the League, the government of the United States must at all times act in strict harmony with the terms and intent of the United States Constitution which cannot in any way be altered by the treaty making power."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PITTSBURG, July 19.—John Luteman, night foreman, two fire bosses, two pumpers and three laborers were entombed by an explosion in the mine of the Union Collieries Company, at Renton, eighteen miles from here, this morning.

The explosion blew a cage out of the shaft, and as soon as the repairs to the hoisting apparatus can be made, rescue crews from the bureau of mines station at Pittsburg and similar crews from adjoining coal properties will endeavor to find the buried men.

Hun Ship Here Flying Imperial Flag of Kaiser.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—The German bark Reiherstieg, now loading oil at Petty's Island, boldly flys the merchant flag of the old imperial German government, from her masthead.

"No German skipper worthy the name will hoist the red, black and gold of the new Socialist government," asserted Wilhelm Westphal, as he gazed up at the ensign.

"The horizontal blocks of red, white and black, stand for order, royalty and a proud record of fearless seamanship," he continued.

"What does the new flag represent? Disorder, untried, discredited rule, chaos, hunger and misery."

Because this country and Germany still are technically at war the crew of the Reiherstieg are kept prisoners on board the ship.

Instead of sand ballast, the ship will carry flour and other food back to Germany, for distribution from relatives here to people in the Fatherland.

The negotiations conducted from London with the view to bringing about an armistice have not affected the work of the General Staff, particularly as no definite news of any agreement with the soviet government having been effected had reached Warsaw up to an early hour this morning.

LIDA OCCUPIED.

Occupation of Lida, fifty miles south of Vilna, by the Bolsheviki after heavy fighting, is reported in a communique issued by the War Office today. In Southern Polisia the Bolsheviki drove out Polish mountaineers and occupied the village of Dabrowica.

Strong Bolshevik attacks, adds the communique, have been repulsed around Husiatyn and Arsomanic and in the region of Dubno. The Bolsheviki are reported to be regrouping for a drive on Kovel (about seventy-five miles southeast of Brest-Litovsk.)

BRITISH PLEA REJECTED.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
LONDON, July 20.—The reply of the Russian soviet government to the British note concerning an armistice with Poland rejects in substance the British peace proposals, according to the London Times, which publishes a summary of the soviet answer.

AGREEMENT FAR-REACHING.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
VIENNA, July 19.—The agreement recently reached between Austria and soviet Russia to exchange prisoners apparently enters into the diplomatic and political fields. The agreement as published here provides for commissions by each country to have diplomatic immunity, the privilege of free wireless communication in code and unhampered travel.

It stipulates also that Austria is to maintain strict neutrality in the wars against the soviet, even to the extent of a prohibition upon the transport of troops and material through Austrian territory.

The agreement is commented upon by foreign diplomatic experts as a possible means of making Vienna headquarters for soviet propaganda in Central and Eastern Europe and paving the way to closer relations.

AIRPLANE WARNING.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
GENEVA, July 19.—Swiss newspapers today warn against buying German airships or airplanes at low prices, owing to exchange rates.

It is stated by the newspapers that these aircraft are the property of the Allies, according to the Treaty of Versailles, and that buyers and sellers are liable to fines aggregating 100,000 marks, and also that all machines are liable to confiscation.

POLITICS.

THE WATCHMAN.

TREND OF POLITICAL THOUGHT AND ACTION.

By the Sentry on His Beat.

David Faries, attorney for the Automobile Club of Southern California, does not intend to break lances with Thomas Lee Woolwine in the District-Attorneyship contest this year. It may be that I spilled the beans in announcing on Sunday that Mr. Faries might be entered in the race by the United Church Brotherhood, but at any rate when the brotherhood leaders met yesterday to outline a plan of this sort Mr. Faries announced his withdrawal, and the upshot was that the Brotherhood decided to keep its hands off the situation. W. M. Burke, who is piloting the affairs of the organization, explained that the time was too short to make an effective campaign, and with no candidate to substitute for Mr. Faries the plan, preliminary steps for which had been taken, would be allowed to slumber.

Dist.-Atty. Woolwine meantime is looking over his political fences, which appear to be in good repair. He is too sagacious a politician to be lulled into a false security by the thought that it will be a one-man affair, although with Faries out of the way and no other serious contender in sight that's about what it will be.

Events have been shaping within the last few days which indicate that Joe Crail's retirement as manager of A. J. Wallace's Senatorial campaign in Southern California is soon to be announced. This, in fact, is something that I have expected since the three Senatorial contenders for the Republican nomination opened up their campaigns in earnest in the south. Joe, I understand, feels that while he holds his position as chairman of the State Republican Central Committee, southern division, and acts also as the Wallace mentor, he is making himself a fair target for political enemies. He is in San Francisco attending a meeting of Republican State chairmen and national committeemen, and therefore no statement could be had from him at this end, although one of his intimates yesterday told me to expect his retirement from the Wallace camp at an early date. This will definitely quiet the Kent outburst over Joe's dual role.

The Betterment Association, by the way, will meet today to review the men seeking election to the Senate from the Thirty-seventh District and the Sixty-fourth, Sixty-seventh and Sixty-ninth Assembly districts, and will make its indorsements. The meeting will be held in the blue room of the Los Angeles Athletic Club at noon.

Victor R. McLucas, City Attorney of Santa Monica, informs me that he is not a candidate for the Assembly from the Sixty-second District, but is supporting Arthur A. Weber for the seat. Weber, who has been a justice of the peace in Santa Monica for the last nine years, is opposing George R. Wickham, the incumbent. Wickham has the Betterment Association indorsement, and by reason of his good record and experience has something of an edge on the race.

Women are going to figure prominently in the State Senatorial race in the Thirty-seventh District, and it behooves the candidates to make an early peace with the voting sisterhood. In this district, which includes the Westlake Park section, there is no disposition to slumber and permit an undesirable to slip under the wire unseen. The records of the candidates will be carefully combed by the Woman's Republican Club which has just been organized with fifty members. Some of the more active ones are Dr. L. A. Brunning, president; Mrs. Susan Underwood, vice-president; Mrs. Agnes Desmond, treasurer; Mrs. Fay F. Stoddard, secretary; Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, Mrs. R. W. Richardson, Mrs. Alma Smith, Mrs. A. Peyton, Mrs. Mary E. Hurd, Mrs. A. L. Doke, Mrs. M. E. Johnson and Mrs. A. L. Ross.

I am informed that the Betterment Association has evidence of a scheme in the Twenty-ninth Senatorial District to defeat Senator Dwight Hart for re-election through a trick that, though hoary with age, carries some element of danger. Efforts are being made, it seems, to induce Henry Hart, a Socialist, to file a Republican petition and thus confuse voters who otherwise would vote for Dwight Hart. Frank Mouser, who is after Dwight Hart's scalp, would, of course, be the one to benefit by any split in the vote for Senator Hart, and information comes to me that a bunch of his worthies in the District are behind Henry Hart's campaign. I am inclined to believe that the Socialist is merely being used as a stalking horse for Mouser.

Tears of sympathy are in order for Billy Vacher, who is opposing Elmer F. Bromley, incumbent member of the Assembly from the Seventy-third District. A hard-hearted burglar, it seems, entered Vacher's home the other night and in addition to pilfering a portion of his campaign wad, stole also Billy's nominating petition. The worst of it is that the time is too short now to permit Vacher to circulate another petition, and unless the burglar returns the original it looks like his campaign will be definitely bogged.

Nominating petitions were filed with the Registrar of Voters yesterday in behalf of Senator E. J. Gates, who is seeking re-election in the Thirty-fifth Senatorial District; Willard E. Badham, candidate for the Assembly from the Seventy-second District, and Ira A. Lee of Pomona, candidate for the Assembly from the Sixty-eighth District. All three candidates have the indorsement of the Betterment Association.

The California State Colored Republican League has received a telegram from Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican Presidential standard-bearer, thanking that organization for a recent congratulatory wire and predicting a sweeping Republican victory in November. Senator Harding also urged the colored voters of the State to prove their party fealty by helping put California in the Republican column next fall.

NO VERDICT IN VAN CAMP SLANDER CASE.

MIXED JURY STANDS SIX TO SIX IN SUIT BASED ON DIVORCE CHARGES.

After a trial of six days, the mixed jury trying the $50,000 slander suit of Miss Ruth Cruzen against Mrs. Euphrasia Van Camp, reported to Judge Houser late last night that it was unable to agree. The jurors stood 6 to 6 and were discharged.

A question that had bothered the jurors was asked the court—namely, whether Mrs. Van Camp had to prove her charge that Miss Cruzen misconducted herself in the eucalyptus grove with Frank Van Camp, wealthy seafood packer. The court told the jury this charge must be proved, or Miss Cruzan was entitled to a verdict of some sort.

The jury was composed of Mrs. Sarah B. Shettler, Mrs. Frank H. Evarts, Mrs. Lillian C. Grow, A. C. Sikes, E. Sydnor, W. H. Moreland, H. J. Stembridge, A. G. Heming, Moses Belsley, J. H. Hurin, Mrs. William Ghent and R. W. Graybill.

SEARCH OUT THE GERMS OF RHEUMATISM

Find Out What Causes Your Suffering and Go After It.

"What is Rheumatism?" is a question that has not yet been answered entirely satisfactorily. There are still different opinions as to its exact cause, but little doubt that its pains are real.

The medical profession is practically agreed upon one point, however, and that is that Rheumatism is more than a series of local pains, and that the real cause of the disease is deep-seated, and cannot possibly be reached by remedies applied to the surface.

Some forms of this disease have been found to come from tiny germs in the blood, which set up their colony in the muscles, or joints and begin to multiply by the millions. You can easily understand, therefore, that the only intelligent method of treating such cases is through the blood.

S.S.S. is such a thorough blood purifier and cleanser that it can be relied upon to search out all disease germs and impurities and eliminate them from the system, and this is why it is such an excellent remedy for Rheumatism.

Go to your drug store and get a bottle of S.S.S. today, and if your case needs special attention, you can obtain medical advice free by writing fully to Chief Medical Adviser, 602 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Georgia.—[Advertisement.

VETERAN DETECTIVE TO LIVE, WORK HERE.

Richard H. Taylor, who recently resigned after more than twenty years of Federal secret service work, announced yesterday that he has bought a bungalow in the Hollywood hills and will make his home here. He also said he will open a private bureau of investigation, with headquarters in this city.

Mr. Taylor is a wearer of the Congressional medal, given him while he was in the Navy, for valor during the famous hurricane at Apia, Samoa. He was assigned to protect President Roosevelt after the assassination of President McKinley. He participated also in many famous investigations, notably the beef trust inquiry at Chicago, that led to the $29,000,000 fine against the packers. For a time he was the chief of the New York district of the secret service. Recently he conducted a crusade against the smuggling of Japanese across the Mexican line, his inquiry leading to the conviction of several leading Japanese ranchmen in the Imperial Valley, to the prosecution of two score smugglers and to the deportation of hundreds of aliens.

WOMEN'S WORK. WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Woman's City Club.

Being the last of the four men who are candidates for the United States Senate to appear on the platform of the Woman's City Club, Samuel M. Shortridge spoke yesterday afternoon at the meeting in Lincoln Hall.

"I am calling upon the Republicans of California to allow me to carry the banner of Republicanism into the Senate of the United States," he said. "I have carried it as a private since the days of James G. Blaine in 1884. As a leader I would continue to carry it."

Mr. Shortridge devoted the greater part of the time allatted to him for his address to the real earthquake in San Francisco, the mythical ones of Los Angeles and to the laudation of the beauties of California as an undivided State. On a warm day it was most refreshing to hear of the delights of the beach, mountains and ocean, even though it was not new to club members who at present are busy perusing resort, leaflets and vacation literature.

After Mr. Shortridge's campaign address on the "safe and sane" subject of California, questions were asked from the floor. Mr. Shortridge stood the barrage of questions bravely and when the smoke screen had cleared away his political status was revealed.

The first question concerned the wet and dry issue. Mr. Shortridge said: "I am strongly in favor of amending the Volstead Act as it curtails the freedom of the American citizen. While I do not believe in the saloon I would increase the percentage of alcohol allowed by the act."

Mrs. J. B. Stearns and Mrs. M. E. Jenkins took issue with him on this stand, but Mrs. Jenkins was with him when in answer to her question regarding the community property bill. He said he was for it. At this Mrs. R. W. Richardson rose to a point of order, emphasizing the fact that the question was out of order as it pertained only to the State and the speaker's views on national questions were desired. She asked for his viewpoint on the League of Nations.

"I say here as I said in the north, I am against it as an Afrco-British-Wilsonian amalgamation dangerous to the welfare of the country," he replied. Mr. Shortridge's further remarks left no doubt in the minds of his listeners that he was against the League or any league to the last ditch.

To Mrs. Herman Darling's question as to the reduction of the high cost of living the answer was increased production.

Mr. Shortridge was again definite in his statement in reply to another question of moment, saying: "I am not only against Japanese immigration, but against all Asiatic immigration into our beautiful California."

Miss Marie Carlo spoke for the Master Pictures Corporation, which proposes to give to the nation clean pictures for children, and Mrs. Minnie Barton, superintendent of the Woman's City Club Training Home for children, announced the picnic for the children of the home for Tuesday, July 27. She asked for help from the club members in getting ready for the picnic, to which there was generous response.

The meeting of the Republican Study Club this afternoon, with Mrs. Florence Collins Porter presiding in the theater in the former Y.W.C.A. Building, Hill and Third streets, was announced by Mrs. John T. Coolman, secretary of the Woman's City Club and a member of the Republican County Central Committee. All Republican women are invited, as well as those who are not definitely decided as to their party affiliation. The subject will be a comparison of the two big party platforms.

SUES DOCTOR WHO SET LEG.

Charles Markiewich, who asserts he was negligently operated on for a broken leg, yesterday sued Dr. E. C. Early, the California Hospital and the Union Oil Company for $12,393 damages. Dr. Early, the complaint states, is physician for the Union Oil Company. Damages are asked for the unshapeliness and the decreased efficiency and strength of the reset leg.

TELLS HOW TO BEAUTIFY HAIR

Has Devoted Over Forty Years of Study to Hair and Scalp Troubles

Prof. John H. Austin, bacteriologist, hair and scalp specialist of Chicago, who now has offices at Hamburger's, says that it is really remarkable that so few men and women nowadays possess an abundance of beautiful, healthy hair. Prof. Austin is probably right in saying that so little is generally known about the hair and scalp that when a little trouble actually arises the person afflicted turns to anything recommended by anybody, and usually the results are disastrous

Science has proved that different ailments of the hair and scalp require different treatments. The particular trouble with which your hair or scalp is afflicted must be known before it can be intelligently treated.

Guesswork is of no practical value concerning hair troubles. Prof. Austin has found that only a powerful microscope can determine the exact trouble with which the hair or scalp is afflicted.

Prof. Austin says that the use of mange cures, dandruff cures, hair tonics, vaseline and elixirs is like taking medicine without knowing what you are trying to cure.

FREE MICROSCOPIC EXAMINATION of the hair and scalp. Both men and women invited. Private offices at Hamburger's, Second Floor. Hours, 10 to 12 and 2 to 4.—[Advertisement.

TRAPP PAID WITH LIFE FOR DRIVING NEGRO OFF.

Rancher's Wife, Recovering, Shows Revenge Motive of Captured Slayer Who Makes Full Confession.

The slaying of Roy Trapp, the dangerous injury of and assault upon Mrs. Trapp and the robbing of their house by Mose Gibson, alias Mose Henry, alias Henry Washington, alias Henry Watson, confessed murderer now in the County Jail, was definitely established as a revenge job yesterday by Mrs. Trapp in her first complete and coherent account of the affair, given at the Fullerton Hospital.

Mrs. Trapp said that last Wednesday afternoon, the day before the night of the triple crime, her husband ordered off his ranch a negro who came there ostensibly to beg. The negro became abusive and threatened revenge, Mrs. Trapp said, so that she became alarmed and asked her husband to come in and leave him. The man went off, muttering threats.

The description Mrs. Trapp gives corresponds to that of Gibson, who yesterday was brought back from Needles and made a full confession of the Fullerton crime and of a slaying in Baton Rouge, La. He is also suspected, because of the extraordinary similarity of the crime to that at Fullerton, of the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Erhardt at Phoenix last June 7. He declared that he had never been at the Trapp ranch before the fatal night, but the officers believe he went there that afternoon while looking over possible places to burglarize—he has a long record as a burglar—and that Trapp's ordering him off made him decide to begin with him that same night.

Mrs. Trapp was so far recovered yesterday, as to be able to be told for the first time of her husband's death. She had supposed him merely injured like herself. She took the news bravely and said she realized that the death had thrust heavy responsibilities on her, and that she would do anything possible to assist her own recovery. This is expected in about two weeks, according to her physician, Dr. Cowles. She was, of course, unable to attend the funeral of her husband, which was held yesterday afternoon from the McAuley mortuary at Fullerton. The services were very largely attended. The pallbearers were all members of the Anaheim Lodge of Elks. The body was placed in a vault at Anaheim to await Mrs. Trapp's recovery.

FEELING IS BITTER.

Bitter feeling was expressed at Fullerton last night, when the details of Gibson's horrible confession were made public. The counsel of cooler head is expected to prevail, however, though for the present Gibson will be kept in the Los Angeles jail to insure safety.

The murder in Baton Rouge, La., took place ten years ago, Gibson said. He gave the name of his victim as J. R. Revis, and said that a reward of $1000 was offered for him at the time the search was being made.

The Orange county officials did not question the negro about the possibility that he was connected with the Phoenix murder. Today or tomorrow this case will be taken up again, they said.

THE ERHARDT MURDER.

Mr. and Mrs. Erhardt, the Phoenix victims, were slain by an unknown man at about the same hour of the morning and in the identical manner as the attack upon the Trapps. The weapon, as in the Fullerton case, was a mason's pick, which the slayer picked up on the place and dropped as he left after beating the couple to death by blows on the head. The house was ransacked. Rewards totaling over $3000 are offered for the murderer. A Mexican was arrested, but was cleared by an alibi.

SWIFT ACTION PLEDGED.

"We are all apt to get hot at first, but we must keep in mind that it would be unfortunate if hot-headed action should leave a blot upon the citizenship of Orange county," said Sheriff Jackson. "The law can give this man all he deserves, and it will not tarry, either. We have a complete case against him and with his confession justice will be handed out with speed and certainty. I certainly hope that every good citizen will do all in his power to uphold the law."

Dist.-Atty. West of Orange county, who helped in the investigation and took the confession, also asked the support of all law-abiding citizens in preserving order and keeping cool. "We have not determined how long we will keep the prisoner here," he said, "but the present is not the time to move him."

HIS CONFESSION.

Gibson's confession laid bare all the ghastly details of the crime. In a thick gurgling voice he droned out the story of the murder, speaking in snatches and with frequent reiterations. He told how he stole a horse at a place a quarter of a mile away from the Trapp ranch, how he drove to the Trapp home and tied the horse to a post. He then removed his shoes and walked up to the back window, gaining entrance to the house through it. He said he was drunk on wood alcohol.

Once in the room, he made his way to the bedroom and was ransacking the bureau drawers, he said, when Trapp woke up. Fearing capture, Gibson said he struck him over the head with the miner's pick he brought with him into the house. As the limp body of Trapp fell Mrs. Trapp came toward him, the negro said, calling for help. Then he hit her on the head with a hammer, and she, too, fell senseless to the floor. Then he criminally assaulted the helpless woman and left her to her fate.

He left the house by the back stairs, leaving the tell-tale prints of his stocking feet on the steps and on the soft earth in the vicinity of the house. Once outside he threw away his flashlight, mounted the horse and drove to the shed of the packing-house where he hid under the loading platform and removed the blood-stained trousers and the jumper coat he wore outside another suit.

ROBBED THE HOUSE.

He took some money and a little jewelry away with him, he said in his confession. One pin he threw away, and the rest he kept.

He remained under the loading platform until the midnight train to San Diego went by. He managed to get on the blind baggage platform and stayed on the train until it got to El Toro. There the engineer had some trouble with the engine and during the wait the conductor discovered the negro. He made him pay his fare and Gibson rode the rest of the way to San Diego inside one of the cars, he said. He spent the day in and around San Diego and took the train back to Los Angeles the next day. From there he went to San Bernardino, and from there to Needles. He was on his way to Albuquerque, N. M., when arrested.

While in Needles Gibson prowled around a while and burglarized several places. To escape detection he walked to Topoc, Ariz., fifteen miles away, where the station agent recognized him and called Constable J. W. West to make the arrest.

"You ain't got no warrant for me," the negro called out to the officer when he realized he was to be arrested.

"No, I haven't any warrant, but I've got a gun," was the reply, and Gibson followed the Constable to Needles.

Gibson made his confession in a little room at the District Attorney's office, slouched in a chair near the table at which sat Stenographer Slaback. His body now limp and now shifting from position to position, but his head and eyes nervously twitching and ducking, the negro faced on every side grim faces with tightly pressed lips and flashing eyes. At the table with the stenographer sat Sheriff Jackson and Dist.-Atty. West of Orange county. The other officers lined the four walls of the room. There were grim silences between the questions and answers. The long hours of killing driving

HERE IS TEXT OF GIBSON'S CONFESSION.

The following, except for unimportant matter, repetitions and unprintable answers, is the text of the main parts of the confession made by Mose Gibson, negro slayer of Roy Trapp and assailant of Mrs. Trapp, to Dist.-Atty. West and Sheriff Jackson of Orange county, in this city yesterday:

Question (by Dist.-Atty. West): You had quite a strenuous trip lately?

Answer: Yes, I have, sir. I was drinking, and a whole lot of things. I was under the influence of wood alcohol, but I am absolutely guilty.

Q.: Of what are you guilty?

A.: I am guilty of the crime you got me for.

Q.: You know where Fullerton is?

A.: Yes, sir.

Q.: Did you buy a flashlight over there?

A.: Yes, I bought a flashlight.

Q.: What day did you buy this flashlight?

A.: If I am not mistaken it was Wednesday.

Q.: You know where Mr. Trapp's residence is, on the hill, that pretty house?

A.: Well, I don't know exactly, I don't know the name because I never seen him before; that house on the hill that you are talking about is the one I was at.

Q.: What time did you get there?

A.: Well, I don't know exactly; I didn't have no watch and I was just a little bit drinking and under the influence of intoxicating liquor, and I can't tell exactly the time I got there, to tell the truth.

Q.: It was in the night time?

A.: Yes, sir; in the night time, but to place the exact time, I can't.

Q.: You went in the house there?

ENTERS HOUSE.

Q.: Just tell me how you got into the house? A.: I got in through a side window.

Q.: What did you take in the house in the way of weapons?

A.: I took one of them hammers.

Q.: And a hatchet, did you have that with you?

A.: Yes, sir; I had a hatchet.

Q.: And a claw hammer? A.: I didn't bring the hatchet and the claw hammer; they were there already; I had one of them large hammers.

Q.: Where did you get the hammer? A.: I got it down at the railroad track at the cement house or something.

Q.: Did you go up stairs? A.: Yes, sir.

Q.: When you got upstairs where did you find those people?

A.: I found them in a room upstairs, one of the rooms there—to tell you the truth I don't know exactly how many rooms they have got, because I was a little bit influenced, and it might have had three rooms or two, but I remember one room, that is the room where they were.

Q.: Where were they when you went in the room? A.: They was in the room in bed, is the best I can say.

Q.: What was the first thing you did when you went in the room?

A.: Well, I started like a thief would do, looking around searching around to see what I could steal.

Q.: Then what did you do next?

A.: Well, a move was made and I started to fighting.

Q.: You started fighting with Mr. Trapp? A.: Yes, sir.

Q.: What did you start fighting him with? A.: A hammer.

Q.: Did you hit him with the hammer? A.: Yes, sir.

Q.: And he didn't get out of the bed, did he?

KILLS TRAPP.

Q.: What did you do to him?

A.: I hit him a couple of licks, I think that was all. I don't exactly remember.

Q.: What about the woman?

A.: Well, in the excitement, she like a woman would do, she grabbed me, and I was like any other thief, trying to get loose, and I hit her, too.

Q.: Then what did you do?

A.: Well, I started shaking the place down, like any other thief would do.

Q.: What do you mean by "started shaking?"

A.: Well, shaking down, is the best I am able to say.

A.: Yes.

Q.: Did you get anything?

A.: Yes, I got a little money; I don't know how much; I put it in my pocket with my money, but it wasn't a whole lot of money; it wasn't over six or seven dollars.

Q.: How did you go up to the house that night? Did you walk or ride?

A.: Rid. (Rode.)

Q.: What did you ride?

A.: I rid a horse.

Q.: Where did you get him?

A.: Down the road four or five or six blocks.

Q.: Did you get him out of a barn?

A.: Yes, sir.

Q.: After you had done this work up there what did you then do? After you had fought with those people and killed Mr. Trapp and struck Mrs. Trapp and had shaken the place down, did you go away?

A.: Yes, sir; I went away.

Q: When you went into the house what did you have on your feet?

A: I had on nothing at all, but just my socks.

HIS ESCAPE.

Q: What did you do when you got out where the horse was?

A: I took the horse and went on down—let's see—no, I started to come this way to Los Angeles, but I was scared of getting mixed up; I didn't know the road, and I heard the train coming, and I went down toward the depot.

Q: Where did you leave the horse?

A: I left him down the railroad track—not on the railroad track, but turned him loose in some kind of an open place there by the side.

Q: Then what did you do when you got to the depot?

Q: Where did you go from there?

A: I went down to San Diego.

Q: How did you ride from there down to San Diego?

Q: And you paid your fare before you got to San Diego?

A: Yes, sir; I paid my fare.

Q: Do you remember what place it was you paid your fare?

A.: Tonoro, or something.

Q.: El Toro?

A.: Yes, that is the name of the place.

Q.: And before you left the Trapp home, the woman that was in the case, you took her downstairs, didn't you?

Q.: Where did you leave her?

ATTACKS WOMAN.

Q.: What did you do to her besides hitting her over the head with a hammer?

A.: I didn't do anything to her at all, only . . . (Here Gibson described the attack on Mrs. Trapp.)

Q.: In what room was that?

A.: That was upstairs.

Q.: Where you had had the fight with the husband, Mr. Trapp?

A.: Yes, sir.

Q.: He was lying there on the bed at that time, dead?

A.: He was lying on the bed.

Q.: Wasn't he lying there dead at that time?

Q.: What did she say or do while you were doing that to her?

A.: Well, I don't quite remember; of course, I was kind of excited and full of wood alcohol and shipwrecked and kind of lunacy; if I had been in my right mind I wouldn't have done it, but I was heavy under the influence of wood alcohol and kind of shipwrecked, my nerves—and I really couldn't tell all these things because I was kind of overbalanced.

Q.: How many times did you hit Mrs. Trapp?

A.: If I am not mistaken about once or twice.

Q.: You had hit her over the head before you did that?

A.: I think so, but I am not really sure; I think I did. I want to tell the truth. I know it is going to cost me my life, and I am trying to get the Lord to give me forgiveness, because I was overbalanced, and I thought the Lord would look over it and spare me if I repent, because Noah once got drunk and made a little mistake, but, like some people, I made a mistake, and it was too big, and I have taken something I can't give back.

Q.: What day did you come up from San Diego? The same day you got off at Fullerton?

A.: Yes, sir; the same day.

Q.: Before you left San Diego and before you got to Fullerton didn't you go into a house down there and get some things?

A.: Yes, sir; I got these white shoes I have got on and a jumper.

Q.: In whose house did you get the jumper?

A.: I don't know the name of it.

Q.: What kind of a jumper was it?

A.: A blue jumper. I had been to Tia Juana and got drunk and spent my money and I caught a ride back there and didn't have any coat.

CATALINA SEALS ARE BUTCHERED.

Sportsmen See Fishing Boat Crew Gathering Pelts.

Animals Killed with Clubs, Flayed by Foreigners.

There is no California law forbidding the ruthless slaughter of seals on Catalina Island. Such is the information furnished by the State Fish and Game Commission yesterday when William H. Taylor, an oil promoter, returned from Avalon to the mainland with photographs and other evidence showing that a crew of foreigners on a small fishing boat killed and skinned three seals offshore from the Seal Rocks, Catalina Island, last Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Taylor stated yesterday that while he was fishing in the vicinity of the Seal Rocks, he saw several fishing craft, manned by swarthy foreigners, anchored in the vicinity. With Mr. Taylor were Capt. George L. Read, of the launch Ramona, and Fred H. Hammer.

Capt. Read sailed close to the anchored craft and aboard the fishing boat Sockey he and Mr. Taylor saw the crew skin a giant bull seal.

"While some of the men were skinning this bull," said Mr. Taylor, "others of the crew were clubbing two smaller seals to death. The carcass of the large seal was then thrown overboard. Capt. Read and myself gaffed the carcass and hauled it aboard our boat while the flesh was still warm. We then took it to Avalon, where we had it photographed to present as evidence if any authorities desire to prosecute the seal killers."

Mr. Taylor was informed by representatives of the State Fish and Game Commission that no law exists to prevent the slaying of seals on Catalina. He was told that in 1909 a State law was passed making it a misdemeanor to slay, injure or capture any seals in the Santa Barbara Channel, but this law does not protect the seals along the rest of the Southern California coast or on Catalina Island. He was also told that it would be almost impossible to prosecute the slayers, despite the fact that their boat has been identified.

The seals that play on the rocks of Catalina are a principal attraction on the island and every year thousands of tourists make the voyage to the playground of the animals to watch them.

ARRAIGN AUTOIST ON CARELESSNESS CHARGE

A jury in Judge Willis's court yesterday began hearing the testimony in the case of J. E. Murphy, who is charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Clara Snead and Walter Dionne, by running over them at Eighth and Pico streets, Santa Monica. Carelessness caused the fatality, it is charged.

G. O. P. TO UNITE AT RALLY.

All elements of the Republican party in Southern California will join hands at Trinity Auditorium next Thursday, at the public meeting which has been called to ratify the nominations of Senator Warren G. Harding and Gov. Calvin Coolidge as the Republican standard bearers, and formally to launch the Presidential battle of 1920. Plans for this gathering were virtually completed yesterday at a meeting of the ratification committee of the Republican State Central Committee, Southern Division, at the committee headquarters, 302 H. W. Hellman Building. E. A. Meserve, who will be chairman of the ratification meeting, presided. The committee acted for the eight southern counties, all of which will be represented at the gathering Thursday evening.

Among the speakers will be Gov. Stephens, former Senator Frank P. Flint, Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, Mrs. Katherine P. Edson, member of the State Industrial Welfare Commission, and C. C. Chapman of Fullerton. Efforts are being made also to augment this list with two or three speakers identified with the national campaign, one of them being Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, who is summering at Pacific Grove. An invitation was wired to him yesterday by the committee.

Plans for the proposed monster Republican parade for Thursday have been abandoned on account of the gasoline shortage. Instead, a huge Republican elephant will carry the party emblem through the downtown streets during the day. Participating in the rally will be delegations of Republicans from San Diego, San Bernardino, Riverside, Colton and Pomona. They will come to Los Angeles on special trains.

The People and Their Daily Troubles

POLITICAL REFORMS, MUST COME OR FREE INSTITUTIONS WILL PERISH

Former United States Senator John D. Works Writes Timely Article on Present Day Abuses and Political Trickery in Common Vogue.

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It has been very generally hoped, and just a little expected, that the dreadful experiences of the war, its losses, its sorrows and sufferings, and the enemies to free government it has raised up, would arouse the latent patriotism of the people, increase their devotion to the democratic principles of their government, cleanse their hearts of the dross of selfishness and greed, and purify and elevate the standard of politics and of official and social life.

We have witnessed the proceedings of this year's national conventions of the two great political parties of the country. No good American citizen can look back upon these proceedings without a blush of shame.

One would have supposed that these two bodies of representative men and women would have felt the extreme gravity of their duties if they were to speak for their respective parties, as they assumed to do, and that their proceedings throughout would have been conscientious, patriotic, dignified and deliberative. Instead, they seemed to think of nothing but making a platform that would bring their parties votes. They espoused the things that were popular and shunned and adroitly evaded taking issue on anything that might give offense to any, and they lied and deceived as of old. The bosses and their lieutenants and aids, big and little, were there to see that a vote-getting platform was adopted and available, that is, a vote-winning candidate nominated. The money was there, the managers, the sleuths, even the candidates for the great office of President of the United States, the clackers and shouters, and the thoughtless delegates who helped to make the convention at times an idiotic and disgraceful mob. What a humiliating, what an unholy spectacle, in a civilized nation, on so great and what should have been such a solemn occasion.

The political boss cannot be removed by law. It must be done by a better educated sentiment.

Next to the political boss in conventions the greatest evil is the party platform. It is nothing better than an insincere fraudulent device to deceive and delude voters and secure votes. It is in no sense a covenant with the people. It binds no one. It serves no useful purposes except for campaign purposes. If followed by the President or members of Congress it leads them to violate their duty and their oaths of office.

A political party should be judged by what it has done and not by what it promises in a form that does not bind it and by which the officers elected under it have no right to be bound, and the officers elected, from President down, should be judged in the same way and, in the performance of their duties, should be governed, under their oaths, by the Constitution and laws of the country.

On the question of the League of Nations, one of the most momentous questions ever presented to a political convention, affecting the future destiny of the country, neither convention was sincere and honest, neither declared its real convictions. They present the most flagrant of the many cases of party platform for campaign purposes only. The League of Nations covenants may yet be taken up again by the Senate. Does anyone suppose that any Senator, Democrat or Republican, will change his position and violate his duty and his oath of office because his party platform has declared one way or the other. Not one who has any proper sense of duty or honor left. Some Senators look upon a vote for the League of Nations as no better than treason, others that to vote against it is an act of bad faith affecting our honor as a nation.

I am a believer in political parties. They are necessary to select candidates, discuss public questions and inform the people in an organized way, but they have no legitimate place in conducting the affairs of government. That can be lawfully done only by duly elected and qualified officers. Politics should have no place in the making or the execution of the laws.

When the struggle is over and one or the other of the candidates is elected to the office, he should at once cease to be a party man and attend to his official duties. That, if well done, will be quite enough to call for all his time and energy. Party politics has no business in the Presidential office, or the transaction of government business. The President who assumes to be the leader or even a worker for his party while in office violates its duties. We have come to witness the great powers of the President used with all their force, continuously and persistently in behalf of a political party. It makes one who loves his country heartsick.

There is another much-needed reform that goes to the very foundation of the government. At law we are a free representative republic composed of three separate, independent departments, legislative, executive and judicial; one to make the laws, one to execute and another to construe and enforce them; but, of late years, we have practically and in all essential respects degenerated into an arbitrary autocracy of the worst sort, with absolute and unrestrained power over all these departments, especially the legislative, assumed and exercised by the President alone. Instead of a republic of three independent departments we have become a one-man government.

Last but not least of the corroding, corrupting evils that are affecting American politics which I shall mention here is the inordinate use of money in political campaigns. In spite of all the efforts made to check the evil, by law, it has grown worse and worse year after year until it has assumed the proportions of a national scandal. Candidates for office have been known to spend out of their own pockets more money, for their nomination or election, than their salaries for the full term for which they were seeking election would amount to. This was shown in an official investigation in case of one candidate this year for President of the United States. Fortunately he was not nominated. To the large sums contributed by the candidates is added even larger amounts contributed by friends and party supporters.

One candidate for United States Senator and a number of his supporters have been convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for corrupt practices in spending enormous sums for his election. It was a very wholesome lesson. There should be thousands more political corruptionists served the same way. But most of them commit these detestable crimes with impunity. When these large expenditures of money are assailed, the claim is made that it costs an enormous sum for publicity since the country has grown so large. This is a specious, but a very inadequate excuse. A very large part of the publicity is like the platform, deceptive and fraudulent, and another large part is devoted to accusations and abuse of other parties and candidates, newspapers are subsidized to publish what is not true and what they do not believe. The country would be far better off without the greater part of these publications, and just as well off without any part of it. Information given the voters, voluntarily and without pay, would furnish all the information needed and be far more reliable.

Going back to the evils of political conventions. If this country has any political honesty and virtue left, things cannot go on as they are unless the conventions are reformed and made decent representatives of the people in the selection of their officers, the conventions will be abolished and direct primaries substituted.

I have been a supporter of direct primary laws in the State. They were brought about by the corrupt manipulation of State and county conventions by corporations and other privileged interest through their hired machine bosses. Direct primaries have not proved satisfactory, mostly because of the indifference of the voters to their civic duties, but they are far better than the old corrupt convention system.

Unless the convention method of nomination of candidates for Federal officers is reformed, very radically, and the fraudulent party platforms abolished, we will have to have national primaries which I think should be avoided.

There are other much-needed political reforms too tedious to mention within the limits of a newspaper article.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Q.: How many Shriners are there in the United States? R. D. K.

A.: The latest official record gives 200,500 as the number of members of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Q.: Does the war tax on imitation beer bring in as much revenue as the tax on other soft drinks? P. C.

A.: During the month of May, 1920, the tax collected on soft drinks was $1,573,000, while that on cereal drinks (imitation beer) amounted to $2,675,000.

Q.: Is Solomon's Song properly part of the Bible? G. E. F.

A.: The Song of Solomon was incorporated in the earliest Jewish scriptures. Selections were sung at certain festivals in the temple at Jerusalem prior to its destruction by Titus. It was first declared canonical by the synod of Jamnia 90 A. D.

Q.: Where are "the Needles"? R. G.

A.: The Needles are a group of three-pointed rocks in the English Channel, west of the Isle of Wight.

Q.: What has become of Ambrose Bierce? H. C.

A.: Ambrose Bierce, a well-known writer and journalist, although an old man at the time, joined Villa's staff in 1914. He has been missing since the Battle of Torreon. Some think he was killed in battle, others that he was murdered, while some incline to a suicide theory.

Question: How many women will vote this fall, if the suffrage amendment does not pass by that time? E. L. O.

Answer: In event of the failure of one more State to ratify the suffrage amendment, in time to enfranchise women generally, 17,500,000 women may vote for President, nevertheless. There are about 27,000,000 women in the United States of voting age, which would leave 9,500,000 of them voteless.

Q.: Why do men in the Navy have to buy their uniforms, while enlisted men in the Army do not? I. M. C.

A.: The Army and the Navy are separate and distinct departments. The War Department does furnish all enlisted men with uniforms, equipment, food and quarters during their term of enlistment. Commissioned officers have to buy their own uniforms. In the Navy a man is given only $60 for his uniform upon enlistment and he is required to purchase what else he may need during his enlistment. This does not mean, however, that he receives less from the government, because he is paid more than a man of the same comparative rank in the army, and, really is the gainer rather than the loser in the end.

A.: The moon is always round, but its changes in appearance are due to the earth's shadow being thrown upon it as the earth passes between the sun and the moon. The size of the shadow varies each night that the moon is visible.

A.: Victor Herbert is an Irish-American, having been born in Dublin, Ireland.

Q.: What steps are being taken to stop the spread of bubonic plague, which has reached our shores? D. G. H.

A.: The public health service is conducting an extensive campaign for the extermination of rats. Bubonic plague is primarily a disease of rodents, especially rats, and the disease can be controlled effectively by measures directed against the rat. These pests also cause a tremendous economic damage. There are about as many rats as people in the United States, and it costs us at least $180,000,000 to support the rat population.

Q.: What is the original of the expression, grass widow? M. C. P.

A.: This has been twisted about from the words grace widow—a widow by the grace of circumstances.

Q.: How many makes of automobiles are there in this country? F. F.

A.: The American Automobile Association states that there are about eighty-five different trade names of passenger cars manufactured in this country. Some of the companies make motor trucks also, while about forty additional firms manufacture auto trucks only.

Q.: Who is the Elijah of the New Testament? C. W.

A.: John the Baptist has been referred to in this manner, owing to the fact that the events of his life were very similar to those recorded of Elijah.

Q.: Who was known as Bell-the-Cat? T. E. T.

A.: This was a name given to one of the Scotch Douglases. It was Archibald, son of George, fourth Earl of Angus, who bore the name.

Q.: Was San Francisco under martial law at the time of the fire in 1906? E. A. E.

A.: During the earthquake and fire in San Francisco, April, 1906, the city was placed under military control with Gen. Funston in command, acting in conjunction with the city authorities.

Q.: What is th expression "zoom" used to indicate in regard to airplanes? H. G.

Q.: How far above sea level is Washington, D. C.? Q. E. D.

A.: The city is practically at sea level. There is a tidal basin in Potomas Park. Historic Pennsylvania avenue is about twenty feet above, while some of the suburbs reach the height of 420 feet.

Q. How long does it take a post-office to pay you for a money order that has been lost? J. L.

A. The Postoffice Department states that thirty-six days must elapse from the time an order is issued before a duplicate money order may be obtained.

Get Back of 'em.

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—[To the Editor of The Times:] There seems to be a feeling that the oil companies are playing some kind of a game to make the motorist pay more and more for his "gas" and that they are making the present shortage part of the plan to exact an extra tribute.

This may or may not be true, but to the average observer it is quite plain that some kind of a game is being played for which the automobile owner will have to pay the bill. There is just one way to even this up and that is for the autoists, as a body, organized for the purpose, to practice a little self-denial and allow their cars to remain in their garages for a series of weeks. The oil companies would soon come across if this plan was taken up universally, for no company is big enough to lose much money for any considerable period of time.

Pretty Church Wedding.

A pretty church wedding was solemnized on Saturday when Miss Esther Newell became the bride of Eric E. Lamhofer of Fullerton at the Wilshire Christian Church, 150 friends witnessing the ceremony. The bride, who is a charming blonde, wore an exquisite imported gown of white duchesse satin and a tulle veil gracefully held with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of lillies and orchids. Mrs. George Charters officiated as matron of honor and the single bridesmaid was Miss Imogen Hammer, both being exquisitely gowned in pink and orchid, respectively. Willard Hage, Jr., of San Diego, was the best man.

After an extended motor trip, the couple will make their home in Los Angeles.

Several prenuptial affairs were given complimenting the pair, notably the dinner at the Athletic Club on Friday evening at which Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Newell were the hosts, and a luncheon by the groom's sister, Mrs. Chaters, on Thursday.

A Wedding Surprise.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Macdonald entertained their friends with a dinner at Marcel's on Thursday evening, at which they announced that they had been secretly married two hours previously.

Mrs. Macdonald, who was Mary Madelyn Baker, is the daughter of Mrs. Lillian Campbell of Detroit and this city. Mr. Macdonald is a business man of Los Angeles. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Albert Flick at his own home.

From Louisville.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Rudolf of Louisville, Ky., arrived in Los Angeles on Saturday for a six week's visit to Col. and Mrs. John Hetterman of Harvard Boulevard. Mrs. Rudolf is Mrs. Hetterman's sister. Both visitors are distinguished in Louisville musical circles, both being brilliant violinists. Mr. Rudolf conduvts a 200-piece orchestra.

Mrs. J. B. McClure Remarries.

Mrs. J. B. McClure of Long Beach became the bride of Laurence Child Abercrombie of Winchester, Mass., on Thursday, last, and have left for the East. Mrs. McClure is known as an indefatigable War Camp Community Service worker and was the successful organizer of the Long Beach branch. The wedding took place very quietly at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Browne. The couple will live in Los Angeles upon their return from their honeymoon tour.

Tenor and Bride Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Allen entertained their friends with a dinner-dance at their home, 1510 South Manhattan Place in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Passalacqua of San Francisco, who are their house guests this week. Mr. Passalacqua is a popular tenor in the northern city and his bride, who was Miss Blesilla Camfranori of Los Angeles, is very beautiful. Mr. and Mrs. Passalacqua will sail for Italy in a few days, where the tenor will fill numerous engagements.

The Carlton Dance.

A coterie of British officers have formed a new social club to be known as the New Carlton, and it held its first dance at the Hollywood Woman's clubhouse last Friday evening. The dance is to be the forerunner of many and proved an instant success. Among the numerous interesting guests present were Charles Booth, grandson of the famous Gen. Booth, Capt. and Mrs. Vesey O'Davoren (the latter better known as Mme. Ivy de Verley of London, Eng.) Mary Miles Minter and her mother, Mrs. Shelby, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Valley, Miss Norma Bailey, Capt. Lawson and Cap. Morgan.

After the dance numerous friends were entertained by Capt. and Mrs. O'Davoren at their suite in the Hollywood Hotel, which has been redecorated with many beautiful tapestries and curios brought out from England by Mme. De Verley.

The Country Club.

The country clubs are naturally the ideal setting for summer entertainments and many little dinner parties took place at the Los Angeles Country Club over the week-end. Amongst those entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Sartori, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nourse, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Goodwin, and any number of hospitable bachelors.

The Misses Marguerita and Caroline Winston will be the hostesses at a tea at the club on Thursday next in honor of two bridal couples elect—their brother, Jack Winston and Miss Ethel Moreny of San Francisco, and Miss Louise Forve and Edgar Gale Miller.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. N. Cana, the prominent and picturesque Parsees from Bombay, India, who spent the winter in Los Angeles, have just completed their long tour of the United States and sailed for London, England, on the 15th inst. In writing to California friends, they declare Southern California to be quite the most delightful spot they have visited in a year's steady sightseeing, and they intend returning for another sojourn on their way home next spring.

Mrs. Newlan Conklin of Carrolton, Kan., has just arrived for a long summer visit to her mother, Mrs. Harriet Reynolds of Covina. Next week the party will be joined by Mr. James Taylor, widower son-in-law of Mrs. Reynolds, who is bringing his new bride for a California honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Winter, who have been honeymooning at Lake Tahoe, have returned to Santa Anita Rancho. Mrs. Winter was Miss Dextra Baldwin, daughter of Mrs. Anita Baldwin. Mr. Winter captured two rowing trophies in the Fourth of July sports at Lake Tahoe.

Dr. and Mrs. George W. Moore of this city have left for a month's vacation. They will spend some time in the mountains and return via Lancaster, where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Bell, formerly of this city.

Mrs. Frank Hart and her sons, Harold and Karl Hart of Hartford, Sierra Madre, have left for Tallac, Tahoe, where they will spend a few weeks.

OVER THOUSAND ERRORS FOUND?

San Diego Banker Found Guilty of Embezzlement; Files Exceptions.

A bill of exceptions and assignment of errors on the part of the defense in the case brought by the government against Charles L. Williams, who was found guilty of embezzling more than $100,000 from the American National Bank of San Diego, while president of that institution, and sentenced to five years in the Federal penitentiary at McNeils Island, was filed in the United States District Court yesterday. L. E. Dadmun, attorney for Williams, stated there were more than 1000 assignments of error.

The records will now go to the United States Attorney for amendment, if so desired, and then to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, where the judgment of conviction will finally rest.

Divorce Trial by Jury Asked by Millionaire.

C. D. Hillman, millionaire resident of Pasadena, who has been sued for divorce by Bessie Olive Hillman, has set a precedent in the Superior Court by filing a motion for a jury trial of the case. Judge Wellborn, to whom the motion was made yesterday, referred the matter to Presiding Judge Jackson. The latter says he is disqualified and sent the matter back to Judge Wellborn, who next Monday will have the case set for trial. He probably will not act until that time on the motion for a jury trial.

The law seems to be that, as a divorce case is an equitable proceeding, the parties to the suit are not entitled to a jury trial.

The Hillman case involves not only the custody of the minor children, but a large amount of property. Mrs. Hillman charges cruelty and Mr. Hillman is vigorously fighting the charge.

Detectives and Shoppers Fight and Nab Thief.

Following a struggle in which two private detectives and a score of shoppers took part, T. Meesa, 25 years of age, a Mexican, was arrested late yesterday in a downtown department store and charged with petty larceny. According to the officers, the Mexican stole two dresses from a bargain counter and attempted to run from the store.

At Central Police Station Meesa confessed to the theft and also stated that he was arrested and convicted about a year ago for stealing a pair of shoes from the same store.

The prisoner was taken into court at once and sentenced by Police Judge Frederickson to serve six months in jail.

Adjudge Author of Ross Ranch Killing Insane.

Frank Cardilli, charged with the murder of Antonio Caruso on Judge Erskine Ross's ranch at Glendale last April, was found insane by the Lunacy Commission yesterday and committed to the Patton Hospital.

The evidence before the commission showed that last Christmas Cardilli, a ranch hand, broke a window and was chided by Caruso, the cook. Cardilli is said to have responded:

"I will get you for this."

Four months later he approached Caruso and without warning fired four shots at him, killing him instantly.

Cardilli was arrested and confined in the County Jail. At times there he was violent and had to be restrained. He would not talk, but at the hearing yesterday he grew highly excited.

NEW RECORD IN ARRESTS MADE.

for the previous year. The cash fines resulting from the convictions obtained through the activities of the Chinatown squad amounted to $36,765. The amount of cash fines from this branch of the service for the previous year was $19,648. The increase in cash fines from this work for the year just ended was therefore $17,117.

"No less remarkable was the record made by the metropolitan squad, whose activities covered every part of the city, where vice was run down in its most secret places. The cash fines from arrests and convictions obtained through this squad amounted to $54,909, as against $21,258 for the previous year.

AFTER REDS.

"For the purpose of checking the criminal activities of dangerous radicals who seek to overthrow the principles of our free government, a bomb squad was organized. This squad succeeded in placing under arrest all known dangerous agitators in the city. Many of these have been convicted and are in penal institutions. A part of this work was the organization of a squad known as the work or jail squad. The work of this unit was to apprehend notorious vagabonds and shiftless persons who refused to work and created economic and industrial unrest.

"The department is under obligations to the press, the City Prosecutor, the District Attorney of Los Angeles county, Federal officers, Police Commissioners, private agencies, members of the Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, other civic and welfare organizations and hundreds of private citizens who have aided the department in maintaining law and order."

GOOD SECURITY.
The bankers are becoming very careful and cautious in their credits. There's more than one bank in town that will not loan a penny on a jazz-band record.

MANY GOATS.
Apparently the Chicago street-car strike is over and everybody is back to work on an open-shop basis. It was a strike called by one man. Some day some of the men may be able to find out what it was all about and then they will have to strike over again or take a swift kick at the agitator who started it.

SPINNING YARNS.
Gov. Cox spent a couple of hours with the President and reports the Chief Executive in fine shape and able to tell three or four funny stories to illustrate his points. He declined to repeat the anecdotes, however, to the interviewers. Why this hesitation? The Washington correspondents will stand for anything—even the old ones.

THE DIVORCE MILL.
A Chicago judge disposed of 453 divorce cases within the span of two weeks. This is getting them out of the way at the rate of forty a day on ordinary working time and is undoubtedly a world's record. It is one, however, to be viewed with alarm rather than pointed to with pride. Possibly the worst feature about it is that it virtually leaves a thousand trained love-makers in a position to marry again.

BEATS FIGHTING.
Italy asks an apology from Jugo-Slavia for the Spalato incident. This should be easy. If the Balkan nations could get to doing the Alphonse and Gaston business instead of carrying a dark lantern and edged tools the work of the League of Nations would be easy. An apology is much better than a fight and ought to be easier. A prompt voluntary apology when a nation is in the wrong or has made a mistake should be scored as a great victory in making up the averages for the big League.

INSIDE AND OUT.
Had we entered the League of Nations at the outset and without hesitation American advice and influence would have had it functioning fine by this time. There is nothing about the covenant that forbids advance or improvement. Although we are not in the League, there is nothing about it to prevent the League from asking the counsel of an expert like Elihu Root in designing the machinery for the world court that is a part of the League. As a result he has practically dominated the situation and the great tribunal of international justice will be largely of his framing, and the rights and principles of the smaller nations have been fully protected, while at the same time the great powers have responsibilities proportionate to their strength. There can be disarmament within this League, but not without. Are we willing to pay the price of exclusion?

UNEXPORTABLE CLIMATE.
Under a recent date the San Francisco Chronicle publishes a whining editorial about Los Angeles and its harbor. In the light of what has actually been developed in the metropolis of the State of California within the last three decades that journal indulges in some very amusing reflections. Is it trying to keep its resident readers and its chance tourists in ignorance of the facts pertaining to the growth of Los Angeles? The Chronicle curiously ends its bitter tirade with the astonishing statement that "Los Angeles has little left but its climate and that is not exportable."

Of course, if that statement were true it would be paying Los Angeles an unintentional compliment. If this assumed sole possession of Los Angeles—an unexportable climate—is sufficient to make it surpass San Francisco in growth, population and prosperity in a few decades, if this unexportable climate has the power to draw the enterprising, intelligent, wealthy and cultured people of America and Europe to its borders, if it makes the Los Angeles Harbor the greatest lumber importing port in the world, if it attracts manufacturers from the great centers of industry in the East to invest thousands of millions of dollars here because of its unexportable climate and the facilities of the unique harbor which its citizens had the enterprise to enlarge, improve and make the safest harbor on the entire west coast of both Americas, if it builds hundreds of acres of warehouses and factories, block after block of magnificent business houses and erects thousands of beautiful homes and mansions of unsurpassed architectural beauty surrounded by lovely ornamental grounds—why, perhaps it is not such a bad thing to be the exclusive possessor of an unexportable climate. Our good people have no reason to regret that Los Angeles is here with a climate that brings so much of comfort and beauty and zest to its citizens, and that San Francisco is 500 miles distant with its afternoon gales and fogs and its cramped peninsular area. But we do not despise San Francisco, we willingly acknowledge that it has some good points and we always advise the tourists who flock to our shores to include that city in their peregrinations if they have time. After spending a few months here they may profitably while away a day or two admiring the picturesque scenery about San Francisco Bay.

GOOD-BY DRIVES!
One of the significant developments in American life is the decline of the drive—that fierce, remorseless, inconsiderate crusade after the people's dollars for some special cause.

During the war the public poured out its cash so freely and so generously in response to these feverish drives for the Liberty Loans and the Red Cross that drivers, promoters, schemers and projectors saw an inviting opportunity for all to get "easy money," and the result was a great massing of drives for every imaginable purpose, from pushing a religious work to establishing a home for sick pussy cats—nearly every drive having its paid managers, solicitors and secretaries and highly overpaid press agents employed to steal space from the newspapers and pocket a high rate for it themselves. At one time no less than forty-nine of these drives were a-driving full speed ahead in Los Angeles.

All went swimmingly at first and the drivers chortled over their success, while press agents grew rich; but it was soon discovered that not all the projects were practicable; that not all the drive money was to be judiciously spent; that there were too many rake-offs connected with the system, too costly expense accounts for traveling secretaries, etc.; and that in some instances most of the money subscribed went into private pockets and bought costly millinery, and a small share found its way to the object supposed to be in view.

The people became convinced that they were being overdriven and some of the last attempts at driving fell far short of the mark. So decided was the change in the temper of the public that needy, philanthropic causes suffered with the undeserving and the indiscriminate schemes. Today one of these drives would be about as unpopular a movement as a promoter could start. The public would rather buy the bonds of wildcat companies now. Always we have with us the slick promoter! Always the man and woman anxious to start something and handle its funds.

One of the greatest and most ambitious of these drives to go down was the so-called "Interchurch World Movement," which appealed to the country for many millions for an object that was somewhat vague. One of the religious leaders of Los Angeles, Rev. Dr. James A. Francis, in his remarks on the collapse of this movement, Sunday morning, brought out the astounding fact that this drive not only failed to realize enough money to pay for itself, but run into debt six million dollars for its enormous overhead expenses for promoters, secretaries, stenographers, advertising, etc., etc. Costly philanthropy!

Dr. Francis knows what he is talking about and his report was made in a kindly spirit. His statements were not exaggerated and may be depended upon.

In an editorial article headed "Financing Salvation," printed April 18, The Times saw fit to criticise the extravagant methods of this interchurch movement and to sound a warning against such financial exploitation in the name of religion. In the course of this editorial The Times said:

> We have all heard about the campaign drive due April 25 to raise a few hundred million dollars for Christian salvation. The Interchurch World Movement and the New World Movement are keeping us informed via $6000 a page advertisements in the big weeklies. Thirty Christian denominations have so far sunk their little differences as to combine in a gigantic dollar culling. They are not exactly united on little matters of creed and ceremony; our souls are still offered an embarrassment of choice of ways and means; but they speak in their full-page advertisements and costly promotions as one voice in exhorting us to "come through" with the lucre, by which alone the simple créed of Jesus and His humble fishermen disciples can be perpetuated.
> In short, religion has decided to adopt the methods of big business and brilliant financial co-operation, whatever its other multitudinous differences may be. Some of our Christian pastors and masters tell us, vide the advertisements, that "business associations, governments and the leaders of the great religious bodies have surveyed world conditions and their verdicts all agree" that nothing but millions can buy salvation for a "world torn with wars." They are spending millions in this drive.
>
> The managers of the movement boomed it in advertisements that sounded like the prospectuses of the Woolly Bully Oil Company. They must have put over a million into their advertising campaign. They spent money like Blue Sky stock brokers; and now they are six millions in the hole.
>
> Scenting the danger, The Times took occasion to protest very plainly against this method of religious high-sky finance. For so doing we were roundly censured by some of the clergy, while others applauded. One of Los Angeles' distinguished clergymen sent The Times a very earnest protest and exhorted us to "get aboard."
>
> In his candid explanation of the wrecking of this Interchurch World Movement Dr. Francis seems to be right in the main. We think, however, he lays too much stress on the strength of denominational feeling and too little on public disgust with extravagant driving methods.
>
> The public has been overdriven. It has been overmilked. It has seen its easy money eaten up in those expenses politely called "overhead." In too many instances two dollars have gone to graft for every dollar going to the avowed object. Well, let it all be called "overhead expense." Six millions and more in one case.
>
> The public is seeing the light. It cannot be overheaded and overdriven today. And we all, as a people, must rid ourselves of the easy-money idea. That is the chief cause of our economic ills. That, brethren, is the itch that ails us.

FARM AND COLLEGE.
The colleges are producing graduates trained in practical and scientific farming and these young men are in demand for farm managers and ranch superintendents at salaries ranging from $1800 to $3600 a year. This looks like fine business both ways. It is well that the colleges recognize the importance of husbandry and it is well that a student who painstakingly adopts such a career should find instant appreciation and reward. Agriculture is inclined to fall into two lines—the one-man farm where the owner can take care of production without much worry about help, and the large ranch where most of the work is done by machinery. Into either of these the college-trained farmer should fit to advantage.

Safe at Last.

AUSTRALIA AND THE JAPANESE.
The Australians have irrevocably declared for a "White Australia" and feel very much towards the Japanese as the Californians do. And just at present their problem is taking on a new angle, commensurate with Australia's new responsibilities in her mandate for those Pacific islands south of the equator—New Guinea, Bougainville, Solomon Islands and a multitude of smaller ones formerly held by Germany.

Just as the Japanese populations of Hawaii and the Philippines are residents of the United States, so Australia finds an immense Japanese population under her rule in the newly-acquired territory, and the delicate question arises, whether she can govern and foster-mother these peoples and still bar them from the continent of Australia. The Australian commission in London is reported as declaring that the Japanese have been pouring into these islands by the shipload since the armistice and before the Australian mandate is completely ratified—to an even greater extent than they have emigrated to the islands north of the equator, over which Japan holds the mandate by the peace treaty.

It is obvious that the Japanese are bent upon colonizing wherever they can gain admission and that they loom as the arch-problem of the Pacific. It has been declared that a majority of our California Japanese came here from our own Pacific possessions, where they have the rights of citizenship. Australia has no intention of duplicating the California problem if she can help it, but her new mandates have considerably complicated matters. And Great Britain will assuredly be brought into the controversy, owing to her recent announcement that she will renew the Anglo-Japanese alliance next year, with certain modifications. Even in the face of this alliance both Australia and Canada have succeeded in maintaining stern restrictions on Japanese immigration, under their independent home rule within the British Empire. But now conditions for Australia are altered an account of those ardently desired but embarrassing mandates, the ratification of which has been delayed, owing to the Australian demand that Great Britain should unite with her, via the alliance, in ultimatums on the Japanese question.

Australia's position is aggravated by the fact that she has a vast continent capable of maintaining a hundred million population, but only peopled by five millions. If ever a country needed industrious immigrants it is Australia. Hitherto the Labor party has seen to it that immigration of all kinds was severely restricted, but now the Australian government yearns for "skilled white immigrants," strictly hand-picked, the kind that is least likely to take up the hard pioneer work necessary to open up her millions of acres of unpopulated land. No wonder Japan, with her overcrowded fifty-five millions, casts covetous eyes on these rich vacant acres. It is almost a pity that Japan and Australia cannot swap countries. But as that is out of the question, Japan can see no logical reason why her surplus population should not be welcome on Australia's surplus unoccupied acres.

Under the circumstances it is going to take all the expert statesmanship and diplomacy that the British Empire can muster to adjust the dangerous problem. And as Britain and the Australians settle it, so will the case of the United States and Japan be clarified. It may be that the British alliance with Japan will prove sufficiently strong and influential to at least temporarily alleviate the trouble. Certain it is that without Britain's firm co-operation, backed by the existence of the British fleet, Australia would be powerless to maintain her stand for a "white Australia," if the Japanese happened to feel otherwise. In the meantime the Japanese are being very gentlemanly about it, but the sore is certainly coming to a head during the next few months. And the result will be most instructive for the United States.

Peak prices still refuse to look peaked.

OUT OF THE TANGLE.
The Committee of Forty-eight put in ten days of Chicago midsummer in the effort to mold many incongruous elements into a national political party. But it is without material result. They could not indorse the Red radicalism that was rampant in the platform of the self-styled Farmer-Laborites. The secretary of the Forty-eighters said they had sought to avoid what was called the domination of Wall street, but were told instead that they must have the domination of the Mine Workers' Union. The latter would be the worst of the two. Wall street would be interested in the prosperity of the whole country. The miners are interested only in themselves.

The Forty-eighters would not put up a candidate of their own, neither would they indorse the choice of the other party. They did express regret that they had been unable to harmonize with the elements that had assembled in Chicago, and this may be accepted as a complete repudiation of the Farmer-Labor ticket. They cannot travel abreast. They cannot even traverse the same road.

The Farmer-Laborers showed their consistency by nominating a Salt Lake lawyer as their standard-bearer. They had no great knowledge of him in advance, but he was a loud-mouthed orator of radical opinions and he talked himself into the job after the manner of Bryan.

Chicago failed to be the melting pot. There was to have been a pooling of tangled and unkempt issues, but the attempt to amalgamate proved abortive. The Single-Taxers looked in and then went on their solitary and fanatical way. The American party from Texas established a listening post, but severed connections on the third or fourth day. The Constitution party fled in terror. Even the Nonpartisan League could not subscribe to the fiery doctrines of the union Reds. The Plumb-planners deserted. The World War Veterans couldn't stand the pace. The plain Socialists stuck to Debs. William Randolph Hearst found no place to lay his head and was looking for a fox hole.

The house was divided against itself and naturally fell.

However, this is a good sign. It is shown that, though radical orators sway their crowds and appear to dominate the situation, they can only take the people so far. They will not become traitors to law and order and foes to justice. They may crave change; they may demand reforms; they may clamor for the establishment of their fads, but when it comes to a show-down they will not use brass knuckles on good old Uncle Sam.

The Farmer-Laborers are a hollow mockery; they are as sounding brass. No loyal American farmer could support their malicious program. Alien mine workers are mainly responsible for their creed and it can have no consideration or standing. The radical Reds, who would use the livery of labor to shield their excesses, will never be able to gain material headway.

FUTURE OF THE SUBMARINE.
In a paper read by W. S. King-Hall, R. N., at the Royal United Service Institution in London, the author stated that any advantage possessed by the submarine over other ships of war is on the wane. The advantage of the submerged ship has fallen from nine to one against the surface ship in 1914 to seven to three in 1919, and it is likely to be only six to seven by 1930. It is his belief that the development of submarine detecting apparatus will give large ships a certain measure of protection against tactical attack by submarines. The capital ship will continue to be a surface vessel, and the idea of making her a partially submersible ship has been abandoned. He believes that the smaller types of vessel might be given a certain degree of submersible quality, particularly for the work of reconnaissance.—[Scientific American.

OUR SUNNY FRIEND

The Easiest Way.

To the home of Rev. Jabez Scruggs,
The missionary man,
There came one day old Imba Imm,
Of coal-black hue, and brought with him
Three dames of black and tan.

"Long years we've fell for heathen ways,"
Old Imba Imm made clear,
"But here we leave them in the lurch;
We want to join the white man's church,
Me and my three wives here."

The Rev. Jabez Scruggs replied:
"Dear friend, that can't be done,
We're glad to welcome converts, but
To go with us you'll have to cut
Your harem down to one."

A week elapsed, again I. Imm
To Jabez made his bow,
"I come," said he, "with one lone wife,
Prepared to lead the better life,
Me heap good Christian now."

"Where are the other two?" Scruggs asked,
Old Imba's smile was sweet.
"I boiled them in my grimba-pot,"
He said, "and found them piping hot,
A pleasant dish to eat."

Faithful to the Last.
The pastor of the New Hope Presbyterian church (colored) was called upon to preach a funeral sermon over the remains of Brother Rose last week.

Brother Rose had not always been a shining light in the church and this is the way the pastor put it:

"Brother Rose was human. All of us is human, but Brother Rose was specially human.

"Sometimes Brother Rose took the money that his beloved wife earned at the washtub and invested it in craps and whisky instead of the cornmeal and bacon she sent him for.

"Sometimes Brother Rose was deaf to the invitation pealed forth on Sunday by the New Hope bell and went fishing.

"Sometimes Brother Rose felt the call of fleshly appetites and expropriated a chicken from the coop of a neighbor, but bless the Lord, brothers, he never lost his religion."

Events That Should Have Happened.
Haroun al Raschid decided somewhat suddenly to celebrate his approaching birthday. He instructed a page to devote the week yet remaining to summoning the attendance of the Sultan's friends.

When the day arrived the great table in the banqueting hall groaned beneath the weight of a meal such as, perhaps, the world had never seen.

The Sultan took his place at the seat of honor and the doors that led into the reception-room were thrown open to admit the guests.

There were but three present, a beggar, a poet and an attendant of the court.

These approached the Sultan. Kneeling, the latter of the three placed a full purse of gold at His Majesty's feet, the poet, a very slim one containing no more than three or four sequins, while the beggar contributed but one lone piece of gold to the pile.

"What is the meaning of this nonsense?" Haroun al Raschid asked.

"We are but following the instructions of the page," said the three.

The page was summoned and the same question asked of him.

"Your Majesty told me," said the latter, "to summon friends only. I told each person that I met, privately, that the caliph was about to lose his wealth, his power, perhaps, even, his throne and earnestly requested his friends to come at the appointed hour, bringing all the funds they could possibly raise.

"These three were all that came."

THREL FALL.

CHAMP'S EXPENSIVE SHIRTS.
Champ Clark likes shirts that have a small red stripe. Not long ago he went into the shop of a leading Washington haberdasher to buy a dress shirt. Selecting one, he gave the clerk a $10 bill, and while waiting for his change wandered around looking at the shirts displayed in show cases. But let the former Speaker tell us about it:

"I found a fine shirt with small red stripes, and I like to wear that kind. During the war you could not get a shirt with red stripes which would not fade. I said to the clerk:

"'What is the price of that shirt?'

"'Three dollars.'

"'Give me that and take it out of ten.'

"When he came back with the change he did not have enough and I called his attention to it.

"'You are gouging me. What is that extra 30 cents for?'

"'That,' replied the clerk, 'is the sales tax that you damned fools enacted up there in Congress.'"—[The Nation's Business.

EDITORIAL OPINION.

The picketing campaign conducted by the members of the National Women's party under the leadership of Miss Paul, at Senator Harding's home, in an attempt to compel him to direct Gov. Clement of Vermont to order a special session of the Legislature to act on the Nineteenth Amendment, was not an encouraging sign. It showed that these women had no conception whatever of our form of government and how the different parts function. Or if they have, that they propose to disregard that knowledge and seek to get what they want by methods that savor somewhat of the direct-action plans of the revolutionists.—[Portland (Me.) Press.

Every true American must feel encouraged about the future of the country from the fact that both conventions manfully resisted the temptation to sacrifice the public welfare to their party interests. Both faced the possibility of incurring the displeasure of the labor and soldier vote, but they did not yield. Both conventions gave clear expression to the sentiment that society owes a the workmen owe a duty to society. the workmen owe a duty to society. In the same spirit of loyalty to the country both conventions proclaimed the obligation of assistance to service men in the late war who are in need of help, and refused promises of aid to those able to take care of themselves. — [Cincinnati Enquirer.

Wherever the cost of living is high and the needs of life are scarce—in every disquieted land of earth today—one condition common to all will be found, an inflated currency. There are contributing causes—extravagance, waste, incompetence; but everywhere it will appear that printing presses have been busy and governments have met their obligations by paper promises to pay. Inflation would seem, therefore, to be a fundamental cause of disturbed conditions; and history shows that it has often been of itself the sole and sufficient cause of derangement of a nation's normal life. — [Rochester Post-Express.

If the Republican platform "turns its back upon labor" then surely the Democratic platform does this also. As a matter of fact neither party turns its back. Each refuses to entertain the radical demands of organized labor that are expressed in the Montreal program, and in that refusal they have, we are sure, the united support of the country. But both desire to do what is fair and right for labor consistent with the public interest, which must always be paramount if we are to maintain a democracy. The tendency of the bulk of the people at this time as conservative, not radical, and labor will find its true interests best served by conservative efforts in co-operation with the two great parties. It has so many friends, and as true friends, in one party as in the other, and it has many in both—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A man of good second-rate abilities, Mr. Cox is known to favor a lax enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and to be hand-in-glove with the city Democratic bosses. That is enough for them. On every broad national question he is an untried man—and all that is known of his views and his tendencies is not to his credit. His financial and social views are not supposed to be radical, but they are nevertheless altogether unsafe. As a part of his propaganda for the nomination, Mr. Cox has put forward a speech which he made not long ago before the Iroquois Club at Chicago, in which he advocated a governing tax on the volume of business. In other words, he proposes that the most useful business that we have, such as the supplying of milk and bread, of seeds, of plows, of shoes, to the people, shall be penalized in proportion to their usefulness.—[Boston Transcript.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

BLESSINGS.

I have so many blessings I cannot count them all, and Fortune's soft caressings upon me daily fall; the sun is busy shining, all clouds have silver lining; yet I find time for whining and putting up a bawl. It takes a lot of hunting to find a good excuse for waving crape-hued bunting and weeping like the deuce; but I am most persistent; though sorrow may be distant and almost nonexistent, I'll rope it with a noose. I've all a guy could wish for, I've health and rubles, too; the fame I used to fish for now spreads to far Wahoo; done are the strife and straining, sweet boons are on me raining; and still I sit complaining, and raise a howdydo. My car is cut of kilter, it seems to lack the power; the milkman ought to filter his juice—it's turning sour; the man who sells me berries and pies and pink canaries—his system never varies, he stings me every hour. For these and other reasons I sob beside the sea, although, throughout the seasons the gods are good to me; their gifts they are bestowing, their goodness ever growing; and still, my teardrops flowing, I moan. "Oh, hully chee!"

WALT MASON.

"SUCH" AND "SO."
Do not say, "I never knew such an honest man as my friend, Mr. Robinson." Say, instead, "I never knew so honest a man as my friend, Mr. Robinson," or "I never knew another man so honest as my friend, Mr. Robinson." Say, "We had never before seen so stately a house."

The rule is that the adjective "such" should not be used instead of the adverb "so" to modify an adjective. In other words, it is incorrect to say "such honest" or "such stately" instead of "so honest" or "so stately."

However, the word "such" means "like this" or "like these." It may be used before another adjective. The following sentence, therefore, is correct: "In such arid regions as border upon the desert rain seldom falls." This means that rain seldom falls in arid regions like those that border upon the desert.—[Columbus Dispatch.

PRISONERS MENACE HIM.

As he stepped into the jail building, the prisoners in the upper tanks crowded close to the bars to get a look at the man. They yelled threats at him, but the prisoner was whisked into the elevator and taken to the second floor, where he was fed and later was brought down to the office.

He leaned against the counter, apparently reassured by the sight of the armed officers, and watched while Undersheriff French counted the money taken from his pockets. The group of officers gathered around. There were bills and silver, and a ticket Gibson bought, but did not use. A refund blank was to be filled out. Some of the money the negro said belonged to Trapp, the other was his own.

The slayer's eyes followed every move of the undersheriff's pen as he tried to arrive at the exact amount belonging to the negro. Some of the bills that lay before them were spotted with blood, but the negro showed no emotion. Once, when French was trying to decide in which column of figures to enter the ticket item, Gibson pointed to it, and said, "Here." He twirled his ragged straw hat around and around, now and then smoothing out the faded blue ribbon on it.

Earlier in the day he stood at the same counter and gave his name and other details. He said his name was Henry Washington. He gave his birthplace as Louisiana, age 36, occupation laborer, single. He signed "Henry Washington" on the bottom of the slip and shambled over to

...Now this, was anybody ...of the Trapp home?

...I ...see a little boy sleep... ...in the room down... ...

...Q.: How did you happen not to hurt him?

A.: Well, I didn't want to hurt him.

Q.: What time did you get into Needles?

A.: I don't know. I didn't have no watch. I couldn't tell for sure.

Q.: What day was it?

A.: I wasn't keeping account of the days; I think it was Friday. It was Friday.

THE MISSING WATCH.

By the Sheriff: Q.: Did you stay all night in San Diego when you went down there?

A.: No, sir.

By the District Attorney: Q.: Well, you tell me a little more clearly, if you can, where you put that watch down at San Diego?

A.: I was a little drunk that morning, but I know it was between Third and Fourth streets, going to the river front, or to the bay, out there, whatever you call it When you pass the last street before you come out to the railroad there on this side next to the street; well, right over this way was an old molding foundry there where you mold iron, and they got a lot of old barrels in there, and on that side is an open lot and they got a whole lot of wood stacked up against the fence, and right over in the corner they got a big pile of brick against the wall. The iron foundry is there and I had the watch right on the brick there and I put a brick up on top of it.

Q.: When you went into the Chula Vista home and got the jumper, what did you have to fight with?

A.: I wasn't in there hunting a fight; I only went in the cellar. I went hunting something to drink. I done got thirsty.

A.: I think I did.

Q.: Did you throw a watch away?

A.: Well, you see, when I went down there I was a little bit drinking; I disremember a whole lot. I want to tell no lie, and I do plead guilty to this crime, and that is enough to take my life, and I am willing to give that, and I realize I do wrong and if it wouldn't be for that bad alcohol and whisky I wouldn't have done it, but I have plead guilty and acknowledged that crime, and I am trying to seek God for the rest of it, and you force me to tell something to get me mixed up with the Lord. Well, I have done acknowledged I committed this crime, and that is enough to take the last breath and I am willing to give it.

Q: When the inspector held you up and took the watch out of your shoe at Tia Juana, do you remember that?

A: Yes, sir.

Q: Do you remember where you got that watch?

A: I don't remember which house it was.

Q: Are those beads yours?

A: Yes, I had them; they must be mine.

Q: You stole those, did you?

A: Yes, sir; I stole them.

Q: How did you happen to go to this Trapp home?

A: Well, I didn't have no particular place to go; I just was walking around and rambling around, and half drunk, and I wandered out that way and stopped there as a man would do hunting some money to get more whisky. I didn't know who lived there, and I had never been there before.

By the Sheriff. Q.: Were you ever arrested before?

A.: Yes, sir; I was arrested before.

Q.: On what charge?

By the District-Attorney:

Q.: Did Mrs. Trapp make any outcry or call when you struck her?

A.: Yes, I think she did.

Q.: Mose, is there a reward for you in Louisiana?

A.: I don't know, sir; there was one years ago.

ANOTHER MURDER.

Q.: What crime had you committed?

A.: I had committed a murder crime.

Q.: How long ago?

A.: I believe ten years ago.

Q.: What was the party's name you killed?

A.: J. R. Reevis. I was half drunk and I was stealing and robbing. I believe it happened in Baton Rouge Junction, La.

Q.: Is that the only murder you committed besides this?

A.: Well, I wouldn't go any further on those terms, because I committed a whole lot of things like me, but at the same time I know it little misdemeanor cases that it wouldn't be necessary for me to tell now. This crime is enough. I would have to go through the dictionary to tell you about the sixty days and forty days and twenty days in jail.

Q.: You had nothing to do with that murder in San Diego some three weeks ago?

A.: No, sir; if I did I would tell you.

Q.: After you had the fight with Roy Trapp at the Fullerton home, did you put him back in the bed?

Q.: You think he was out of bed after you hit him?

A.: Yes, sir; he was out of bed.

Q.: And you say you want to plead guilty to this, Mose?

A.: Yes, sir; I want to plead guilty. Now as I am in your power (to Sheriff) I have plead guilty to the crime, and of course I have acknowledged I was heavily intoxicated and drinking that wood alcohol; that made my nerves nearly shipwrecked; of course, that don't save me, but at the same time I know it is going to cost my life, but I ask you will you let me stay here until my trial comes?

The Sheriff: We will leave you here for some time; it is my duty to do it.

A.: I thank you, thank you, sir.

MOROSCO CASE GOES OVER FOR TWO WEEKS.

The Morosco case, which was scheduled to come up in two courts yesterday, was continued for two weeks, on motion of Attorney Scarborough, counsel for Oliver (Morosco) Mitchell. In Judge Stephen's department, the court was to hear an order to show cause involving alimony asked for by Mrs. Annie T. Mitchell. In Judge Shenk's court, a demurrer and a motion to strike out portions of the separate maintenance complaint of Mrs. Mitchell were on the calendar. Mrs. Mitchell is said to be in New York and expects to return before the two weeks expire.

JOHNSON TO CROSS TODAY.

BY WARDEN WOOLARD,
Staff Representative of "The Times."

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, July 19.—Giving definite assurance that he means business this time, Jack Johnson, negro pugilist and fugitive from justice, tonight made arrangements through a friend, with Sheriff Cline of Los Angeles, to cross the border at Tia Juana, a little Mexican town seventeen miles south of here, and surrender to Federal authorities. Sheriff Cline will go to Tia Juana tomorrow morning to convey Johnson across the line where he will turn the fugitive over to Deputy United States Marshal Cooley.

From the border the party will proceed to San Diego, where Johnson will be reported to Federal authorities, and then the trip will be continued to Los Angeles. Johnson will be turned over to the custody of Sheriff Cline there and will be kept in the County Jail until the trip to Chicago, Wednesday. It is in Chicago that Johnson was sentenced to one year in prison and fined $500 on his conviction there in 1913, for violating the Mann Act in transporting Belle Schreiber, a white girl, from Pittsburg to Chicago for immoral purposes.

Johnson's decision to surrender and to serve his sentence is based on the hope that he will be able to re-enter the prize ring and make some money. The friend, who is arranging all the details of the negro's return, says the former heavyweight champion of the world has kept in good physical trim and believes he has a chance to go against some of the leaders again. He has practically no money left and is at the end of his rope in Tia Juana, where he is not popular with the Mexicans.

Although Sheriff Cline will go to Tia Juana and accompany Johnson to the border the Sheriff will have no official connection with the case fintil the negro is lodged in the Los Angeles County Jail. Through Johnson's friends in Chicago, who assisted in planning the details of the return, it was arranged for the Sheriff to get him and Johnson asserts he will come with no one else. This is prompted largely by confidence which he has in the Sheriff's ability to see that he is not handcuffed, which the colored man seems to regard with great dislike.

For several days Johnson has been dickering with county and Federal officials regarding his return. He has been as whimsical as a spoiled child over the details of his surrender, but tonight said he is satisfied with the plan as outlined. He has packed his belongings and is ready to leave Mexico.

OFFERS A.E.F. LORE.

Colonel Will Give Local Guard Members the Tours Course.

Prospective officers of the Los Angeles infantry regiment of the California National Guard will start tonight on a course of military instruction identical with that given A.E.F. officers at the famous war-time school at Tours, France. Col. James McKnight, the assistant adjutant-general, was assigned to the Tours school while he was in command of an A.E.F. unit and he will conduct the local instruction.

During the drill period at the Exposition Park armory tonight, Maj. E. E. Kirk, who is to command the first battalion of the Los Angeles regiment, will put the men through the physical exercises. Maj. Henry F. Woodward, organizing the Hollywood battalion, Walter Story, recruiting the second battalion, and other unit commanders, will attend the school and drill this evening.

STOPS THE PAIN OF CORNS AT ONCE

Discovery by Chemist Ends These Painful Annoyances.

The sharp, throbbing pain of the worst corn is quickly stopped by painting the growth with Cactus Corn Compound, a chemist's discovery. Furthermore, the corn thus treated will soon dry up and fall off.

It is needless for anybody to suffer from corns and callouses. A small bottle of Cactus Corn Compound, costing only a few cents, can be bought at any drug store and is sufficent to remove dozens of corns.

Cutting make corns grow faster and is very dangerous. The Cactus method kills the mand is absolutely safe. Your druggist will refund your money if it fails.—[Advertisement.

DODSON WARNS CALOMEL USERS

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can not salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury, and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.—[Advertisement.

EXPERT VIEWS SCHOOL PLANT.

Oakland Man to Outline Plan of Physical Culture.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, July 19.—To devise a complete schedule of physical education at Pasadena High School, with particular reference to the physical education of the girls, the Pasadena school board has called into consultation C. F. Martin, expert in these matters, from the Oakland High School, and considered one of the chief authorities on the subject in the State.

Mr. Martin arrived this morning from Oakland and spent the day going over the high school plant in company with Mrs. Beatrice Dane, president of the school board; Principal William F. Ewing of the high school, and Frank Gerry, the board's supervisor of buildings and grounds.

Defeat of the school bonds issue this spring precluded the building of the gymnasium and new locker and shower rooms, but the board recently de.ermined to build a girls' athletic field west of the high school buildings and install girls' shower baths and locker rooms in the basement of the Jane Addams building. Mr. Martin will give his opinion on the plans of the board and suggest a course of physical study and training to be followed during the coming year.

TWO HURT IN CRASH.

While Mrs. Genevieve Bonnell of Los Angeles was seated in her automobile at the curb, in front of a South Fair Oaks garage, and Alex R. Kerr, a garage employee, was under the car making repairs, another car crashed into the Bonnell machine. Mrs. Bonnell and Kerr were painfully but not seriously injured. They were taken to their homes. The offending motorist backed off and escaped before the injured persons could learn his name.

FIRST COMMUNITY DANCE.

The first Pasadena community dance of the summer season will be held next Thursday night on the tennis courts at Tournament Park. The affair has been arranged by City Park Commissioner J. J. Hamilton and a committee of the Pasadena center of the Drama League. The league recently suggested a series of community dances to the City Commission as a means of recreation for Pasadena's young people during the summer. The dance will begin at 8 o'clock and conclude at 11 o'clock, with music by the Elks' Band. Women of the Drama League will act as chaperons. Persons putting extra shimmies into the shimmy will be ejected from the festivities.

WOULD DINE COMMANDER.

If Franklin D'Olier of Philadelphia, commander in chief of the American Legion, comes to California in August, he will be invited by the Pasadena post of the Legion to be its guest at a banquet on the night of August 4. An invitation to Mr. D'Olier was dispatched by the Pasadena post today, but no reply has been received as yet.

TWO INQUESTS HELD.

Coroner's juries sat this afternoon to hear the facts of two fatal accidents in Pasadena last week. In the death of John Wesley Nichols, elderly messenger, whose motorcycle collided with a delivery truck, the jury decided Mr. Nichols's injury and death was an unavoidable accident. In the case of William Lee, aged 65 and deaf, who stepped in front of a Salt Lake train, the jury held that the tragedy was not the fault of the train crew. The danger signals were working.

Dennis is now at his parent's cabin in Bear Valley, recovering. He left camp Thursday morning and became lost. Searching parties were dispatched, but failed to find any trace of him until this morning. He was too weak to talk. He will recover.

ACCIDENT VICTIM.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WHITTIER, July 19.—Russell Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Laban Thompson of 501 North Milton avenue was killed in Casper, Wyo., Saturday or Sunday, according to a telegram received by the parents here yesterday.

The cause of the accident was not stated, but it was known that Thompson had recently arrived in Casper from the Texas oil fields to work. The father left at once for Wyoming to bring the body here. He was a well-known young man here, a graduate of the Whittier High School, and was in his early twenties.

STARE OF PELICAN GETS HIS GOAT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, July 19.—H. L. Whight, visiting in Santa Monica from Denver, Colo., has applied to the police for permission to carry firearms as a protection against the constant interest that birds take in him when he takes his early morning exercises on the beach. He declares that no matter where he is, the fowls of the sea congregate around him on the sand and stare at him, to his annoyance.

"I go down early in the morning so that I can exercise before bathers begin to come," he said this morning, "but as soon as I begin my calisthenics, all the sea gulls of the Pacific, it seems to me, float down, settle on the sand and watch me from a safe distance. The ocean ducks come in with the other sea fowl. Some of them screech at me. One old pelican gazes at me in fascinated silence. I came here to get well, but that pelican is making a nervous wreck of me."

BIG FORCE FIGHTS FIRE IN MOUNTAIN.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, July 19.—It is believed it will take several days to stop the fire which started in the west fork of Palm Springs Canyon Saturday afternoon, threatening the famous growth of native palms. So far the palms have been saved, but the fire is now threatening the timber on the east slope of the San Jacinto Mountains, just over the ridge from Idyllwild. The heat on the mountain side was terrific yesterday, according to reports brought back by Chairman Flaherty of the Board of Supervisors and other officials who visited the scene of the fire. Large forces of men are attacking the fire from both sides of the mountain. Back-firing is being employed to combat the flames, which it is estimated will require several days to overcome.

SHE CAN NOT BEGIN TO EXPRESS GRATITUDE

Mrs. Green Says Tanlac Proved to Be the Very Thing She Needed and is Like a New Woman Since Taking It.

"I can't begin to express my gratitude for all the good Tanlac has done me," said Mrs. W. F. Green, wife of a well-known minister, living at 1439 Jackson St., Seattle, Wash.

"For years I suffered with the worst kind of indigestion. No matter what I ate, it disagreed with me and caused such pains in the pit of my stomach that I could hardly stand it. I would bloat up with gas until I could scarcely breathe and I was afraid to eat because of what I knew I would suffer afterwards. I fell off in weight and became so weak that I could do very little work of any kind. I was constantly having headaches and spells of dizziness, and had such pains across my back it was agony to stoop even to could get very little sleep at I was tired and weary all and it was only by a great effort I was able to keep going at all.

"While on a visit to Oklahoma I met an old friend, who, when I told how run-down and sick I was, advised me to try Tanlac. I did, and proved just the medicine I needed. I soon had a splendid appetite, can now eat anything I want, and am out ever suffering in the least way with indigestion. I have gained 20 pounds in weight and am looking and feeling better that my friends who have not seen me since I began taking Tanlac hardly know me. They say my color and pains in the back are a thing of the past, my nerves are steady, my sleep is sound and restful, and I am so much stronger that my household duties are a pleasure instead of a task. Tanlac has made a new woman of me, and I can recommend it without reservation to anybody."

MARGARET FUNCHS CROSSES GENEVA.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

GENEVA, July 19. — A young French war nurse, Margaret Funchs, is said to have established a record for women by swimming across Lake Geneva Sunday from Evian to Lutry. She was 10¼ hours in the water and was buffeted by rough seas. The distance is only about eight miles.

The record time made by a man is 7½ hours.

GIANT BROADBILL SWORDFISH CAUGHT.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

AVALON, July 19.—The largest broadbill swordfish caught in three years was brought to gaff by Keith Spalding off Seal Rocks after a terrific struggle with the ferocious sea monster of one hour and six minutes.

A MONSTER.

The broadbill when officially weighed on the Tuna Club scales tipped 258 pounds. A smaller broadbill was taken by H. W. Adams weighing 163 pounds earlier this season. In the intervening years since the late W. C. Boschen of New York in 1917 took a broadbill which weighed 463 pounds and stands as the world's record, all broadbill swordfish have successfully eluded the skill of the anglers in Catalina waters. Many had been reported hooked.

Zane Grey, the author, and William Farnum, the film star, both had thrilling experiences with broadbill they had hooked, fighting their fish from five to eleven hours only to lose them before the grim fight was over.

WEARS HIM OUT.

Mr. Spalding, head of the sporting goods house of that name was fishing from his cruiser, the Goodwill with Capt. Walker when he hooked the season's record swordfish. Mr. Spalding actually "whipped the champion fighter of the sea to a frazzle and wore him out," according to Capt. Walker.

NEW FOOTWEAR BUILT ON LINES OF "JAZZ."

EXHIBIT OF SHOES AT PHILADELPHIA SHOWS MANY TRICK MODELS FOR WOMEN.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—The jazz seems to have broken out in the footwear business, to judge from the first annual affair of the Philadelphia Footwear Style Show, which are other words for an exhibit of new kicks.

The one-step seems to have taken the place of the instep and the fox-trot seems to have become the national method of navigation, if the trick shoes and dizzy boots now on view in the ballroom of the Bellevue-Stratford are in any way prophetic.

The show, which opened this morning and will continue until tomorrow night with its sixty-eight exhibitors, represents the shoe and shoe-leather interests of the city and a large part of the State of Pennsylvania.

Feminine footwear, which is singular for ladies' shoes, runs away with the blue and the other ribbons for being new and tricky and everything like that. The only change in men's shoes seems to be in the price.

FLAGS TO BE RAISED TODAY.

Vernon to Flaunt Two Championship Pennants.

Tigers and Angels to Begin Midseason Series.

Prexy McCarthy is to Present Maier Medals.

BY ED O'MALLEY.

This afternoon at Washington Park the Vernon and the Los Angeles baseball teams hook up in their midseason series and a rattling good contest can reasonably be expected. The contest will be featured by a flag raising ceremony before the regular game begins. Secretary Howard Lorenz of the Vernon club has arranged to have both the Vernon and Angel teams headed by a brass band march across the grounds to the flagpole at the far end of left field, where two pennants will be raised, one bearing the legend "Champions of the Pacific Coast League, 1919," and the other "Minor League World's Champions."

After this has been effected the Vernon nine will line up in front of the plate and each member will be presented with a gold medal, the gift of Owner Eddie Maier. The presentation will be made by President McCarthy of the Pacific Coast League. Mayor Snyder and the City Council will also be present to add a little civic pride to the affair.

SERIES IMPORTANT.

The present series is very important. Both teams are within hailing distance of Salt Lake, who is leading the league just now. It should be a darling series for the Mormons, who will be struggling with Seattle this week, while our two local teams will about be cutting each other's heads off.

The one hope of local fans is that the Seattle club stops the Mormons' winning streak. In case this is accomplished it would make the present race a pippin, but in case it falls through and the two local nines battle on nearly even terms, the Mormons will have a lead that will be most difficult to overcome. The game will begin at 2:30 o'clock.

AMERICANS STILL STEPPING.

Clean Up Everything in Sight in British Tennis Championships.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WIMBLEDON, July 19.—The Americans made a clean sweep in the Davis Cup tennis contests. William M. Johnston and William T. Tilden had already won their right to challenge the Australasians for the trophy and the championship, by winning three of the series of five, including the doubles Saturday. Today Johnston defeated Maj. Kingscote, of the English team, while Tilden disposed of Parke, the other English expert. In these contests, Johnston and Tilden have come right through the French and English series without the loss of a match. Their play is described by British experts as the most brilliant ever seen in this country.

ALL INTERESTED.

The Americans having won the cup contest in straight matches, giving them the right to challenge Australasia for the trophy, the popular interest in the play had evaporated. Nevertheless, the tennis enthusiasts were interested to see how today's opponents would fare against each other.

The weather was hot, with bright sunshine when Johnston and Kingscote began. Johnston played finely in the first set, giving a splendid exhibition of diagonal low volleying.

In the second set, Kingscote played a steady, and frequently brilliant game. Johnston kept him invariably at the back of the court and they have gained widespread but the Englishman's passing shots popularity.

were perfect. He showed himself a rapidly improving player in all departments except service.

IN AND OUT.

Johnston was in and out of form, being at his poorest in the second and third sets. The second was a dingdong struggle to four-all, when Johnston conceded his service, and followed it by losing the set.

In the third set the American was irresistible for the first three games and then lost six. He was passed again and again. Kingscote detected his untenable position and drove a short ball, with a cut stroke straight at him, catching Johnston at his feet. In the fourth set Johnston reached 5-1 and then lost three games, but took the next game and the set.

The games in the fifth set went pendulum-wise to three-all. Then Kingscote annexed two, making it 5-3, in his favor. Here Johnston made a fine recovery and ran out the set with four straight games, playing confidently, with forceful, telling strokes, being particularly successful with deep, diagonal volleys.

EASY PICKING.

The American players are characterized as fine sportsmen and excellent companions off the courts and they have gained widespread popularity.

ORPHANS REMEMBERED.

Child's Welfare Day entertainment at Washington Park yesterday afternoon proved to be a big success and consequently the fund for the benefit of the orphans was enriched considerably. The packed-to-the-boards grand stand was highly entertained by a long and varied program, the principal feature of which was a six-inning ball game between those old rivals, the Vernon Tigers and Red Killefer's Angels.

Before the game, the ball players engaged in a fungo batting contest, circuit of the bases, and throwing at a target placed at second. Tom Hughes carried off the silver cup in the fungo hitting. Statz of the Angels and De Vormer of the Tigers ran a dead heat in once around the bags, but the prize was settled by a flip of the coin, Statz winning. Pete Lapan won the prize, for the best throwing to second base. Apart from baseball stunts there were wrestling matches and boxing bouts, which very much pleased the hundreds of kids that were present.

The game between the Angels and the Tigers was only a six-inning affair. The Angels won through heavier swatting. Mike Donlon, playing with a lot of his old-time pep, featured at the bat for Killefer with a three-bagger to far right field. Frank Chance, playing first for the Bengals, was the same old Frank as of old, and besides, he lay heavily on the pill every time he came to the bat. The score follows:

Los Angeles	1	2	3	4	5	6

PASADENA GETS BIG MEET.

The city of Pasadena is to be well rewarded for the labor and money expended in the erection of a brand new running track and commodious grand stand at Tournament Park this year. The national committee of the A.A.U. has awarded the annual championship meet to the Crown City for the year 1921. This was the exciting bit of news contained in a telegram from Bob Weaver which reached Henry Bruce of the University of Southern California yesterday.

This will be good news not alone to Pasadena, but to all of Southern California as well. The 7500 spectators who thronged Tournament Park June 26 to witness the Pacific Coast Olympic trials were treated to the greatest exhibition of athletic skill on track and field in the history of the West. Next year's meeting should outrank it. It will bring together not only our superiative athletes of the Coast, but the crack performers of the Middle West and East. It will be a meet par excellence.

BIG LEAGUE STUFF.

Southern California has been treated to major league football. Brown, Pennsylvania and Harvard all have sampled the diet of wine-like climate and quakeless days. Now the runners and field performers like Jole Ray, Ted Meredith, Earl Eby, Lorin Murchison, Pat Ryan, Matt McGrath, Sol Butler and hosts of others will visit us to put the South's track meets on the top of the world.

Weaver's wire also told of the success of the L.A.A.C. men in making the Olympic team. Eight of the twelve men who left here July 8 were chosen to go abroad, competing in eleven different events.

Colin Kilby of the University of Redlands, Gwynn Wilson of the University of Southern California, John Boyle of the University of Southern California, and Don Nichols of Pomona High School were the unfortunate four who failed to place.

Paddock in the 100 and 220 and 400-meter relay race; Schiller in the 440 and 1600-meter relay, Yount in the 120-yard hurdles, Daggs in the 440-yard hurdles, Sprott in the 880 and relay, Anderson in the 120-yard hurdles, Cory in the high jump and Swede Evans in the discus were the successful parties.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Concerning Kilby's case, Weaver stated that the Redland's boy had a bad cold and was pocketed in the quarter. Paddock got a bum start in the hundred, which explains his defeat by Murchison, and Scholz, Boyle for some reason or other was ruled out of the discus after placing third in the junior championships the day before.

HARRINGTON DEFEATS KITCHIN AT TENNIS.

Play in the second quarterly novice tennis tournament which started yesterday morning on the courts of the Y.M.C.A., narrowed down to the semifinals. The surprise of the day was the defeat of Kitchin, who won the last tourney, by Harrington in two well-played sets. The scores were 6-3, 9-7. It now looks like a fight in the finals between Harrington and Wachter.

The singles will be concluded today, and the doubles will start tomorrow morning. Yesterday's summaries follow:

Reynolds defeated Berlin, 6-1, 8-2; Snodgrass defeated Vasquez, 6-3, 6-3; Wachter defeated Jue, 6-1, 6-0; McMahon defeated Mintz, 9-7, 6-4; Reed defeated Simms, 6-2, 6-4; Ekenroth defeated Malone, 7-5, 6-3; Harrington defeated Radham, 6-4, 6-2; Kitchin defeated Bulz, 6-0, 6-2; Deacons defeated McComb, 7-5, 2-6, 6-3; Anawalt defeated Fleher 6-3, 6-1; Stone defeated Newman, 8-6, 6-4; McMahon defeated Bond, 6-4, 5-7, 7-5; Penn defeated Ekenroth, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4; Harrington defeated Kitchin, 6-3, 9-7; Snodgrass defeated Reynolds, 6-1, 7-5; Ordwar defeated Strayer, 6-1, 6-0; Wachter defeated Deegan, 6-2 6-3; McDonald defeated Shawall, 6-2, 6-2; Harrington defeated Penn, 6-3, 6-4; Wachter defeated Alexander, 6-0, 6-1; Ordway defeated Snodgrass, 6-4, 6-4.

EXCITEMENT IN YACHT CIRCLES.

New Skipper Expected Soon for Speedy Shamrock.

Both Craft Primed for the Battle Today.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SANDY HOOK (N. J.) July 19.—Capt. William P. Burton will be at the helm of Shamrock IV when she races again tomorrow against the American defender Resolute.

DECISION.

This was the decision reached tonight by Sir Thomas Lipton and his yachting advisers after a day spent in conference over the handling of the challenger in the first two matches, the first of which resulted in victory for the Irish sloop after her rival had been withdrawn because of an accident, and the second of which was called off because Resolute after outdistancing Shamrock had been unable to finish within the six-hour limit.

"Capt. Burton will be at the wheel tomorrow, I understand," said Sir Thomas.

"After that I cannot say, and, of course, I will not talk about it."

ONE MORE CHANCE.

Gossip aboard Sir Thomas's steam yacht Victoria had it that Capt. Burton had asked for another chance, but the Irish baronet would not discuss this phase.

Yachting experts have been severely criticising Capt. Burton's work and during Saturday's race comment aboard the Victoria was strongly in favor of Capt. Charles Francis Adams, II.

Resolute still has three victories to win if she is successfully to defend the cup, whereas Shamrock needs but two.

ACCORDING TO RULES.

Regatta rules call on alternate racing days for a windward and leeward course of fifteen miles to a leg and a triangular course with legs of ten miles, but as Saturday's race has to be resailed, tomorrow's contest also will be over a triangle.

Shamrock IV, the British challenger for the America's cup, will be required to give Resolute, American defender, a time allowance of seven minutes and one second in tomorrow's race, the regatta committee of the New York Yacht Club announced tonight. This increase of twenty-one seconds followed the granting of the application of the Lipton craft for permission to use a larger club sail.

Sir Thomas Lipton today showed a cable message he had received from King Alfonso of Spain, which read:

NEW YORK, July 19.—Indications today were that should Shamrock IV lift the America's cup Sir Thomas Lipton will not go long unchallenged.

Friends of William Gardner, who designed Vanitie, defeated by Resolute for the right to defend the cup, quoted him as saying he had been commissioned to begin work immediately on an American challenger if Resolute should be defeated.

Several military events, including wall scaling, equipment races, obstacle races and intercompany relay races will be added to the regular program of track and field events.

B. COLIMA AND ROBINSON HOOK.

Georgie Marks and Mende Provide Semi-windup.

Pena Will Swap Haymakers with Colored Person.

BY PAUL LOWRY.

Up for discussion at Vernon tonight as the main event will be a Salinas Jack Robinson-Bert Colima brawl. There's nothing new about these birds to the bugs who infest the stockyards arena on Tuesday night. Both have made several appearances beneath the calcium glare of Jack Doyle's swat emporium. And both have won for themselves considerable praise and not a few shekels.

Still there is something different about the mixup between Kewpie Jack and the brown-colored battler. Here is the dope. The two have never hitched before, which is more than you can say about a lot of the pugs who tread the Vernon boards.

WHEEDLES GEORGE.

Sticking around with the object of wheedling Young George into a scrap has been the chief occupation of Colima for several weeks. The Mexican has hinted, coaxed and nagged for a chance with George, but the Dynamite Kid has suddenly become adamant as a stone quarry. George doesn't like the looks of Colima's game.

Not so with Kewpie Robinson. After fighting himself out of a scrap by decisively walloping warhorse Jack Dalton and Wildcat Palmer and Arizona Salinas, Jack found himself with no new worlds to conquer. The fraternal order of pugs didn't find that fat one's barn door swings to their liking, and voted him out as a lodge member. Along comes Mexican Bert loaded down with ambition. Matchmaker Wad Wadhams steps into the breach, introduces the boys, and there you are. If Bert licks Kewpie tonight he need not worry about a match with Young George. He'll be too good for the slim blond.

LOOK OUT, GEORGE!

As a semi-windup event Georgie Marks and Kid Mende will swing themselves into the public gaze. This bout will be at catchweights. Georgie gives away about six or eight pounds. This, however, is nothing for Marks. He has become accustomed to bucking the weighties chaps.

Mende, however, may be a horse of a different color. Marks had his hands full to earn a decision over Harry Mansell, the clever Englishman boy, a few weeks back. A fortnight later Mende came along and whaled Mansell hard, ripping his face to pieces and running him around the ring in a groggy condition in the last round. Mende looks too rough for Marks, shifty as the latter may be.

A good sawmill scrap should be that between Ralph Pena and Cyclone Johnson. The latter is a colored party who is said to swing his mitts just as clumsily and just as wickedly as Pena.

The other bouts on the program are Sammy Good vs. Phil Salvadora, 135 pounds; Jack Papke vs. Mickey O'Farrell, 135 pounds; Ted Frenchie vs. Young Papke, 122 pounds; Marshall Booker vs. Smiling Parsons, 118 pounds.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NEW YORK, July 14.—It is difficult to accept Johnny Wilson as a bona fide champion after seeing him in action over in Newark against Soldier Bartfield. Yet, technically he is a champion, either he caught Mike O'Dowd on an off night, or the middleweight division has sunk to a mighty low level, which probably is true. He struck me as a very mediocre performer, unable at his best to show even a flash of championship form.

Like all left-handed boxers, his work seemed to lack smoothness and finish, and therefore was wanting in effective execution. Physically, he has the form of a champion, but that seems to let him out.

He is fairly shifty on his feet, and hits from the depth of the elbow, but does not appear to be a good puncher. He leads with left upper cuts and hooks, which are more lunges than punches. Also, he follows through with them, and not being an accurate puncher, leaves himself exposed to damaging counters before his recovery.

He should be a mark for a clever small man like Leonard. Of course, Bartfield is a deceptive, awkward performer—the French call him Prude Americane—and difficult for even a clever man to solve. So Wilson cannot in justice be judged solely by this bout. But shades of Ketchel, Papke, Dempsey, Ryan and Fitzsimmons! The middleweights of today are hardly worthy to lace their shoes.

VIETH ENTERS TEAM IN SOUTHERN MEET.

Vance Vieth is to take his Dallas (Tex.) swimming team to Atlanta, Ga., for the southern A.A.U. senior and junior championships August 12 and 13, according to word received here yesterday. He promises that his team will win all the first places and all the second places in all events. The following men will make the trip: Jerry Witt, Lee Jarvis, Alphonso Ragland, Hugh Grow, Everett Long, Dick Spencer and George Wassell, Jr.

GRANT TO WRESTLE SOAR AT PHOENIX.

SYRACUSE OARSMEN WIN.

DULUTH (Minn.) July 19.—Syracuse University's senior eight defeated the Duluth Boat Club senior eight on St. Louis Day here this afternoon, by a margin of two feet in a mile and a quarter race. The time was Syracuse, 6m. 17s.; Duluth, 6m. 17⅘s.

It was a desperate fight to the finish. At the half-way mark, Duluth nosed slightly ahead, then a supreme effort by the Syracuse crew cut down the lead, and the varsity shell flashed across the line, winner by a half second.

Both crews leave tonight for Worcester, Mass., where they are entered in the national regatta, and will again compete for the privilege of representing this country in the Olympic meet. "Dall" Teneyck coaches the Syracuse crew, and his son the Duluthians.

British Champs Lend Zest to Eastern Golf Classic.

Jim Barnes Will Match Skill with Internationalists.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—The classic Shawnee open golf tourney will be played tomorrow and Wednesday.

Over $1000 in prize money is offered for the seventy-two-hole event and with the promised appearance of Harry Vardon and Ted Ray who have won eight British championships and Jim Barnes, American professional match champion, who finished fifth for the British title this year, the success of the meeting is assured

A score of the best golf professionals of the East, however, will also compete, so the victory by no means lies between the three players mentioned.

From now until the latter part of August the golf schedule is virtually turned over to the professionals—open event followed by open, the Metropolitan, national, professional and western following in rapid succession.

The qualifying rounds for the professional championship have more or less concentrated the professionals from a considerable area in Philadelphia, Boston and New York. If they have not scattered back to duty at their clubs, it is expected most of them will take up the trail to Shawnee today.

Most of the greatest professionals of their day have played in the annual Shawnee open and few amateurs of the front rank have missed a round there. It was the scene last fall of the woman's national championship.

Many local fans are expected to make the trip to Shawnee to watch the experts in action.

AMERICA HOLDS ALOOF FROM NET FEDERATION.

AWARD OF WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP TO ENGLAND DOES NOT SIT WELL.

While the attention of the English tennis public has been focussed on the playing of the Davis cup team from the United States for more than a month, it also has been turned toward the possibility of the United States' affiliation with the International Lawn Tennis Federation. This country has refrained from joining because of the conviction that the federation's perpetual award to England of the world's championship on grass will not promote the best interests of tennis as an international sport.

At the request of the federation, the United States outlined its position, basing its reasons for not joining largely upon the perpetual award of this title. Recently Watson Washburn, chairman of the committee of the U.S.L.T.A. in charge of these negotiations, stated: "We are second to none in our respect for the splendid traditions of Wimbledon, and we hope and believe they will be more splendid still. But is it not as unreasonable for England to claim a perpetual right to the world's individual championship because of her early services to the game, as it would have been for America to insist on having the Davis cup matches played always in America because an American originated them? Such a perpetual ownership is unknown in other sports. Either rotation, as in the Olympic games or challenge matches, are universal. We have suggested both these alterations, with various modifications, to the International Federation, but so far without success. However, we are hopeful of the final result."

Commenting upon this the London Field said: "Is Mr. Washburn's plea sound? Undoubtedly it is, and we go further and say that the position created today is precisely what the Field feared would develop when, seven years ago, it protested against the conferment of the title World's Championships on the championships at Wimbledon. Our argument then was, and it holds good today, despite the acceptance of the title, that the word championships, sanctified by history and tradition, was quite good enough for all concerned; that to add world's to this designation was like painting the lily; that such a device was derogatory to an amateur game, and that to persist in the proposal might conceivably offend our American friends, with whom we desired to be on terms of the most cordial relationship. But our legislators did not share our views, however, honest and well meaning they may be."

LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHTS TO TACKLE THE EAST.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—Two San Francisco light heavyweights, "Kayo" Kruvosky and "Spud" Murphy are planning to leave in September to appear in eastern bouts.

SASSY JANE PRIZE WON BY MISS ROWE.

Miss Elizabeth Rowe obtained permanent possession of the Sassy Jane golf trophy by registering her third victory in competition yesterday. She shot a gross score of 91, which with her handicap of fourteen gave her a net 77. The play was over the Griffith Park links.

KOLEHMAINEN WILL REPRESENT FINLAND.

Hannes Kolehmainen will represent Finland in the Olympic games. He is a naturalized American citizen, but under the decision, that anyone, who has won an Olympic championship, cannot compete again except under the colors of the country he previously represented "Koly" will again represent his native land in the distance runs.

IN EASTERN TENNIS.

A trio of Pacific Coast tennis stars will participate in the women's national championships at Philadelphia, September 13, namely Miss Helen Baker, the present Pacific Coast title holder, Miss Evelyn Tennant and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, former champion.

BEZDEK'S PUPILS WILL TRY LUCK.

Four graduates of the Hugo Bezdek system of football coaching at Pennsylvania State, will try their skill as instructors this fall. Bob Higgins will be head coach at West Virginia, Wesleyan; Larney Conover will be assistant at Clemson, Ben Cubbage, will be line coach at Virginia, P.I., and Harry Robb will instruct Catholic University candidates at Washington.

TRICKY MAN O'WAR.

Man O'War, the unbeatable 3-year-old race horse could be developed into one of the finest performing horses, if the necessity should arise. He is owned by Samuel D. Riddle of Philadelphia, and was taught many tricks, including to "fetch and carry" articles from his stall, by Jockey Johnny Loftus.

IRISH HORSES WIN.

Irish horses have won all the big races in England, and France this year. Troytown won the Grand National; Tetratema, the Two Thousand; Splon kop, the English Derby; Charlebelle, the Oaks, and Comrade, the Grand Prix, the French classic.

TRICK SHOES FOR JAPS.

Japanese athletes competing in the Olympic games will run in shoes made in the form of slippers, with no signs of a lace, and with a separate "pocket" for the big toe. It gives the men a strange barefoot appearance.

WILL TACKLE SCOTLAND.

Coach Walter Knox of the Canadian Olympic track and field squads plans to go to Scotland after the games are over and enter Aboyne and Braermar, meets and possibly the Powderhall handicaps. He is a clever all-round athlete.

Steering Gear Breaks; Three in Car Suffer.

A broken steering knuckle which allowed a heavy automobile to crash into a telegrraph pole at Daly and North Main streets late yesterday resulted in the serious injury of Sauderina De Bari, 6 years of age, of 810 Yale street, and her 4-year-old brother Mike, as well as slight injuries to the father of the two children, who was driving the automobile. The three injured were rushed to the Receiving Hospital and the two children were then removed to the County Hospital. Both the children, according to the police surgeons, received head injuries. Sam De Bari, the father, was painfully cut about the face and body.

DENIES OHIO PICNIC PACKED FOR HARDING.

SECRETARY OF STATE SOCIETY CITES EFFORTS MADE TO GET COX SPEAKERS.

In reply to the declarations of Fred Cooch published in an evening paper last night that the Ohio picnic at Sycamore Grove Saturday was "a packed Harding meeting" and denying the charges that the ballots were stuffed in the straw vote, Frank M Bering, secretary of the Ohio society, made this statement yesterday:

Notices of the meeting were mailed to 4000 people by Ohio Societies in Southern California and were made through the press. There was not a single case of a child voting.

In regard to the charge that Democrats were kept off the speakers' platform and that the ballots were stuffed, I tried to get James M. Ross, assistant campaign manager for Gov. Cox to get a speaker for Cox. I had Isidore Dockweiler, Democratic National Committeeman, wire to Senator Phelan to come here and speak for Gov. Cox. I conferred with other prominent Democrats in the city and urged them to get a speaker for their candidate. Milton S. Cox, a member of the Ohio Democratic delegation to the San Francisco convention, spoke for Gov. Cox.

Of over 12,000 people out there, Fred Cooch was the only man who complained and I think his motives were purely to seek notoriety. The counting of the ballots was superintended by representatives of each of the Los Angeles newspapers. The statement that I had refused to entertain the Cox Booster Club when they came here on their way to the convention was false as is attested by the reception they received. The Ohioans turned out in great numbers to meet them.

"GAS" RELIEF NEAR.

Many Trainloads of Fuel Due Soon From Middle West.

With numerous trainloads of gasoline due soon from Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, the end of the motor car fuel pinch here is near, in the opinion of officials of the distributing companies. C. W. Ralph of the Union Oil Company stated yesterday that he believes the shortage will be abated by the end of the week.

The Union has six trainloads of gasoline, aggregating 1,500,000 gallons, on the way or soon to be on the way to Los Angeles from the Middle West. The Puente Oil Company is also bringing gasoline from Texas for the local trade. The first trainload for this company is due in a few days.

The Hollywood service station of the Puente which, it was reported, was reserved for the motion picture industry exclusively, will also supply gasoline to pleasure cars after the trucks engaged in the picture business have received the fuel they need.

Tear Smeared Letter Starts Hunt for Girl.

A letter blotted and smeared with tears of a broken-hearted mother in Wilmington, Del., yesterday started the whole local police force on a search for little Galoren Margaret Cottrell, aged 12 years, who on June 7 of this year ran away from her home with F. A. Jones. 33 years of age, a brick mason. The couple, according to Mrs. Margaret E. Cottrell of 573 Lambord street, Wilmington, sent her a post card from a middle western city stating they were headed for Los Angeles.

The man is 33 years of age, has sandy hair, blue eyes, is of fair complexion and has one gold tooth on the left side. He has various tattoo marks on his body. The girl is 12 years old, five feet in height, weighs 108 pounds, has black hair and eyes and is stoop-shouldered. She looks about 17 years of age, accordinfi to the mother.

CHILD HIT BY AUTO.

Eight-year-old Painfully Injured Playing Near Home.

Struck down by an automobile operated by Nicola Desonone of 1550 Dickey street, Salvador Rivera, 8 years of age, of 1438 North Main street was painfully injured late yesterday afternoon. The child at the time of the accident was playing almost in front of her home and became confused when several automobiles attempted to pass her. At the Receiving Hospital police surgeons treated her for a fractured left arm, injurfes to the head and cuts about the body.

Holdup Charge is Boomerang Involving Three

A few nights ago Tom Sandor reported that he was held up by a pair of thugs and relieved of $136. Yesterday Sandor himself, George McLeod and Bert M. Dixon were lodged in the County Jail.

It is charged that the three were engaged in a number of automobile tire robberies and that the quarrel, instead of being a holdup as Sandor stated, was over the distribution of the loot that the three had accumulated during a series of burglary raids.

KILLED BY ARREST.

Son Held for Grave Offense; Father Drops Dead.

According to a report received in the District Attorney's office yesterday, Robert Obstfelder dropped dead when he heard that his son, Al C. Obstfelder, had been arrested for a statutory offense said to have been committed against Myrtle Ballew.

The son was taken from the County Jail and arraigned before Justice Hinshaw, who released him on his own recognizance to attend his father's funeral. The preliminary hearing was set for next Tuesday.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

Accused Auto Man Prepares Own Demurrer, But It is Overruled

J. Monroe Flowers, general manager of the United Auto Clubs of America, Inc., and his wife, May Flowers, secretary and treasurer of the corporation, pleaded not guilty in U. S. District Judge Bledsoe's court yesterday, when arranged on the indictment charging them with using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

They were not represented by an attorney, but the demurrer to the indictment, prepared by Flowers was overruled. The trial of the pair will be fixed at the calling of the term trial calendar in September.

Necessity is the Mother of all Invention—

"The Life of a Motor"

Every motorist knows that a fog or other damp atmospheric condition will produce a marked improvement in the efficiency of a motor.

SINCE the invention of the internal combustion motor, the most commonly known type of which is that using gasoline for fuel, the engineering world has been constantly endeavoring to solve the problem of introducing, under proper conditions, a correct volume of water vapor into the mixture of gas as it enters the intake chambers.

Upon the ultimate solution of this problem of satisfactorily utilizing the increased amount of oxygen to be obtained in moist air depended the real perfection of the gasoline engine as an efficient and economical unit.

The most thorough investigation, by experts, of the principle and design of the has led to the acknowledgment that at last this greatest of all problems involved in the operation of the internal-combustion motor has been solved.

A simple, automatic, valveless, non-adjustable device designed to supply the correct volume of moisture to the gasoline engine.

HOWARD'S NEW REVUE ASSAYS HUNDRED PER CENT.

By Grace Kingsley.

Just why vaudeville should be full of acts that are strong in the legs and weak in the head, I don't know, but it is so. If the performers would only realize their limitations and stick to the leg work, all would be well, but they won't. They will insist on giving us dances that are easy for them, but hard on us. I don't know whether their talk is home-brewed or not, but I reckon it is, and some of it even sounds as if it might be a phonographic record from a home for the feeble-minded. There are a couple of acts on the Orpheum bill this week that come under this head. If you attend that temple of amusement you will, probably pick them out for yourself.

The balance of amusement, however, is much in favor of the house, with the bill aviating especially in the new Joseph Howard revue, "Chin Toy." This is put on with all the lavish care and colorful harmonious artistry which usually characterize Howard's efforts. Two Los Angeles boys, by the way, Zion Myers and I. B. Kornblum, collaborated with Mr. Howard in writing the lyrics and music, and yesterday afternoon and evening shares the honors of applause with him on the stage. Howard helped the good work along by announcing that this wasn't all the boys had done, either; they had, he said, written two shows which are to be produced on New York's Broadway in September. Not only is "Chin Toy" full of catchy music, beautiful girls and brilliant settings, but it is a real novelty, inasmuch as a real Chinese takes part and Celestial music is dispensed. Ethelyn Clark is graceful and alluring as ever as a Chinese maid, and Howard sings his old songs with the same pep and fascination as of yore. There are no culls in Howard's chorus; it's a regular basket of peaches.

"When did prohibition come in?" "Why, it didn't—they just raised the price of liquor," is one of the blue-ribbon prohibition jokes of the show, dispensed by Eddie Kane and Jay Herman. These boys do a nifty dance, and have a good song or two.

Some very funny horseplay, which must be seen to be laughed at, is offered by Buch Brothers in the course of their really clever tumbling act, which involves properties in the form of the use of a trampoline, a trick ocean-back-drop and the beans which one of them spills.

If John Gardner and Marie Hartman will take the trouble to get a new act, they're going to come back like a million. Both have wonderful comedy personalities, but so much of their stuff is outlawed. B.C. stuff, in other words—you know, Before Cellars.

A neat pair are Dooley and Storey, with the girl very pretty. Their dancing is good, but the Will Rogers No. 2 lariat material doesn't get them anywhere. "Resista" is the name of an act in which a young girl professes to be able, though weighing only ninety pounds, to keep anybody from lifting her. Six men called for from the audience walk up on the stage and try the stunt. A good chance for "plants." Use your own judgment.

Bartholdi's birds play prettily to an obligato of incomers in the opening place, and Eary and Eary play to an outgoing ditto. It's a novel and pleasing acrobatic act, done with hoops, the girl is very pretty, and the act deserves to be seen by all the audience instead of half of it.

"NEPTUNE'S BRIDE" SMILES AND SWIMS.

Pass the palm to Leslie T. Peacocke for the very funniest picture that ever came to town! It's at Philharmonic Auditorium, and it really isn't supposed to be funny, it's supposed to be poetic. Except in spots where the captain permits a little gentle humor, such as "The Oysters are Stewed in their Beds."

The feature is entitled "Neptune's Bride," but appearing subsequent to Neptune's Daughter," the chronology seems all wrong. What right had Neptune to have a daughter, anyhow, before he had a bride? However, let that pass. There's a prologue with fat nymphs galloping about the stage, and they're every bit as graceful and poetic as a scene in a Turkish bath.

Out-follying the "Follies" in the revealing of the female form, the picture is supposed to exploit the marvelous beauties of Roxie Armstrong's figure, but Roxie's isn't the only shape. In short, there's a good excuse, even if not a reason, for the film.

There are a bunch of mermaids down at the bottom of the sea. But they're stationary, perhaps so that the one bead they wear won't fall off. Anyhow they have no kick, as it were, and we had always thought mermaids could swim. Also there's a trio of black marmaids from Central avenue.

Old Neptune himself has baling-rope whiskers, and the whole tribe seems more or less afflicted with the baling-rope-hair disorder.

The heroine is Roxie—Roxie of the long tresses and the shimmying tail. Neptune loves Roxie, but Roxie wants to get out of the tall sea grass and go to town. op didn't want her to go, but she stole away. When she just "as is," the hero finds her on the beach, she unfolds her tale (both kinds,) and he orders up clothes for her, introducing her to his friends. Evidently English is not foreign to her.

Meantime down below, one of the mermaids, whom we may call the catfish, told Nep where Roxie was, and Nep got so mad he cursed her—cursed her with the most terrible curse of all, he said—the curse of mortal feet. That naturally touched a sympathetic chord in the audience following a hot day yesterday. And he sent a lobster after her to tell her she'd better come home or he'd raise a hell of a storm, and Roxie, being kind hearted and understanding lobster just the same as she did English, went home.

The lover left broken-hearted, but next day she returned to him after having regular legs wished on her. And really, after seeing the legs, it did seem as if much worse things might have happened to her—and to us in the audience!

There is more clap-trap, all to no purpose.

One criticism we have to make of this little gem of the ocean—Capt. Peacocke omitted a chance to get some good soap ad effects!

After all, it all turned out to be a dream of a man we had seen in the opening episodes, philandering on the seashore with a girl. But no matter; we had seen what we had seen! However, in the name of psycho-analysis, what, we ask, was the brand of home brew that gave him such a dream?

SOUTHERN SONG FEAST.

The ensemble of thirty-two voices organized by W. G. Stewart, which is now one of the permanent features of the California Theater program each week, is offering a novelty called "Southland" as the special singing number this week. In a southern setting and attired in old-fashioned southern costumes, they are singing Stephen Foster's and H. T. Burleigh's melodies, including "Old Folks at Home," by Foster; "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," by Burleigh; "Oh, Southland," by Burleigh and Dan Emmet's "Dixie." Mr. Stewart announces that next week he will present the finale of the first act of "The Pirates of Penzance," and he is already rehearsing his ensemble and principals.

DIX WITH FRANKLIN.

The initial scene will be "shot" today for Sidney Franklin's "Parrot and Company." Mr. Franklin will this morning take his company aboard ship and sail for San Francisco, and the ocean liner scenes for the Harold MacGrath story will be filmed en route. Among the players who will accompany Mr. Franklin are Sylvia Breamer, who will have the leading feminine role, and Robert Dix, the Morosco player, who will play opposite Miss Breamer. Upon their arrival in San Francisco the company will journey to Sacramento to take scenes along the Sacramento River. "Parrot and Company" will be the first of three Sidney Franklin productions which are to be distributed by First National.

NEW VICTORY SONG STAR.

A new singer, Ruth Bessern, began limited engagement Sunday at the Victory and enthralled her audiences with her presentation of Bishop's "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark." Her voice proves itself to be of quality. Franz Rath, in the flute obbligato, shares honors in the performance.

REVIEWS.

"THE HUMMING BIRD."

BRILLIANCE MARKS PREMIERE OF MAUDE FULTON PLAY.

By Edwin Schallert.

A haunting waltz from the midnight of mystery, humor that sends forth its illumination like showers of sparks, in a pyrotechnical display, and the personality of that will-o'-the-wisp, Maude Fulton, served to fascinate, if not actually bedazzle, the audience at the first performance of "The Humming Bird" last night at the Little Theater. It was several years since Miss Fulton had been heard from, and the gala nature of a premiere by this popular and fascinating woman was attested in the brilliance attending the opening. Each player received that applause which belongs typically to an initial production, and the theater took on the appearance of a hothouse at the close of the second act, so many were the floral tributes for the playwright and star. Somebody even met the demands of the occasion by sending Miss Fulton a tiny woozy-looking humming bird as a good luck token.

Aside from the glamour which inevitably attends a premiere, there is no doubt about the fact that Miss Fulton's play, "The Humming Bird," is a play. Properly to estimate its merits one must take into account her previous rather noteworthy achievement. In this connection it is interesting to note that there is a certain family resemblance between "The Humming Bird" and "The Brat." It might even be said that "The Humming Bird" is the "brat" with a French accent.

Miss Fulton reveals a better technique in her latest effort, however. The objective of her plot is planted early, and there is none of that customary veering from the purpose that is to be anticipated among the less experienced dramatists, and which was noticeable even in Miss Fulton's own play "Mary."

The aspect of mystery is lent to the drama by keeping the pivotal idea of the heroine's past in the background. Miss Fulton has even gone so far as to characterize this past in the French Apache, who is a mute.

The substance of the plot is a trifle light, and for this reason, some of the dialogue seems too long drawn out. Still the playwright's odd and naive viewpoint, her delightful personal touch lend a rare gayety to the great majority of the scenes.

CHARACTERISTIC AIDS.

So many plays depend for their success on the trifles, and if I judge these, Miss Fulton's "Humming Bird" will take a long and merry flight. She has caught the idea of the value of a musical tune in lending atmosphere, and the one she employs seems to suit her present creation just as "Towsee Mongalay" was the exact melody to accompany the story of "Innocent."

It was perhaps partly a trick of fate, as well as human design that such a splendid cast was assembled for the play. There is no doubt about the suitability of people to parts. How delightful, for instance, was it again to behold Grace Travers lending her human presence to the portrayal of Mrs. Burke, who posed as the French modiste, Mme. Burque. Florence Oberle was picture perfect, too, as the rich lady of affairs. Harlan Tucker gives us a clear-cut young man, ambitious for adventure. Arthur Stewart Hull, Henry Walthall, Joyce Fair and Ernest Anderson were all responsible for very clever portrayals, while Lea Penman does a typical Grace Valentine bit as Billie Newman, the vamping mannikin. Then there is Maude, herself, dear, delightful and magnetic as ever, who wrote her own role and knows its weak points as well as its strong and manages to cover up most of the former.

However, she cannot conceal all the weakness of the psychology. A French girl in New York, who is still green to many American customs, would hardly know enough to advise a young man to tell his sweetheart, as a test of her love, that they were going to live in Kansas. There is a slight confusion in the psychology of the part at times, but the idea of the type is good and reconstruction will help materially to lessen the more obvious deputs. The same might be said of the abrupt, and forced close of the first act, and a portio nof the rather draggy third. These need careful going over, but aside from that, the material in Miss Fulton's play is inspired by her most characteristic and ingenious muse.

RAY AGAIN PROVES COMEDY TALENTS.

Just where Charley Ray gets his recipe is neither here nor there nor anywhere. Whatever the ingredients called for in his comedies the result is always something that is so palatable that you want another portion as soon as possible. We've had two Ray features within the past several weeks, but that doesn't take a bit of the edge off "The Village Sleuth," his latest photoplay, a travesty on detecting, that is showing this week at Grauman's.

Much of the cleverness of Ray's pictures is, of course, to be duly credited to that ingenious young scenarioist, Agnes Johnson, and to the always comprehensive results obtained by the Thomas H. Ince organization, with Jerome Storm acting as director.

"A Village Sleuth" is one of the last films Ray made while at Ince. It is just the same old story of the human youth with the original idea. As usual, he's just seeking for the right opportunity to show that idea is worth something, because nobody around him thinks it's any good. He gets in Dutch with his father and his friends because of some foolish experiment, and then has to try out his game on the larger public. That play succeeds quite by accident is half the charm of his present imitation of Sherlock Holmes.

Ray takes his scheme for detecting to a rest cure establishment, has all kinds of rip-roaring adventures, runs across several mysteries, and finally does capture a real crook.

The plot of the photoplay is clever, of course, but it is the emphasis laid on Ray's comedy talents that is ten times more adroit.

The star is ably supported by Winifred Westover, who looks unusually charming as the little intriguing chorus girl; Donald McDonald, Lew Morrison, and others of ability.

The other main magnet for your attention on the program is a very engaging ballet divertisement staged by the Denishawn dancers. It is always a source of real joy to see these people because their Terpsichorean productions have a basis in an idea. Their technique is lacking in adequacy at times, but their interpretations mean something. They've even found a use for the shimmie, this time in a butterfly dance.

"LONDON FOLLIES" AT PANTAGES THEATER.

There are double headliners this week at Pantages, the added attraction being a local production with a group of girls in new songs, lively dances and lookable clothes. The name of the act is stated in the program as "London Follies," the title being justified by a comedy Englishman and a drunk, to give the Cockney flavor.

"Thunder Mountain," a scenic act, in whih a girl fugitive from justice, the relentless arm of the law and a band of lawless moonshiners are the participants, relies upon stage effects for its vaudeville value. The rain and thunder are realistic.

Mabel Harper was a hit of the program. She is one of the nuttiest of all the nut queens, Winchell and Green do songs and dances under the title of "Puppy Love." Lohse and Sterling open the show with trapeze and Roman ring acrobatics. The woman helper is attractive and the man shows himself a capable comedian in a balancing stunt.

King Baggott continues in the serial "The Hawk's Trail."

AMUSING MUSICAL SHOW AT BURBANK.

"Tll Say So!"

That's the name of the show at the Burbank this week, and no matter who the "I" is, there's no doubt about the ability of Ed Armstrong and Harry Scherr to distill fun out of a series of complications arising over their introduction to the gay life of New York. They meet everything en route, from the mild Bevo to the less mild "hootch," and the climax takes place when they happen to encounter their wives at the inopportune moment.

Armstrong and Scherr furnish the gayety in this production, while Grace Newton and Irene Brooks please with song numbers. The Armstrong Harmony Trio also add to the tunefulness of the show.

COMPLETING "813."

Scott Sidney and Scott Darling, director and writer, respectively, are completing the editing and titling of "813" the seven-reel Arsene Lupin story which the Christies are making for Robertson-Cole. The film features Wedgwood Nowell as the daring French adventurer, the cast including Kathryn Adams, Wallace Beery, Colin Kenny, Ralph Lewis, J. P. Lockney, William Mong, Mark Fenton and Laura La Plante.

Uses Real Experience.

Langdon McCormick, producer of "Thunder Mountain," the feature of this week's Pantages show, received the impressions that developed into this scenic drama, while bear hunting in the Canadian Rockies. With a party of friends Mr. McCormick was overtaken by a storm high up in the mountains, and spent the night in a log cabin built above a mountain stream. The reverberating thunder, the rain falling in cataracts, and the rocks and trees swirling in the swollen torrent combined to give him the idea for his production and he is said to have made use of every device at his disposal to cause "Thunder Mountain" to be a realistic portrayal of that night's experiences.

Enlarge Theater Chain.

Sol Lesser and the Gore brothers yesterday added two new theaters to their large chain when they concluded negotiations for the Rosebud and the New Central. Both of these houses are located on Central avenue and are considered as valuable community houses.

Ralph Grunauer, who recently conducted the Lyric Theater in Stockton and who earned praise for his novel exploitation stunts, will act as general manager of both houses. He has already secured a franchise from Associated First National Pictures, Inc., which will assure him all of the First National product.

Meighan at Garrick.

Thomas Meighan is featured at the Garrick Theater this week in "The Prince Chap," a picturization of the famous play by Edward Peple. The story is a Bohemian romance of sculptors, with beautiful artists' models and the night life of the Bohemian circle as a background. Supporting the star are Kathlyn Williams, Lila Lee, Ann Forrest and Theodore Kosloff. William de Mille directed.

The comedy feature is "Tell Us Ouija," the latest creation of Neeley Edwards and Hughie Fay, the Hall Room Boys.

NO DAMAGES FOR WRECK.

Attorney B. A. Weyl sat as judge of Department Nineteen yesterday and tried the $2589 damage suit of Juanita Evers against the Los Angeles Railway Company. She was injured in a collision between her automobile and a car. The court gave judgement in favor of the company.

He telephoned ...police constable who walked ...station and placed the negro ...arrest. A telegram was then ...Santa Ana, stating the negro, ...in the name of Henry Wat... ...in custody.

The telegram arrived in Santa Ana shortly before midnight Saturday. Sheriff Jackson and his posse were at the border, gathering the evidence that showed conclusively that Gibson was the murderer. In his absence, Undersheriff French at once organized another posse, and with Police Commissioner Tubbs of Santa Ana, prepared to dash toward Needles, where the negro was being held for them.

Motorcycle Officer Frank Stewart, plain clothesman Jesse L. Elliott, Jailer Budge Lacy joined French and Tubbs, and the big touring car was on its way to Needles, more than 300 miles away across the desert.

CHAINED ON PUBLIC VIEW.

They arrived at Needles at 2 o'clock in the afternoon Sunday, after an all-night drive. The little town was a scene of great excitement. The jail there was not considered a safe place for the negro, so he was taken to the courthouse and chained to a heavy table while armed guards remained with him night and day. Everyone in town came to take a look at the man, and soon Gibson grew frantic with fear and began to tear at his chains and feign insanity. When the Santa Ana officers arrived, he calmed down a little. Just before their arrival he tore his shirt into shreds, and then prayed for hours.

With no place to leave their prisoner over night, the officers decided to leave for home at once. The start was made at 7:15, after a tire blowout, and the search for gasoline delayed them. Back across the desert road, following the tracks of the Santa Fe, the big car raced against time and fatigue. At 4 o'clock in the morning the officers and their prisoner arrived at Barstow. There they learned that the arrest and reported confession of the negro were known in Los Angeles, and were printed in the morning papers. Then it was decided that it would not be safe to bring Gibson in by way of San Bernardino.

ELUDE AVENGERS.

After a few minutes for breakfast, the officers left Barstow and took the Victorville Road, making a wide swing around the territory where automobiles from Orange county, carrying loads of grim men with purposes of their own awaited them. From Victorville, the car was turned into the Palmdale road and from Palmdale it raced through the Mint Canyon to Saugus, and then on the boulevard to Los Angeles.

When the dust-covered car arrived in front of the County Jail, Sheriff Jackson and Dist.-Atty. West, with City Marshal Meyers of Fullerton, and Officers Gravath, Carr and Vollmer, who were with the Sheriff on the trip to the border, were waiting for it. In an instant the negro, his chains clanging and shining in the bright sunlight, was hustled into the jail entrance, and the officers crowded in behind him, blocking any possible attempt to get to the badly-scared man.

Gibson showed relief when he was behind the bars. Not until things quieted down, did his moody eyes stop shifting in every direction, and his long, gorilla-like jaw come to rest.

REPELLANT SIGHT.

He was a repellant sight. There was as much hair on his chin as on his head. His thick black lips curled back like the edges of a freshly-inflicted wound. One of his eyes is considerably out of alignment. He walks with a bad limp. Ebony black toes showed through the holes in the tennis shoes he wore—the same white shoes described in all circulars sent out about him.

The chain of evidence against Gibson is complete, Sheriff Jackson declared. The slayer was described by a Fullerton merchant, who sold him a film, and the flashlight, later found near the scene of the crime. The blood-stained jumper found under the loading shed in Fullerton was identified by William Merchant of Chula Vista, a few miles from the Mexican border, as the garment stolen from him Sunday night a week ago. So was a large silver watch. This watch, jumper, and the man himself were well remembered by the customs house officers, when Gibson passed across the line out of Mexico Sunday night. He then gave the name of Henry Washington. Later the officers located a man named in the Imperial Valley, who said he knew the negro, and gave a further description of him.

The socks worn by the slayer were also found by the officers. They, too, were stolen in Chula Vista, establishing for a certainty that the man who gave the name of Henry Washington was the man who murdered Trapp. Another link in this chain, was the fact that the trousers worn by the murderer were found under the shed and were identified. A close examination showed red horsehair clinging to the seat of the trousers, and the color was identical with that of the horse the negro stole, and rode to and from the scene of the murder.

With these facts in their possession, the officers were able to establish the negro's movements. He left Tia Juana Sunday night. He was reported prowling around Chula Vista and in San Diego Monday and part of Tuesday. Wednesday he arrived in Fullerton and committed the crimes that night, arriving in San Diego Thursday. The statements of the conductor of the San Diego train also checked up with the information of the others, weaving a perfect net of evidence. The arrest followed.

Gibson at one time lived in Mexicali for about two years and had a passport to cross to Tia Juana, where he frequently went. He committed a number of burglaries at San Ysidro, the San Diego police say. They were unable to apprehend him at that time and the next heard of him he was arrested at Needles. He is in no way connected with the murder of the woman whose body was buried in Mission Valley, the police think. The identity of the woman has not yet been learned.

HOLLAND SHIPS COMING HERE.

Consul for The Netherlands Announces Sailings.

Will Bring Butter, Passengers; Seek Our Products.

Mutual Benefit Seen as a Result of Trade Move.

Los Angeles Harbor is to have direct connection with Holland, through the establishment of an office for the Holland-America Steamship Company in this city, it was announced last night by F. J. Zeehandelaar, Consul for The Netherlands here.

Mr. Zeehandelaar stated that the company will bring its first steamer here early next month and that it will thereafter run one each way every month, from the home port, Rotterdam, via the Panama Canal. The first vessel to come here will be the Eemdyk. It will bring in a large cargo of butter, cheese, dried herring and other imports and will at the same time carry many second and third-class passengers. All of the steamers on this run will be of the refrigerator type.

According to Mr. Zeehandelaar, the boats will bring in Holland butter cheaper than it can be produced in California, and will offer other imports at attractive prices. In return the Holland importers will want dried fruits, dried and canned fish, barley, rice, flour and all sorts of grains, fine preserves and jellies, olives, olive oil and other Southern California products.

C. Vande Stadt, assistant general manager for the company in New York, has been here engaging wharfage for the Holland vessels, and making a survey of the export and import possibilities. A general office has been opened in San Francisco and a branch will be established here shortly, he stated before leaving yesterday for the East.

Mr. Zeehandelaar points out that Southern California should greatly benefit by making connections with this important steamship line since it can bring here via the canal considerable food such as cheese, butter and dried herring which formerly came to New York and was brought here by railroad. He also calls attention to the fact that the Dutch immigrants, who are said to be headed this way in large numbers, are an exceedingly desirable class of people, among whom there are many farmers and dairymen who will doubtless assist in increasing the food production on the Pacific Coast materially in the course of time.

DAILY TRADE TALK.

Downward Price Trend; Situation Discussed; New Bond Issues.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

The general level of prices for commodities is 130 per cent higher than it was in July, 1914, according to Bradstreet's index, a fact which seems to indicate no over-expansion. In some lines there has been an unequal distribution and this has led to readjustments and occasional price cuts.

It is realized by Los Angeles buyers that the limit is about reached, and that regardless of the question of production and manufacturing costs, there must be a revision downward, simply because the consumer will no longer pay the heavy toll which has been exacted.

We are hearing less of a return to prewar prices. These have gone, and they will not return, at least not for a long time. The best we can hope for is the development of a downward trend of such a broad scope as to include practically all commodities within its purview.

There has already been considerable liquidation, and if we do not expect too much the situation promises to be easier as the season advances. Certainly buyers are proceeding most cautiously, and the consumer is looking twice before purchasing once. No one believes now that there is to be a sudden thud, from the shock of which we will awaken to find prices at a 1914 level. If it were otherwise the circumstances would spell panic, and there is nothing like that in the offing.

THE GENERAL SITUATION.

The monthly letter of the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank says that there is an appreciable slowing down of business except in food supplies, which are still rising.

The reviewer professes to believe that the fundamental reason is that the buying craze has spent itself, and that the great buying public at last stands aghast at the continually advancing prices and has gone on strike against buying anything not absolutely needed, and is even stinting itself on necessities.

"In the end," he says, "these conditions will also affect labor prices which are out of all proportion to the services rendered. As industries slow down, factories close for a few months or longer, unemployment will occur. Instead of three jobs chasing each applicant for work, there will be three applicants for each job. At the same time raw materials will fall in price, and the result will be cheaper production, which will mean cheaper wholesale and retail prices."

FINANCIAL CONDITIONS.

The same authority says that the most striking event in the financial world during the last month was the borrowing by the government of $400,000,000 on its certificates of indebtedness, paying 5½ per cent on a part thereof and 6 per cent on the balance. The latter figure is the highest interest rate which the government has paid since the reconstruction days after the Civil War.

There have also been very large offerings of preferred stocks of industrial corporations and long-time bonds of these corporations, and public utilities, while municipal incorporations have not been backward in bond issues. All of these demands have stiffened money rates. Interest no longer seems any object. Inducements by way of common stock at reduced figures are offered by some corporations to effect the sale of preferred stocks.

The demand for additional capital seems to be widespread and unlimited. Present interest rates being paid by industrial corporations, manufacturers, individuals, producers of either raw materials or manufactured goods, are not going to reduce selling prices to consumers, but will add thereto, unless producers, manufacturers and distributors are willing to do business on a smaller margin of profit than they have been enjoying.

If mills close down, even partially, and industries slow up, interest rates will probably gradually recede, unless the demand for credit by public utilities and municipalities constantly increases.

Tight money conditions, with a slowing up of business, must be expected during the summer months. The Presidential campaign will unsettle business, and the country will hesitate until the result is determined.

LOS ANGELES STOCKS.

The new week on the stock exchange began about where the old week left off, and there was nothing in the day's proceedings to indicate much improvement in business or prices.

The bulk of the trading was represented by transactions in Union Oil and Republic Petroleum and Telluride and Tom Reed mining. All of these issues displayed weakness, although Union of California, held steady around $188. Republic was fairly active at 30½ and 30 3-4 cents. Telluride opened at 35 cents; reacted to 33 and closed with transactions at 34 cents. Union of Delaware was around $31 and Tom Reed moved within a radius bounded by 99 cents on the low side to a high of $1.00½.

Industrials were weak and inactive. Goodyear, preferred, registered sales at $90; Los Angeles Investment, 80 cents. There was little change in Liberty Bonds, Victories being in most active demand around $95.87½.

DUQUESNE A FAST SELLER.

Advices were received yesterday by the local representatives of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago that the $8,000,000 issue of the Duquesne Light Company of Pittsburg, offered locally last Thursday, had been three-quarters sold on Saturday evening.

SOMETHING IN RUBBER.

A syndicate headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the National City Company yesterday offered a $20,000,000 issue of ten-year 7½ per cent secured notes of the United States Rubber Company. The notes not only constitute a direct obligation of the company, but they are further secured by $25,000,000 of the company's first and refunding 6's, due January 1, 1947.

The proceeds of the issue, together with the surplus net earnings of the company, will be used for increasing the size of the company's plant at Detroit, doubling the tire producing capacity of the factory. On May 31 the current assets of the company amounted to more than $197,000,000, with net current assets of more than $132,000,000. The preferred and common stock which the company now has outstanding has an equity of more than $140,000,000.

The total sales for the six months ended June 30 of this year showed an increase of $29,000,000 over the sales for the same period of the preceding year, while the net income for this period increased by more than $3,000,000.

CHAIN STORE FINANCING.

Bonds of the S. S. Kresge Company, which operates a chain of twelve stores throughout the United States, are being offered today by a syndicate headed by Merrill, Lynch & Co. and George H. Burr & Co.

The issue consists of $3,000,000 7 per cent gold notes, due serially from January 1, 1922, to 1926 inclusive. The bonds will be sold at prices to yield from 7 to 8 per cent, according to maturity.

This issue, the only bonded indebtedness of the company, constitutes a direct obligation, and no further indebtedness of this nature will be incurred by the company until these bonds are paid. The strong financial position of the Kresge Company is shown by the fact that earnings for the five years ended December 31, 1919, averaged $1,852,951 per year, and net profits for the year ended December 31, 1919, were in excess of $2,000,000. Net current assets of the company amount to 279 per cent of this issue, while the net tangible assets applicable to the issue amount to 452 per cent of the amount of these notes.

When issued, the notes will carry detachable warrants permitting the purchaser to buy within the maturity of the respective issues, common stock of the company in the ratio of two-thirds of one share for each $100 principal amount of the notes at $150 per share.

Both the common and preferred stock are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The preferred stock has sold as high as $109 and the common as high as $170 per share.

NEW MUNICIPAL ISSUES.

Considerable interest was manifested by local bond dealers yesterday in the sale of two attractive issues. One of $200,000 Long Beach 6 per cent school district bonds went to the Security Trust and Savings Bank, which offered a premium of $1001 for the issue. Other bidders were the Citizens' National Bank, $800; Home Savings Bank, Stevens, Page & Sterling, and the California Company, $448; E. H. Rollins & Sons and the Blankenhorn-Hunter-Dulin Company, $140; Guaranty Trust Company, Banks, Huntley, and Blyth, Witter & Co., $263, and Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, $141.

Bidders for the Long Beach High School $100,000 issue were the Security Trust and Savings Bank, $507; Citizens' National Bank, $400; Home Savings Bank, and Stevens, Page & Sterling, $247; Torrance, Marshall Company, $101; Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, $70; E. H. Rollins & Sons and Blankenhorn-Hunter-Dulin Company, $76; Blyth, Witter & Company and Banks, Huntley Company, $126.

FIRM TONE PREVAILS ON PRODUCE MARKET.

LEADERS MAKE STRONG ADVANCE; HOME-GROWN CANTALOUPES OFFERED.

A strong tone prevailed for all lines of offerings during the session on the local produce market yesterday, despite the fact that arrivals, both by rail and from the country were liberal. Demand was very brisk during the early hours of the session, and the greater part of the country offerings were moved at prices corresponding closely with those of the preceding day. Summer squash advanced sharply during the day under pressure of active buying. Best stock was selling as high as 75 cents per lug, as compared with 50 cents of Saturday's session. Cucumbers, of which supplies were moderate, made an advance ranging from 15 to 20 cents per lug, according to the quality of the offerings. Watermelons were scarce and higher, selling at an advance of about half a cent per pound for the fancy grade stock. Local peaches also firmed up under a brisk buying, good stock selling as high as $2.25 per lug, as compared with the previous high level of $2 per lug.

Although there have been limited arrivals of limas beans on the market during the past few days, receipts increased sharply yesterday. Good stock was in demand, selling at 12 to 16 cents per pound. The first local cantaloupes of the season appeared yesterday, and the market showed strong for the best grades, which were bringing as high as $3.75 per standard crate. Dealers reported that the offerings were of very good quality, for the most part. In the shipping market all lines held firm and practically unchanged.

United States Government Bonds

Ever since the Reconstruction Days following the Civil War have investments of the United States Government sold at such prices as today.

Liberty Bonds are the last word in safety. If they are unsound, every other investment obtainable at this time is worthless.

The hundreds of potential new bond buyers in America who were attracted during the Great War should take their first step into the investment field through this safe doorway. Time and experience will cause them to venture into other securities. Old time investors do not fail to be impressed with the great opportunity afforded by Liberty Bonds at present prices.

Suppose Orange County were a huge farm---

Picture on the map an area just about twice as large as Orange County. Think of it as under one ownership, but broken up into a half-dozen or more huge farms and scattered over the State of California. Imagine the variety of crops raised under a variety of climates and soil conditions—hay, grain, beets, grapes, prunes, apricots, etc. Think of these ranches intersected by rivers, of thousands of acres under irrigation. Think of pasture lands on which graze thousands of head of live stock.

Picture all of this—and you gain a fairly concrete notion of the Miller & Lux, Incorporated, properties.

Suppose all of this vast property, valued at more than $65,000,000, including the $15,000,000 of personal property, were pledged as a security for $12,000,000 7% Ten-Year Gold Bonds—and you have a very exact notion of the Miller & Lux, Incorporated, security which we offer and recommend for the investment of your funds.

We recommend these bonds to you because they are safe and because the income is certain and profitable. The price of these bonds is 100 and interest; the yield is 7%. Exempt from personal property taxes in California.

Call at our office today, write or phone for Circular T-720, descriptive of this high-grade investment.

An Excellent Real Estate Loan

One of the safest investments obtainable is a first mortgage loan on high-grade farm lands, which is not in excess of 40 per cent of the value of the land; especially so, if it can be made for a comparatively long term at the existing high interest rates.

The first mortgage 7 per cent 10-year Gold Bonds of the Miller & Lux Company of California, we think, offer an unusual purchase for the investor, and we cannot recommend them too strongly, both from a standpoint of price as well as security.

We are offering these bonds at par and accrued interest, and will gladly furnish full particulars upon request.

Bond Market

BY C. F. SEIDEL,
Manager, Bond Department, Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank.

The sugar question will undoubtedly be a foremost one for years to come. There is little doubt that the present high cost will not be reduced until the world receives an adequate supply with which to meet the demand. The situation created by the decreased production of sugar is being made more acute by the spread of prohibition which is causing an ever increasing demand for sugar for consumption.

For the crop year 1919-1920 the estimated world production of both cane and beet sugar is placed at 16,600,000 tons. It is further estimated that a production figure of more than 20,000,000 tons will be necessary within the next few years in order to give a free supply of sugar the world over such as obtained in pre-war time. Only with this free and full supply, it is contended, will the price to the consumer be reduced. It is simply the working out of the age-old law of supply and demand.

Comparing crop years 1916-1917 with 1919-1920 statistics show increased production of cane sugar the world over with the exception of Asia. The total production in the Western Hemisphere in 1919-1920 was 6,738,000 tons, as against 5,456,453 tons in 1916-1917. The Asiatic total is given as 4,600,000 tons for the past year as against 4,962,855 tons in 1919-1920. The totals for Australia and Africa were 335,000 and 582,000 tons as compared with 288,731 and 522,513 tons in 1916-1917. The European production (Spain) increased from 4584 tons in 1916-1917 to 6000 tons last year.

As against this world-wide increase in cane sugar production is a general decrease in Europe in beet sugar, caused by the World War. The total production in 1916-1917 was 5,005,762 tons, and 3,469,000 tons in 1919-1920. The opposite is shown, however, in the production of beet sugar in the United States and Canada. The production in 1916-1917 in the United States was 734,577 tons, which was increased in 1919-1920 to 850,000 tons. The production of beet sugar in Canada has been increased from 12,500 tons in 1916-1917 to 20,000 tons in 1919-1920. The world total beet sugar crop for 1919-1920 was 4,339,000 tons, as compared with 5,752,839 tons in 1916-1917. Thus the grand total of cane and beet sugar production for last year is 16,600,000 tons as compared with a grand total of 16,987,975 tons in 1916-1917, an actual decrease in world sugar production in the past three years.

* * * * * * * * *

This production, as heretofore stated, must be increased to at least 20,000,000 tons per annum in order that an adequate sugar supply can be maintained the world over. Beet sowing by the Central Powers and other European nations will undoubtedly increase considerably, as sugar is one of the most convenient and quickest methods of obtaining an export commodity by means of which these countries may more readily settle their external debts resulting from the war.

* * * * * * * * *

Increased production of beet sugar in the United States and Canada will also undoubtedly be brought about so that in a measure the sugar shortage may be taken care of. Many of the beet sugar producers of this country are already taking measures to increase their production.

To do this capital is required for the extension of plants and increased facilities and acreage.

* * * * * * * * *

One of the American beet sugar concerns which has announced its intention to increase its production extensively is the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company, one of the largest in the country, with a present production of 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 bags of sugar per annum, representing about 10 per cent of the total beet sugar production of the country. This concern was founded in Utah in 1891 as the Utah Sugar Company and was reincorporated as the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company in 1907, acquiring at that time the properties of the Idaho Sugar Company and the Western Idaho Sugar Company. The company owns and operates fifteen sugar factories in Utah, Idaho and Washington, each factory manufacturing and refining the best quality of granulated beet sugar. These plants have an aggregate cutting capacity of 11,000 tons of beets per day.

* * * * * * * * *

To provide the additional working capital required by and for the growth of the company's business, a total issue of $8,000,000 First Mortgage Serial 7 per cent Gold Bonds has been authorized. These bonds which are now on sale at the Bond Department of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank, are secured by a closed first mortgage covering its fifteen sugar factories. The bonds, which offer a splendid opportunity for lucrative investment, will yield approximately 7¾ per cent.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The shadow of further labor difficulties was reflected in the stock market today, reports from Chicago and other railroad terminals indicating that the unions would probably protest against the railway labor board wage award.

Mexican affairs also presented less favorable aspects and various oil shares with concessions in that country were under frequent pressure affecting sympathetically numerous kindred issues, including motors and their accessories.

Financial conditions were less acute last week's exhibits of the local Federal Reserve bank, and the clearinghouse association offering ground for the belief that the credit situation at this center is tending towards ease.

This was borne out by the day's movement of demand loans, which opened at 9 per cent, but relaxed to 8 in the last hour, when the market, especially in standard industrials, rallied substantially.

The outstanding feature of the trading however, apart from its dullness, was the absolute aloofness of public interest or support of any kind, save that vouchsafed by pools in selected issues.

Bonds were irregular, a few favorites such as Crucible and Stromberg showing net gains. Sales amounted to 315,000 shares.

Heavy selling of remittances to London affected further depreciation of cable and demand bills, the latter falling to $3.53, with concurrent reaction on the Paris rate and other continental exchanges, including marks.

Bonds were dull and mainly lower, that tone characterizing the Liberty group, also rails and industrials. The one noteworthy exception was the new Armour 7 per cent, which were considerably above their recent subscription price. Total sales, (par value) aggregated $8,350,000. Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

FINANCIAL AND TRADE REVIEW.

Glendale school district bonds William R. Staats & Co. and the Security both bid $206, with the result that the bonds were divided equally between the two high bidders.

The Long Beach bonds will be offered by the Security Trust and Savings Bank today on a 5.75 basis. The assessed valuation of the property which serves as security for these bonds is placed at $36,575,000 and the population of the district is about 50,000. Both districts are coextensive with the city of Long Beach.

NEW STRAUS ISSUE.

S. W. Straus & Co. have just underwritten an amortized first mortgage 6 per cent serial bond issue of $1,000,000 on the land, building machinery and equipment of the Waring Hat Manufacturing Corporation of Yonkers, N. Y.

SIX MONTHS FAILURES.

The tendency toward increase in failures lately developed in various sections of the country finds rather sharp reflection in the insolvency statement for the first six months of 1920, 3352 commercial defaults, with aggregate liabilities of $86,743,876 being reported to R. G. Dun & Co. during that period.

Washington, Oregon and California, the three Pacific Coast States, report 430 business reverses, with total liabilities of $12,302,055, which contrasts with 412 defaults, for $7,269,060 for the corresponding time last year. This is an increase of thirteen each in the two northern States and a decrease of eight in California. Except in this State, the liabilities are increased.

The statement for this section, as a whole, shows more reverses than last year in both trading and other commercial branches, but no change in manufacturing. The indebtedness of the latter classification is materially reduced, and that of the trading occupations is moderately smaller, whereas an increase of more than $6,000,000 is seen in other commercial lines.

CALIFORNIA BEANS.

California bean shippers are still marking time in anticipation of the long-expected activity which has been predicted to begin late in July. According to Parke, Ashburn & Co., the slight decline evidence during the past months has been due to lack of buying, and this in turn is probably due to the large stocks on hand purchased at figures below those at present prevailing. These dealers are now shipping east and taking their profits; in fact, some operators are said to have recently sold for shipment far below what choice stock can be bought from the growers.

This company's reports show that the largest movement from the State during June were of small whites, limas and pinks. Approximately 400,000 sacks of small whites and 125,000 sacks of limas remain in stock, a good part of which is 1918 crop, and in strong hands.

MY LADY NICOTINE.

The tobacco business was never so prosperous as at the present time. This is true in all its branches, wholesale, manufacturing and retail. Cigarettes are increasingly popular, and much of the earlier antagonism is gone, while the export market is rapidly developing. Labor and lumber shortage is annoying the cigar makers, while the paper situation has its effect on cigarette production and cost. The use of snuff is rapidly decreasing. While manufacturers of tobacco products do not take too seriously the talk of reformers, who threaten to assail the industry, a committee representing 90 per cent of the growers of the country has been selected to combat the activities of the crusaders, and to collect a war fund.

RESERVE STATEMENT.

The weekly comparative statement of the condition of business of the Twelfth Federal Reserve Bank, of which Los Angeles is a branch, was issued last evening.

MARKET COMMENT.

Although the copper market is rather quiet, the tone is firm. Business is being done every day in moderate quantities as well as carload lots at 19 cents per pound for third quarter delivery and the leading authorities are optimistic on the outlook. One of the main reasons for the optimism is the fact that the leading sellers are getting orders for small lots from consumers who usually place their business with the dealers who are willing to shade prices. This is taken to indicate that there is little or no metal available from these outside sellers at present.

Awaiting attitude may be seen in the stock market with irregular activity on account of the talk of a strike by the railroad unions in case the wage decision expected to be handed down today, shall be unsatisfactory to them, otherwise money permitting rallying on a stronger technique might well be expected. The European war situation continues to receive close attention in some quarters.

Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad applied to the I.C.C. for permission to issue $9,243,000 in common stock to replace same amount of 4 per cent convertible gold bonds of the issue of 1910.

COTTON CLOSES WEAK ON HEAVY REALIZING.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 19.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 2@46 points on outside general buying based on strong cables, dry rains in the eastern and central cotton States, a forecast for continued showers in the same districts during the week and improved Manchester cloth market advices. The New Orleans market also showed strength starting at an advance of 20 to 60 points.

July was comparatively quiet, and it was understood that considerable cotton was on the way here from Norfolk and Galveston for delivery on July contracts. The market at midday ruled 15@25 points under the highest of the morning and was steady in the absence of aggressive selling due to the continued reports of boll weevil extension.

WHEAT ADVANCES 14 CENTS IN CHICAGO.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 19.—Black rust reports from Minnesota and South Dakota were more numerous, with claims of damage in Minnesota of from 25 to 50 per cent. More damage in the same territory was previously reported and had a direct effect on values. The close was at the best of the day in all markets with wheat up 6¼ to 8 in Chicago.

Coarse grains were helped by the rust reports and the bulge in wheat. Corn closed 2 1-4@2 1-2 higher with September leading; oats were up 1@1 1-8 and rye gained 4@6. July leading.

Minneapolis led the advance in wheat, moving up 14 for December to $2.57 at the close, while Chicago December was $2.50 with March $2.55. Southwestern markets were up 4¾@10. Kansas City leading.

Local traders sold corn early on the break in wheat and spent the rest of the day in covering. July showed weakness and finished 1c under September, the biggest discount at the close so far.

Houses with Northwestern connections were good buyers of oats and absorbed the offerings from the pit element. Junes acted light from the start and gained fractionally on the September. Premiums in the sample market dropped 1c toward the last.

CASH BARLEY WEAK; FUTURES ADVANCE.

Despite the stronger tone of the outside markets, the local grain market was weak yesterday, with prices for nearly all shipments of barley showing a downward trend. Cash barley declined about 50 cents per ton during the call, and the immediate deliveries were from 75 cents to $1.50 per ton weaker at the close of the session. There was no support offered to any of the nearby shipments during the day. In the futures months, July barley dropped $1 per ton, but the other months reflected a slightly stronger tone on account of a moderate degree of buying support which appeared toward the close of the session. August barley moved up 25 cents per ton, with a sale of $2.72½, September barley was unchanged at the close, and December barley made an advance of 50 cents per ton, selling at $2.70 to $2.71 1-4, sales of barley during the call amounted to 400 tons.

Short-Term vs Long-Term Investments

Investors are purchasing short-term securities because of their high yield and relative price stability. There are strong arguments, however, for purchasing securities which should insure to the investor present high income returns for a long period of time.

An ideal combination is a short-term security with a privilege of conversion into a more permanent investment. This combination is afforded by the notes described below.

Star Tosser of Day Not on Diamond.

Dispensing Crackerjack to Children.
Mrs. M. J. Carmody had the task of seeing that the sweets furnished by the Bureau of Catholic Charities were distributed among thousands of youngsters yesterday at Washington ball park.

CHILDREN HAVE GALA DAY.

Crowds at Welfare Program Add Thousands of Dollars to Charity Fund.

Twelve thousand people attended the Child Welfare Day sports at Washington Park yesterday, and besides having a good time added about $15,000 to the treasury funds of the bureau of Catholic charities, for the benefit of orphans and homeless. The program ranged from scenes from the Mission Play to sparring and wrestling matches. Cinema stars imitated pugilists and wrestlers, professional baseball players imitated amateurs, three bands worked overtime, there were real, red-blooded contests and comedy stunts, and if anybody failed to have a good time it was his own fault, for there was music, entertainment and dust for all.

Three thousand of those present were guests who came from numerous homes for both old and young. Six hundred were guests of Mrs. L. N. Young and her daughter, Mrs. Mary Young Moore, who provided them with tickets and dinners, and all the others were similarly the guests of business firms and individuals and firms, who contributed liberally to a fund to give them the outing. Those guests were transported to and from the park in motor trucks volunteered by various automobile companies. "Biz" Clark of the Paige Company was transportation director, and put it all over Walker D. Hines in giving general satisfaction.

It was primarily children's day, and the children knew it. They knew the park was theirs and proceeded to take possession of it. A few policemen made futile efforts to stop them at first, but the kids told the cops to get out of the way and let the real people see the show they had been provided for them.

SWEEP COPS AWAY.

A wave of them overflowed the right bleachers, and, crouching like doughboys starting over the top, swept a hundred feet out on the field before a cop saw them. The cops launched a counter offensive which made the youngsters recede about ten feet. The cops then turned to watch the show and the resistless tide of boys swept forward another fifty feet. The cops swung around and the kids froze like pointers. No one looking into their innocent faces, could imagine they had just crept to the places of vantage they held. They looked as if they had always been there. By the time the boxing and wrestling got really interesting the boys had all ringside seats, on the turf.

It was the same when candy and ice cream cones were given out. About $500 worth of such treats was given to the youngsters—that is, it was intended to give the treats to them, but in a very few minutes they crowded about the dispensers and took charge of the distribution themselves. Young women with baskets full of candy held them high and pleaded and ordered, but the children swept over them like a cattle stampede. Miss Anna Venneman, one of the candy distributors, had to be rescued from a swarm of youngsters, who swept her off her feet.

"If the Lord helps those who help themselves, we needn't worry about the rising generation here," she panted, as she hurried away to a quiet sector of the bleachers to see if she was all there.

The auctioning of an autographed baseball and an autographed bat sent by Babe Ruth and another bat sent by Ty Cobb, resulted in some lively bidding. Samuel M. Shortridge, candidate for the United States Senate, paid $150 for the baseball, Ben Fahy bought Ruth's bat, for $175 and Kelly Powers, son of Johnny, bought the willow "the Georgia Peach" had contributed for $55.

BANDS DROWNED OUT.

The Santa Rita Settlement Band, composed of boys, 8 to 12 years old, and the veterans' band from the Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle, Alternated with the Rose Field Balloon School Band throughout the afternoon, and several times the happy youngsters quieted down to such an extent, that the music could almost be heard. For an hour and a half before the sports started, the music of all three bands was enjoyed by the whole crowd, but as the children grew happier and noisier, the only way one band could tell if one of the others was playing, was by watching, not listening.

Frank Chance and Mike Donlin, famous ballplayers of bygone days, took part in the ball game between the Angels and the Tigers. The results of the sport program will be found in the sport section.

Arrangements for the entertainment were in charge of a committee of 100, of which Rev. W. E. Corr was director and A. W. Henrikus, assistant director and general manager.

Invitations to attend were sent to the following institutions, all of which Mr. Henrikus said were represented: Los Angeles Orphanage Asylum, Regina Coeli Orphanage, St. Catherine's Orphanage, Japanese Orphanage, Good Shepherd Home, Little Sisters of the Poor, Santa Rita Settlement, Brownson House Settlement, St. Patrick's Home for Aged, County Hospital, County Farm, Forsythe Memorial School, Frances DePauw School, Jane Couch Home, Japanese Children's Home, Kiddie Koop, Lark Ellen Home, Los Angeles Orphans' Home, Maud Booth Home, McKinley Industrial Home, Frances Willard Home, Hebrew Sheltering Home for the Aged, Hollenbeck Home for Aged, Pacific Old People's Home, German M. E. Church Home, Swedish Baptist Pacific Home, Barlow Sanatorium, Children's Hospital, Ebell Rest Cottage, Convalescents, Hebrew Consumptive Relief Association, Children's Hospital, Orthopedic Guild, Strickland Home for Boys, St. Elizabeth's Day Nursery, Mother Cabrini's Day Nursery, Mother Cabrini's Preventorium, Soldiers' Home and others.

NEW RAIL TRAFFIC PLAN.

A plan for the relief of congestion and the elimination of dangerous grade crossings in the city on the Southern Pacific, Salt Lake and Pacific Electric lines by taking advantage of the present facilities of the three roads, was outlined yesterday by H. B. Titcomb of the Pacific Electric in a talk before the employees of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. The plan was one in opposition to the one announced by the State Railroad Commission.

In his talk Mr. Titcomb stated that the Southern Pacific and the Salt Lake would combine their terminals in the present Arcade Station and will unite with the Pacific Electric in the building of an elevated out of the city for all passenger and freight lines.

According to these plans, the Pacific Electric would extend its elevated out of the Main street station to a point east of the river for north-bound traffic, and to a point at Fourteenth street and Long Beach avenue for south-bound trains. The steam lines will then build a road to the elevated from the Arcade and this will handle all travel of both the Southern Pacific and the Salt Lake.

Mr. Titcomb stated that the Arcade is capable of accommodating 400 trains a day, and that all that arrive and leave at present are 100. He said that should this plan be adopted the railroads would be able to make all improvements without outside aid.

Daughter Gone, Deputize Mother to Seek Return.

Mrs. Bertha Terry, who lives at 1850 East Fifty-seventh street, was deputized yesterday by Sheriff Cline to go to San Francisco to secure the return, if possible, of her daughter, Grace Violet Moore, who it is charged, was abducted by Charles Ergo. The accused abductor is under arrest in the Bay City.

The mother was accompanied by one of the deputy sheriffs when she started north last night. It is asserted that the girl is under age and that she had been induced by Ergo to leave her home and go away with him. Mrs. Terry hopes to get her daughter to return with her.

CANDIDACY INDORSED.

Samuel M. Shortridge, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, was notified here yesterday of an indorsement of his candidacy by Republican County Central Committee of San Joaquin county. The notification was signed by Arthur L. Levinsky, chairman.

Worn Out In Mind and B

Your child is quick to observe disturbances in your mental or physical condition. And when he asks: "What's the matter?" there's a tone of solemn anxiety in his little voice. The shadow stamped upon you reflects intensely upon him because of his dependent attitude. He at once drops his playthings and rushes to your side. The happy smile has disappeared and his buoyant spirits are gone, replaced by a countenance of worry and a bearing of hopelessness.

You owe it to the happiness and welfare of your family to keep this in mind. You are the sun and the inspiration of their lives. Dark clouds hover over their heads the instant you show signs of being "out of sorts" or "run down." Don't imperil their future by neglecting your health.
